

TO KILL ALFONSO

Daring Attempt on Life of King of Spain

MALAGA, Spain, Jan. 7.—What is believed by many to have been an attempt upon the life of King Alfonso occurred during his brief visit here on Thursday, and threw his attendants into a state of panic.

The facts became generally known for the first time today. The king, accompanied by Premier Canejas, the ministers of war and marine, had arrived here en route for Melilla for a week's stay in the vicinity of the Spanish town in Morocco. At the station his majesty was acclaimed by a great throng that joyously followed the carriage in which he drove, with the mayor to the palace of the governor-general.

Arriving at the palace, the king stopped down from the carriage and, turning for a moment, again acknowledged the cheers and then entered the palace. As the door swung closed behind him an explosion in the crowd outside drowned the cheers. Before the alarmed and stampeded mass fully realized just what had happened, grenades had blossomed in about the spot from which the report arose. It was found that two persons had been slightly injured, but no other harm was done.

An official account of the incident says that it was unimportant. A civilian "dropped a pistol" enclosed in a box. No further details were made public. Yesterday the king and his party boarded the royal yacht and proceeded for Melilla. The yacht was convoyed by warships.

BOYS COME TO GRIEF

Landed in Police Court

Joseph Burns, aged 18 years, of Boston, and Thomas F. Lane, 19 years, of Cambridge, were arrested in Middlesex street last night by Patrolman John H. Clark for stealing a pair of trousers valued at $2 which were hanging outside the store of Isaac Parosky in Middlesex street. When arraigned in police court this morning each entered a plea of guilty and offered no defense. They were fined $15 apiece.

The young men were passing through Middlesex street early last night and upon seeing the trousers one of them took them off the hanger and both ran away. One of the clerks in the store had seen the defendants about the place and was able to give Patrolman Clark a good description of them.

The patrolman came across one of the young men outside the depot and after placing him under arrest went to a nearby lunchroom where he found the other. The latter was getting some food for nothing, the clerk in the cart having taken pity on him. When arraigned it was found that the young man who was taken from the lunchroom had the trousers tucked under his coat.

When they were questioned as to their reason for being in Lowell, they said they had ridden on a freight train from Boston to Ayer and had walked from Ayer to Lowell and they took the trousers to sell in order to get some money to buy something to eat.

Case Continued.

The case of Constant Samowski, charged with assault and battery on Stanislaw Kozlowsky, was continued till Monday by agreement of counsel.

Other Offenders.

There were but two drunken offenders before the court. Edward P. Brown was given a sentence of four months in jail, and one first offender was fined $2.

The local board of health has never been able to make a complaint against a milk dealer for "watered milk." The complaint has always read "milk below standard." The fine for watering milk, the minimum fine, is $50, while the average fine for selling or having in one's possession milk below the standard is $10.

AVIATION MEET

WAS OPENED IN SAN FRANCISCO
TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Under clear skies, in crisp air hardly stirred by a breath, San Francisco's first aviation meet opened today. The forenoon hours were given over to novices, of whom brought planes to the field. Multifarious machines, some of the standard makes and some of such rare types as the V-shaped biplane and the multiplane were to be seen. They will compete for distance, duration, height and speed.

The professional contests will take place this afternoon. Two bird men from over seas are on the field—Hubert Latham of France and James H. Doolittle of England. Glenn Curtiss is at the head of his own camp with Charles Willard and Eugene Ely as assistants. The Wright brothers, are represented by Walter Brookins and Philip Parmelee. With the exception of a few brief flights made here by Paulhan last year nothing has been seen of professional aviation displays in this part of California.

DRASTIC BILLS

Betting

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 7.—Identical bills of the most drastic nature have been introduced in both houses of the legislature which are intended to put a stop to betting of all kinds. Imprisonment from 30 days to a year is the penalty with alternative fine. The betting legislation is against any contest of skill, speed or power of endurance of man or beast or between men, beasts or mechanical apparatus, or upon the result of, or purported result of, any lot, chance, casualty or any known contingent event whatsoever.

SPOTLESS TOWN

Only One Lowell Indictment

Reports Many Cases of Diphtheria

That there is considerable diphtheria in Lowell at the present time is evidenced by the call for anti-toxin at the office of the board of health. The number of cases is not alarming by any means, but it is generally understood that all cases are not reported to the office of the board of health. Dr. Jas. J. McCarty, chairman of the board of health, called at the office of the board of health this forenoon to get anti-toxin. Dr. McCarty, speaking of the use of anti-toxin, said: "The people should be educated as to the value of anti-toxin at the beginning of the disease. It is absolutely imperative that it should be applied at an early date in order to get the best results. I treated the disease before anti-toxin was ushered in and I know the value of it."

NEWSPAPERS

ARE TO BE DELIVERED BY AERO-PLANE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—The delivery of newspapers by aeroplane is scheduled to be made tomorrow when Didier Mason will fly from this city to San Bernardino, 80 miles, carrying an edition of a local paper. The route will include Pomona, where a descent is to be made and papers delivered to the agent. He will then continue to San Bernardino.

Mason will give an exhibition in San Bernardino early in the afternoon and later will return to Pomona for exhibition flights.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors who by kind acts and sympathetic words encouraged me during the illness and death of my sister, Miss Emma Gallagher. To all I am deeply grateful as well as to those who sent floral offerings. Their kindness will ever be remembered by me.

BANK IS CLOSED

Supt. of Banks Takes Charge of
Carnegie Trust Company

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Carnegie Trust Co. was closed this morning by direction of the state superintendent of banks, O. H. Cheney. It has a capital of $1,500,000 and deposits aggregating about $10,000,000. The institution was in serious trouble in the panic of 1907 and has never fully recovered. Its late president, Mr. Dickinson, died last year under peculiar circumstances.

The institution was organized in 1907 and after the retirement of Leslie M. Shaw from the office of the secretary of the treasury he became its president. The name of Carnegie as applied to this institution attracted to it a great deal of attention, but the adoption of this name was without Mr. Carnegie's authority or approval. It is understood he was not a stockholder and not immediately identified with it. Mr. Shaw's connection with the bank ceased after a few months because of differences with the other officers of the institution.

The Carnegie bank occupies handsome quarters on Broadway in the heart of the financial district.

News of the suspension spread rapidly, and hundreds of depositors had assembled about the doors even before the usual hour of opening. The following notice was placed on the doors of the company:

"Pursuant to the provisions of section 19 of the banking laws of the state of New York, as amended, I have this day taken possession of the Carnegie Trust Co. (Signed)

O. H. Cheney,
Superintendent of Banks."

This notice was posted shortly before 10 a. m., which is the usual hour of the opening of the bank. The state officials had made their plans earlier in the day and it was evident that their actions had been expected as things had already begun to gather. The doors remained closed.

The following statement was issued by Supt. Cheney:

"The superintendent of banks has taken possession of the property and business of the Carnegie Trust company, located at 115 Broadway, borough of Manhattan."

Examination of the affairs of this company has caused the superintendent to conclude that it is in an unusual condition to transact business and that it is not safe for it to continue. The examination is not yet complete and no further statement can be made at the present time."

The principal officers of the bank are:

President, J. T. Howell; Vice Presidents, Robert Smith and James Curran; secretaries, Robert Marshoud.

The directors of the company are: David Bates, A. W. Burchard, W. J. Cummings, A. B. Chandler, M. J. Condon, George W. Court, George D. Crabbs, John Cuddey, James R. Curran, W. A. Keener, S. H. Kresh, L. T. Lewis, L. F. Lewisohn, Bradley Martin, Jr., C. A. Moore, Jr., E. F. O'Neill, J. B. Richmond, J. P. Rupert, Charles M. Schwab, G. C. Smith, and J. B. Stanchfield.

CRUSADE BEGUN DANGEROUS FIRE

To Stop Trading and Selling of In Building at Corner of Plain Broken Down Horses and Tanner Streets

The influx of aged and decrepit horses into this city from surrounding cities and towns will soon come to a stop, if the efforts of Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society and Judge Hadley of the local court are of any avail. Agent Richardson, who always active in looking after the welfare of the dumb animals, is about to start a crusade which will lead to a number of arrests if people try to bring old broken down horses into Lowell for the purpose of disposing of them, and Judge Hadley in conversation with representatives of the press this morning expressed his opinion as to what he would do to the offenders in order to teach them lessons which they would not forget.

The matter was brought to the attention of the newspaper representatives by Judge Hadley at the conclusion of the case of Samuel Shatz of Lawrence, who was charged with cruelty to a horse, found guilty and a fine of $5 imposed. The light fine was imposed because it was learned that Shatz did not own the animal in question, but had been paid by a Lawrence man to lead it over the road to Lowell where it was to be disposed of.

Last Thursday morning Shatz was leading one of the worst specimens of horseflesh imaginable through Bridge street when Patrolman John Leighton saw him and took the man and the horse to the police station. The animal was 25 years of age, broken down, spavined, had sores all over its body, and had the flesh gouged out of one of its ankles where it had interfered.

Shatz told what the police consider a straightforward story. He said he had a family, was out of work and when offered a dollar to lead the horse to Lowell he did so. He said that it took him four hours to cover the nine miles between Lawrence and this city. He said he was going to take the horse to a place in Lowell where he was to meet Mr. Lund, the representative of the Red Acre farm of Stowe, expecting to realize a few dollars on the animal.

Red Acre farm is what might be called a home for aged horses and is supported by charity. It has representatives who visit the different sales stables and when an old broken down horse is auctioned off for a few dollars the agent buys the animal and then has it killed. If the horse is not in very bad condition it is sent to the Red Acre farm, where it is well fed, treated kindly and cared for by experienced men.

A number of broken down horses have been brought from Lawrence and Nashua to this city and while some animals are led through the street in broad daylight others are brought in under the cover of darkness.

What might have proved to be a serious fire and probably result in the loss of a life, broke out in the three story wooden building at the corner of Plain and Tanner streets shortly after four o'clock this morning. The sprinkler system in the building held the flames in check until the firemen arrived on the scene, the latter having been alarmed by the large gong on the outside of the building which started to clang as soon as the sprinkler head melted and the water began whirling about the vicinity of the fire.

The building is unoccupied at the present time. A watchman is kept there night and day. He was asleep when the fire broke out, but fortunately he awoke before the dense volume of smoke penetrated the room in which he was sleeping.

It was about 4:15 o'clock that the members of Hose Co. No. 3, which is located nearby, were awakened by the clanging of the water gong on the outside of the building. They made a quick hitch and were soon on the scene. Owing to the dense smoke, it was deemed advisable to secure assistance and word was telephoned to Chief Hosmer and the latter sent the Westford street truck, to assist the hosemen.

The fire which started over the boiler in the basement of the building was soon located and soon extinguished, but not before considerable of the wood work had been burned away. The watchman informed Chief Hosmer that he heard an explosion and was of the opinion that one of the tubes had burst, but an examination by the firemen failed to show that there had been any explosion.

TOBACCO DEALERS MAY UNITE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 7.—At the election of officers of the Burley Tobacco union yesterday J. W. Gale of Owen county was elected president by acclamation. Congressman J. Campbell Cantrell, president of the Kentucky branch of the American Society of Equity, was in conference last night with leaders of the new organization with a view of co-operation and it is probable that the two bodies will join hands. The growers convention and advisory board finally adjourned to meet again March 6.

LOCOMOTIVE ON FIRE

Unusual Spectacle Seen by Hundreds of Persons

MAIDEN, Jan. 7.—A locomotive ablaze, with the engineer and fireman at their posts, was the unusual spectacle which attracted the attention of hundreds of persons in this city early last night. It was the locomotive hauling the train which leaves Boston at 5.55 for Lynn over the Bangor branch. The fire near the firebox blew out soon after leaving Maiden. The curtains and the woodwork in the cab caught fire and, fanned by the wind, burned briskly as the train passed. Franklin street on the way to the Faulkner station. Engineer H. P. Goodwin and his fireman, H. J. Morrow, showed their pluck and remained at their places notwithstanding the danger. The cotton packing round the boiler was soon ablaze and the smoke poured out from the cab in heavy clouds. Pedestrians on the street stopped in amazement and the reflection lighted up the houses, bringing many people out of doors to learn the cause.

Goodwin ran the train to the Faulkner station, where it was sidetracked. The locomotive detached and the fire extinguished. The accident caused a delay in the schedule, for only one track, that for inbound trains, was available for some time. Trains bound in both directions were run over that track.

While many of the passengers were aware of the fire, there was little excitement and no one was injured. The engine was hauled to the Boston repair shops and it will cost about $1900 to put it back in shape.

THE FIRST LINK A SELF MADE MAN DOCTORS FIGHT

Of the Proposed Inland Waterways Is the New Senator Trouble in Office in Manchester From Ohio

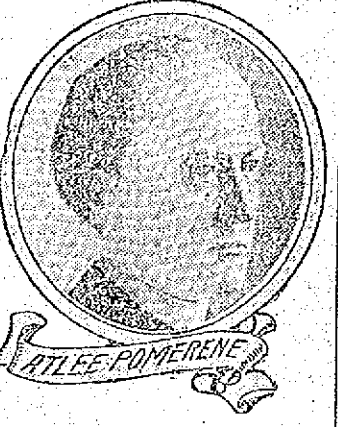

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 7.—Twenty-five hundred people, including many men prominent in state and nation, tendered yesterday a public celebration of the completion of the first link of the proposed inland waterways from Maine to Florida, on the banks of the waterway near Beaufort, N. C.

The celebration was presided by a parade of naval and government boats, headed by the revenue cutter Pinicola, while probably one hundred gasoline launches brought up the rear.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly, welcoming the visitors and paying tribute to the captain, Earle Brown, chief of U. S. engineers in charge of the work, who declared the waterway officially open.

The canal has been under construction since 1907 and was completed last December. It shortens the distance from Oriental, Newbern and other points to Beaufort and southern ports about 20 miles and gives double the depth of water. The canal is 10 to 250 feet wide and 10 feet deep at mean low water, while at high tide it will give about 12 feet. The length is 20 miles, five of which were cut through dry land, the remainder by dredging and straightening Adams and Cares creeks. The canal gives an inside route to coastwise vessels, enabling them to avoid treacherous Hatteras and Cape Lookout.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 7.—Lieutenant Governor-elect Mike Pomerene, progressive democrat, will be the next United States senator from Ohio. Pomerene is a self made man. He was born at Berlin, O., forty-seven years ago, a poor boy. He worked his way through school and through Princeton. He practiced law in Canton. In 1908 he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor and was defeated by Harmon. In November he was Harmon's running mate. He is married, but has no children. Pomerene will qualify Jan. 9 and preside over the senate until he goes to Washington on March 4. Through Pomerene's selection a coal miner may become governor of Ohio.

William Green, president pro tem of the senate, will succeed to the office of lieutenant governor. Should Governor Harmon become the democratic candidate for president he probably would resign as governor, and Senator Green would succeed him. Green was a former president of the Ohio miners.

D. F. McMahon of Fitchburg will coach the baseball team this season. He has been playing professional ball for a number of years and has coached several academy and high school teams. He is said to be an excellent coach.

THE BOYS' CLUB

Officers Chosen by the Directors

The directors of the Lowell Boys' club held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon and re-elected the following officers: President, William S. Southworth; vice president, Franklin Nourse; secretary, Greenleaf C. Brock; treasurer, Lewis E. MacBryne; auditor, Ralph E. Brewer, trustee for three years, John J. Pickman.

James H. Stewart, the superintendent of the club, presented the following interesting report:

"The attendance for the past three months has been very good, having an average of more than 200 boys per night. In November the attendance was not as large as it generally is, probably on account of the fine weather. But in December our rooms were crowded every evening making our average about the same as in other years. On the night before Christmas we distributed some 270 bags of oranges, candy and popcorn to as many boys and on the following Monday gave the balance of the 300 bags made ready to boys who were not there on Christmas eve.

"The classes in carpentry, cobbling, cane-sealing and sign-lettering are running as usual, with as much interest as in previous years. The carpentry class is finishing a few tables for games which were needed.

MEDICINE HAT

PROPOSED CHANGE OF NAME AROUSES KIPLING'S WRATH

(From the Emporia Gazette.)

The town bearing the above unique name is greatly exercised over the fact that the name is used in a flip-pant way by newspapers all over the country. It is a venerable joke that the billiards all come from Medicine Hat.

In the days when that burgh was small and struggling and peopled by pioneers, nobody cared for this; in fact, the hardy settlers enjoyed it; they were glad to have the village advertised in any connection.

But Medicine Hat has grown, and now it has a Commercial club, and the real estate agents are numerous, and extremely jealous of the reputation of the place. The real estate agents and prominent business men have come to the conclusion that the town never will be better known as long as it bears the name of Medicine Hat, and they are talking of changing the name to something modern, something suggestive of great values in real estate, something that will appeal to prominent business men the world over.

Report of the contemplated change reached Rudyard Kipling in his sequestered English home and stirred him up to wrath. As a young man Kipling went to Medicine Hat largely because the name attracted him. A town with such a name must be worth seeing. Ever since then he has had an affectionate regard for the border town with the queer Indian name. So when the story reached him he sat down and opened a gold plated bottle of green ink and took his pen in hand, and wrote a corking letter to the prominent business men of Medicine Hat. Following is a part of the letter:

"To my mind the name of Medicine Hat has an advantage over all the names I have heard quoted. It echoes the old Cree and Blackfoot tradition of red mystery and romance that once filled the prairies. Also it hints adventure to think, at the magic that underlies the city in the shape of your natural gas. Believe me, the very name is an asset, and as years go on will become more and more of an asset. It has no duplicate in the world. It makes men ask questions, and, as I knew more than twenty years ago, it draws the feet of the young men toward it. Men do not think much of a family which has risen in the world changing its name for social reasons. They think still less of a man who, because he is successful, repudiates the wife who stood by him in his early struggles. I do not know what I should say, but I have the clearest notion of what I should think of a town that went back on itself.

"There is the case for the defense, advanced as only Kipling could advance it, and may be hoped that the real estate agents and prominent business men of Medicine Hat will quit their foolishness and permit their town to glory in the name that has become a household word all over the world.

"The largest, most famous Indian name had a pretty little Indian name that was known everywhere. 'Wandottu' was as well known as Denver or Omaha. When the town bore that name it had an individuality; it occupied a distinct place on the map; when men mentioned it, it was not associated with any other town. No other town of my acquaintance had the name. It should be taken as a priceless possession. It was a trademark, and a most attractive one.

"For some reason that only the gods can understand, that charming distinctive name was abandoned, and the town deliberately assumed a name that marked it forever as a mere suburb of a city in Missouri. Wandottu became Kansas City, Kan., and ever since the change was made the town has been a no-name town. Kansas City regards it as a poor relation, and the state of Kansas is always wondering why the town doesn't move across the river and be done with it. A woman when she marries, can change her name without sacrifice of dignity or self-respect, but a woman is the only creature under the sun that can do it.

PROSPEROUS YEAR

INCREASE IN THE IMPORTATION OF 'LUXURIES'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—That the year 1910 must have been a reasonably prosperous one in the United States is indicated by the figures of importation of the class of articles usually termed "luxuries." No more satisfactory barometer of general business conditions is found than the figures representing the importation of articles purely or chiefly luxuries, including diamonds and other precious stones, furs, lace, art works, wines, tobacco and manufactures thereof, and other articles of this character. This is illustrated by a glance at the yearly record of imports as recorded by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. In years of marked depression, 1894 and 1895, for example, the value of diamonds and other precious stones imported dropped from 16 million dollars in 1893 to 5 1/2 million in 1894, 7 1/2 million in 1895, and about 6 1/2 million in 1896; gradually moving upward again until 1909 and reaching a total of 22 million in 1903 and 42 million in 1907. In the fiscal year 1908, a year of business depression, the total fell to 16 1/2 million dollars, returning to 29 million in 1909 and 43 million in the fiscal year 1910, while the figures of the calendar year will not materially differ from those of the fiscal year.

The figures of diamond importations above cited are merely an example of the evidences of prosperity supplied by the figures of imports. In autos, art works, lace, furs, furs, wines and liquors, tobacco, decorated chinaware, and numerous other articles named in the list of importations, the figures of 1910 are large, and the importation of articles usually classed as "luxuries" will show a total of between 20 and 30 million dollars' value. Of lace and embroideries alone the value imported during the year just ended approximated 45 million dollars; a very large proportion of which was of cotton. This class of importations also shows considerable fluctuations according to conditions of prosperity or otherwise, though the fluctuations are not so great as in the case of diamonds. The value of cotton laces, embroideries, etc., imported in the fiscal year 1893 was 12 1/2 million dollars and dropped in 1894 to 3 million dollars. Again in the 1907-8 period of depression, the value of importations of this class dropped from 30 1/2 million dollars in the fiscal year 1907 to 33 1/2 million in 1908, returning to 34 1/2 million in 1909 and 35 1/2 million in 1910.

Among the other articles of importation in 1910 which are usually classed as luxuries are: Silk laces, 4 1/2 million dollars; laces of flax and other similar fibers, 4 million; tobacco, cigars, etc., 33 million; furs and fur skins, 21 million; art works, 21 million; spirits, wines and liquors, 20 million; feathers and flowers, natural and artificial, 11 million; toys, 8 million; mahogany, 3 1/2 million; jewelry, 2 million; manufactures of gold and silver, 2 million; and beads and ornaments, perfumery, cosmetics, shells, orchids, pipes and smokers' articles, and musical instruments in various sums between 1 million and 2 million dollars each.

The principal sources from which these luxuries are drawn are, in the case of manufactures, Europe; in the case of tobacco, mahogany, and other articles of this class, the tropical sections; while the 25 million dollars' worth of furs and fur skins originate largely, of course, in the frigid or semi-frigid sections of the world. Most of the imported laces, whether of cotton, flax, or silk, are made in Switzerland, France, Germany, Belgium, England, and Ireland; most of the tobacco and cigars come from Cuba; most of the art works, from various European countries, and most of the toys, from Germany.

JURY'S FINDING

In Case of Death of Cumberland Couple

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 7.—"Came to their deaths by means unknown to the jury."

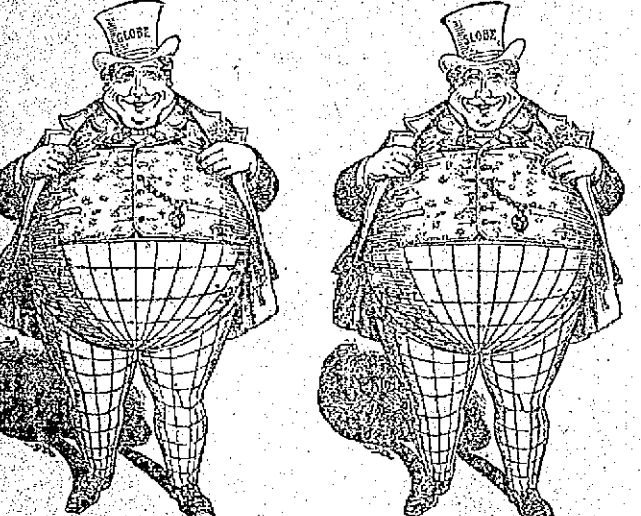

This was the conclusion reached by the 12 men who for nearly five hours last night heard testimony relative to the deaths last Saturday of Grace Blosser and Charles T. Twigg, whose dead bodies were found by Mrs. Blosser, the mother of the dead girl, on a sofa in the parlor of the Blosser home. The tragedy occurred less than 20 hours prior to the time that had been set for the marriage of the victims.

One of the points brought out was that May Blosser, one of Grace's sisters, had, after helping their mother carry Grace's body from the parlor to a bed in a room in the rear, herself been seized with illness which showed symptoms of poisoning by hydrocyanic acid.

No connection between this and the deaths of the others, however, was made apparent by the questioning of the witnesses.

There was abundant testimony that careful examinations of the bodies by medical men and chemists showed that cyanide of potassium caused the deaths of Twigg and Grace Blosser. How the poison was brought into the house is still a mystery.

BIG "MOTOR BOAT"

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A steamship line plying between this port and Russia announced yesterday that it will put into commission next September an 11,000-ton trans-Atlantic "motor boat" equipped with internal combustion engines and accommodations for 400 passengers. The ship is now building at the Clyde.

One of the German lines has also building two 800-ton motor driven freighters.

The outcome of this experiment will be watched with the keenest interest, not only by the merchant marine, but by the world at large. It promises a pronounced success, the days of steam will be counted as numbered.

SUPREME COURT

Finds Street Railway Co's. are Liable

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Street railway companies are liable for injuries sustained by passengers who may be injured in seeking to alight from a car in the face of a crowd boarding it and also for injuries due to a passenger slipping on the car step, according to a decision handed down by the full bench of the supreme court yesterday. The court had before it the cases of Katherine Glennon and Mary R. Kingston. The former was attempting to leave a car of the Boston Elevated Railway company and was forced back and injured by the crowd rushing to get seats while the latter slipped on mud, which had accumulated on the car step, as she was alighting and fell to the ground. Both cases came to the supreme court on exceptions.

BOTH DRANK POISON

One 'Sister' Dead and Other is Not Expected to Live

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Arms interlinked and facing a mirror to watch their dying expressions, Mabel and Isabella Rousseau, sisters and members of a prominent family, drank poison last night in a confectionery store here. Mabel died at the city hospital and her sister is not expected to live. Before taking the poison one of the girls requested the proprietor to call a policeman.

Not until Mabel fell off the chair, writhing in pain, was any attention paid to the girls. The second sister dropped to the floor soon after Mabel collapsed.

"We are tired of living," was the last message written by the partners in the suicide pact.

The despondent girls drank the poisons from soda water glasses.

LABOR TROUBLES IN LYNN

LYNN, Jan. 7.—A peculiar industrial muddle exists at the shoe factory of Albert Creighton in this city, where the lasters have made a demand on the firm for an increase of half a cent a pair on cloth and calf shoes. The Creighton factory is the only factory in the city having a twelve months agreement with the union, under the terms of which no strike can be declared and all disputes are to be referred to arbitration. The union and the firm have each named two arbitrators, but these have been unable to agree except to name John H. Madden, a local business man, as the fifth arbitrator, and Mr. Madden has declined to serve. Several other men have been named as the fifth arbitrator but Mr. Madden was the only one on whom both sides could agree. The settlement of the controversy appeared today to be somewhat distant.

TO INQUIRE INTO LORENZ'S SANITY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 7.—A new commission was appointed today to examine into the sanity of Ernest Lorenz, who is now awaiting trial for the murder of Gilbert Mann in Johnston on Jan. 8, 1910, and also for a number of highway robberies. A former commission reported last summer that while Lorenz was insane he was "normally responsible" for the crimes with which he is charged. The naming of another commission today was at the request of Walter Wightman, agent of the state board of charities and corrections, who claims that Lorenz should not be tried for murder because of the fact that he is insane.

THE "ENEMY" DISCOVERED

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—The naval demonstration against the Atlantic coast by the returning North Atlantic squadron under command of Rear Admiral Schroeder has been defeated by the defending fleet, under the command of Rear Admiral Stanton, in the opinion of the naval authorities, who learned today that the "enemy" had been discovered and located off the coast.

Rear Admiral Schroeder sailed from Europe ten days ago with 16 battleships for Guantanamo, with orders to threaten the Atlantic coast on the way, the game being to get as close to the coast as possible without being discovered.

Rear Admiral Stanton was placed in the command of the defending fleet and given the warships Tennessee, Montana, North Carolina, Washington, Birmingham and Salem. This fleet sailed earlier in the week and has been on patrol from Eastport to Jacksonville. Wireless telegraphy was eliminated during the game, and it was necessary to locate the "enemy" under the old conditions.

It is understood that having been discovered, the attacking fleet continued on its way to the West Indies.

STRUCK ON BAR

Schooner Had to be Abandoned

CHATHAM, Jan. 7.—The Rockland, Me., schooner Silver Heels, after 40 years of active service along the Atlantic coast, has selected the shifting sands of Nantucket shoals as her last resting place, orders having been given today to abandon her. The Silver Heels was edging her way from a New Brunswick port to New York with a cargo of laths when her skipper tacked too far inshore after passing Shovel lightship last Thursday, and the schooner struck on the bar that makes out just to the southward of Monomoy Point light-house.

The livesavers and the revenue cutter Gresham worked all day yesterday trying to drag her into deeper water and two big hawsers were parted before the attempt was given up.

A band of Chatham wreckers will save what they can for the owners, but the greater part of the Silver Heels will be swallowed by the shifting sands to mingle with the bones of hundreds of other unfortunate coasters.

COLONIZATION PROJECT

Of International Scope Planned by Catholic Clergymen

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—A colonization project of international scope and which will not only attempt to turn the tide of immigration from cities to the country but in a measure to control immigration to the United States is being pushed by an organization of Roman Catholic clergymen, according to a news article printed by the Tribune today.

The organization is the Catholic Organization of the United States of America and its founder and first president is the Rev. Julius E. Doves, pastor of St. John Berghmann's church, Chicago.

The object of the organization is three-fold: First, to search out the most available agricultural lands in the United States which are open to colonization and then direct immigrants to these lands; second, to check undesirable immigration to the United States through co-operation with the local clergy in those foreign countries from which the great bulk of immigrants come; third, to establish a church and a school in each of the colonies formed, in order to give permanence to the community.

The first step of the society will be to send abroad chaplains of colonization to interest the Catholic clergy of Europe in the project. The local priests will be asked to keep these chaplains informed of families within their parishes who intend to come to the United States. If the immigrants are of the desirable class the chaplains will endeavor to have them come to the new agricultural colonies and stay away from the cities. If they are classed as "undesirables," the local priests will endeavor to dissuade them from emigrating.

SENATOR LODGE

Criticised at Sumner Meeting

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—At the centennial memorial meeting in honor of the birth of Charles Sumner last evening in Faneuil hall, it is an open question which caused the greater surprise—the rather severe criticism of Charles Sumner's peculiarities and shortcomings by the orator of the evening, Ex-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., or the scathing criticism by Frank B. Sanborn at the absence of the two U. S. senators of Massachusetts from any of the celebrations in honor of Charles Sumner.

Mr. Sanborn began his brief eulogy of Sumner with a reference to the absence of the senators, saying that "they, of all men, should be present to testify to the honor and esteem in which the greatest of all the U. S. senators from Massachusetts held."

senators of this ancient state has thought fit to favor these anniversary meetings with his presence and his words of grateful remembrance. It is unable to imitate the high virtues of Sumner, they should at least have paid that recent respect for the opinion of mankind, which the commemoration of departed excellence demands—to the exclusion of the petty, self-seeking and disappointed politics of the vanished year.

The meeting which was almost exclusively of colored people—as far as the audience was concerned—began soon after 7 o'clock with a service of song which lasted about a half an hour. Then, Clement C. Morgan, chairman of the exercises, spoke briefly on the character and great life work of Charles Sumner.

On the program it stated that Hon. John L. Bates would preside and that Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge has been invited to deliver an address upon the "Congressional career of Mr. Sumner."

PITCHER WILLIS

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Pitcher Vic Willis of the St. Louis Nationals, has been awarded to the local Nationals. Word was received from President Lynch of the National league yesterday that the Chicago club had won Willis away from Cincinnati by lot. Manager Griffith of Cincinnati refused to waive claim to the veteran pitcher when the St. Louis club sought to dispose of his services to the Baltimore Eastern league team. Knowing that

AT ST. PETER'S

Beautiful Music at Holy Hour Service

The Holy Hour service at St. Peter's church last evening attracted a large congregation, embracing many from other parishes, and not a few non-Catholics. Rev. John P. O'Brien officiated. The musical program was of a high order, both choirs assisting with special programs. The soloists were: Miss Gertrude Keeler, Miss May E. Whiteley, Mr. James E. Donnelly and Mr. Cornelius F. Calnan. The singing of "Adeste Fidelis" by the vested choir was particularly well done. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy was organist.

Solemn benediction was given with Rev. John J. Higgins, pastor of St. Margaret's parish, celebrant, assisted by Rev. James J. McGuinness and Rev. John T. O'Brien. Rev. Dr. Keeler occupied a seat within the sanctuary during the service. The services closed with the singing of "Holy God."

Maggi Favors Annexation to Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Alfred L. Maggi, ex-superintendent of streets and city engineer of Chelsea, created quite a sensation at the meeting of the committee of 50 citizens of that city who have in charge the preliminary arrangements for a future charter for Chelsea last night, when he stated that the only salvation for Chelsea was annexation to Boston.

In reply to a question from ex-Alderman Wm. J. Williams he stated that he believed strongly in the actual, political and absolute annexation of Chelsea to Boston.

Mr. Maggi said that he felt that annexation was a matter that the committee should give most serious attention. The commerce of Boston, the board of trade and the chamber of commerce all argued, he stated, that annexation of Chelsea to Boston was advisable, and as for the betterment of Chelsea and its people, he stated that there wasn't the slightest doubt but that it was to be vastly improved by the city annexing to Boston.

Ex-Representative Marcus M. Morritt asked the speaker if he favored annexation as suggested in the inaugural of Gov. Foss Thursday, and he stated that he believed in direct annexation.

Mr. Maggi said further that it was the only thing left for Chelsea to do, and that a large delegation of citizens were now engaged in circulating a petition in Chelsea looking to securing legislative action bringing about annexation.

The petition which is in circulation is as follows: "We, the undersigned citizens of Chelsea, petition the members of the legislature from Chelsea to introduce into the present legislature a bill for the annexation of Chelsea to Boston."

SPORTING GOSSIP

Owen Moran's Challenge is Blocked by Wolgast

When Owen Moran, the English boxer, arrived in Chicago Monday prepared to challenge Al Wolgast to fight for the world's lightweight title. It is presumed that the coming bout will go the limit as usual. Langford, it is believed, can beat Jeannette decisively any time he tries, but as both have offers to fight again in Paris it is suspected that Langford will have the brakes on. At least that is the way local sporting men regard the match, and some of them say they will not be surprised if Referee White exercises more than the usual scrutiny when the negroes begin fighting.

During a recent fanning bee Harry Howell, the St. Louis Brown's old pitcher, who is an intelligent judge of ball players, was asked to select an American league team that in his opinion could beat everybody without receiving "inside instructions" from the bench. So Howell, with pencil and pad, wrote down these names: Pitchers, Johnson, Washington; Ford, New York; Walsh, Chicago; Coombs, Athletics; Catchers, Street, Washington, and Clarke, St. Louis. First base, Chase, New York. Second base, Collins, Athletics. Third base, Lord, Chicago. Shortstop, Wallace, St. Louis. Left field, D. Jones, Detroit. Centre field, Speaker, Boston. Right field, Detroit. Sub infielder and base runner, Eberstadt, Washington. Sub outfielder and pinch hitter, Crawford, Detroit. Howell gave no reason for omitting Third Baseman Baker of the Athletics and Catcher Sweeney of the Highlanders, recognized stars in their respective positions.

After Howell had selected this team another expert said to be Kenetichy, figured out an all National league team in this manner: Pitchers, Mathewson, New York; Cole, Chicago; Rucker, Brooklyn, and Caspar, Cincinnati. Catchers, Kling, Chicago, and Dresbach, St. Louis. First base, Kenetichy, St. Louis. Second base, Evans, Chicago. Third base, Grant, Cincinnati. Shortstop, Tinker, Chicago. Left field, Magee, Philadelphia. Centre field, Leach, Pittsburgh. Right field, Schulte, Chicago. Sub infielder, Wagner, Pittsburgh. Sub outfielder, Hoffman, Chicago.

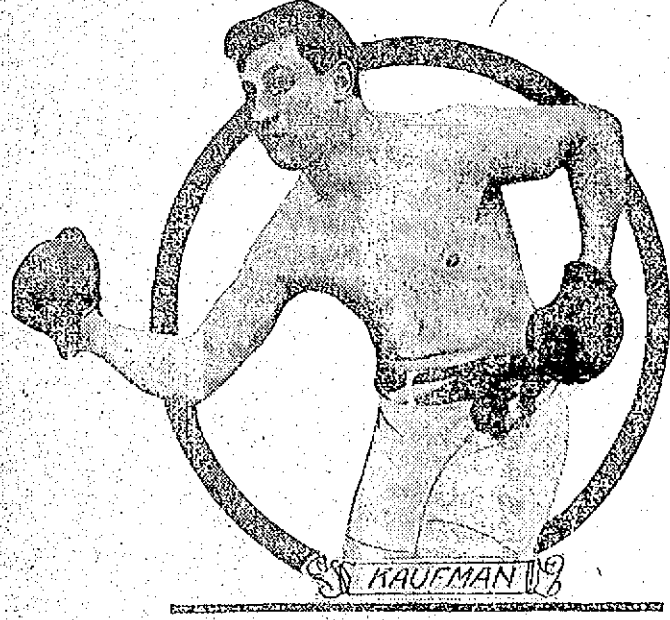

The Cincinnati papers say that the schedules of both major leagues will meet on October 8. President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club at the meeting of the National league here next month will try to find out why the schedule committee of which Thomas J. Lynch is chairman, has ignored his request, backed up by other club owners, to have the season extended to include Columbus day, October 12. Ebbets says it was understood at the meeting in December that October 12 would be the last day of the season in his league and he questions the right of President Lynch's committee to make a change advocated by the American league without first securing consent by a majority vote.

The "novelty races" at Jacksonville in which a man, a mule, a horse and an automobile have measured speed are not to be regarded as furthering the interests of the breeding industry. It is observed that in sanctioning such events, together with the licensing of hacks for the accommodation of negro batters the self-styled Southern Jockey club has a poor idea of real sport.

Football at U. of P. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—The football committee of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic association yesterday elected W. Howard Porter chairman. The elections of Captain Moran and Manager Shellen were ratified. No action was taken concerning changes in the eligibility rules.

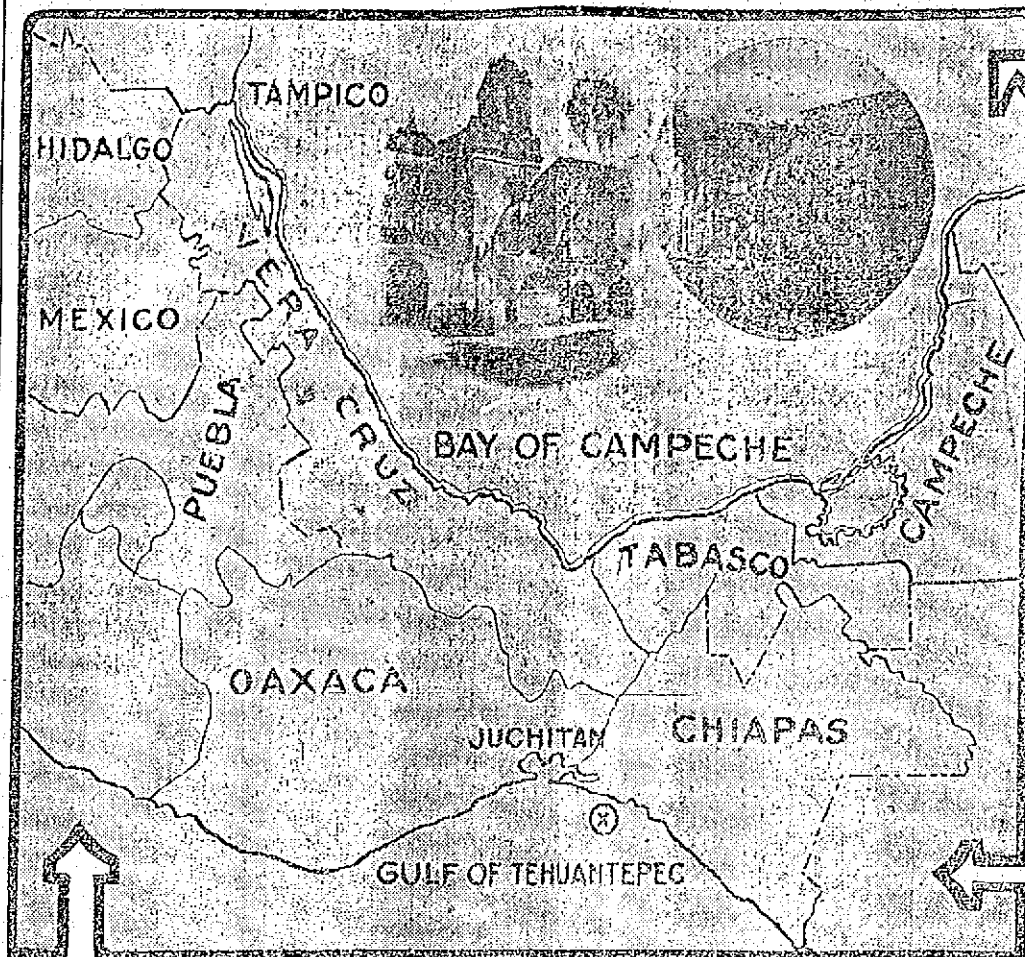

Charley White was agreed upon yesterday to referee the twelve round bout between Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette at the Armory A. A. Box.

AL KAUFMAN HAS BEEN PROMISED MATCH WITH JOHNSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Al Kaufman, California heavyweight, who has been promised a battle with Jack Johnson, is the latest one to announce his intention of going abroad. Al figures that if he takes on several of the American heavyweights in Paris and stows them away in his time it will make him a better drawing card with Johnson. Within the next month or so there will be five or six American heavyweights in gay Paris. Among them will be Joe Jeannette, Jim Barry and Sam Langford. Kaufman will try hard to land a battle with Langford. Kaufman figures that if he defeated Johnson, the Boston negro it would hurry his contest with Johnson and the Paris promoters would offer a big purse for a bout with the champion. Johnson wants $25,000 for his end and insists that the fight take place within the United States. Now, as most of us know, the boxing game is not particularly prosperous, and any promoter who would guarantee Johnson $25,000 for his end, to say nothing of what Kaufman would demand, would be looked upon as more or less of a curiosity. Should Kaufman prove a big drawing card in Paris the promoters might offer a purse that would suit Johnson.

JAPAN, WITH PERMISSION OF MEXICO, SAID TO BE ESTABLISHING NAVAL STATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Negotiations being carried on between Mexico and Japan will result in an ultimate treaty which will give the Japanese navy a supply station in Bahia de Todos Santos, or the Bay of All Saints, according to a statement made by Gustavo Madero, brother of General Francisco Madero, the leader of the Mexican rebels. Within fifty miles of this bay, which is called the best base on the frontier, is a colony of Japanese who, according to Gustavo Madero, have been imported by President Diaz and given concessions that no other members of a foreign race have been given before by an official of the government of Mexico. The motive behind the treaty, according to the brother of the revolutionary leader, is that the opening of the Panama canal will virtually kill the entire business of the Tehuantepec railway, in which

Mexican and some American interests have invested something like $100,000,000 of capital. "This railway," said Senor Madero, "is at the zenith of its power financially and is practically a money-making machine. It runs from the port of Mexico, on the Atlantic coast, to Salina Cruz, on the Pacific, and controls almost every bit of freight and transportation south of the great transcontinental American roads. It can easily be seen what the opening of the Panama canal will do to the Tehuantepec railway. And it must be remembered that President Diaz has never forgotten and never will forget that the United States as the dominant nation of the western hemisphere interfered with the plans of bygone schemers by countenancing the revolt which led ultimately to the annexing of the state of Texas. President Diaz has always felt—and he has expressed his feelings in no uncertain terms to men who were at one time among the members of his council, but who are now outcasts—that Mexico has not been treated fairly by the United States in the matter of building the Panama canal. He has always expected until the past few years that the United States would in a great measure share with Mexico the benefits of the Panama canal, especially since its operation will put an end to the great profits the Tehuantepec railway has poured into the pockets of its owners. The first evidence of the growing friendship between Diaz and Japan came when he granted concessions to the Japanese who have established themselves in the state of Chiapas, which is not far distant from the bay of All Saints. The last evidence of his friendship for the people of the mikado's kingdom is yet to be seen."

MIDDLESEX CLUB

Won From the Lamson Bowlers

The Middlesex club bowling team met the representatives of the Lamson Consolidated Store Service Co. on the alleys last night and defeated the latter team by winning two of the three points and capturing the total. Luther of the winning team was high man.

The Hinchey and Hunting teams had at it and the former team put it all over the latter. The bowling of both teams in the last string was exceptionally high, both teams going over the 500 mark. O'Brien and McIntyre of the winning team were high men, each having a triple of 311.

In the game between the Ollers and Machinists the Ollers won with comparative ease.

The Wood Greasers gave Coggin's a severe trouncing.

In the Moody Bridge league the Ollers gave the Porcupine Juniors a whitewash, winning by over 100 pins. Sturtevant of the winning team with a total of 320 was the king pin.

The Ledgers also rubbed it into the Mongeaus, winning all three points.

MAILS ARE HEAVY ANNUAL MEETING

Large Increase at the Local Office

After a most strenuous two weeks prior to Christmas, the letter carriers and clerks at the local postoffice were of the opinion that the mail would be light, and it was for about a week, but the mails are getting heavy again owing to the fact that the local merchants are sending out announcements of the spring openings and marked down sales.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun yesterday Postmaster A. G. Thompson said he was proud of the work done by the members of the postal force and that they were deserving of much credit for the efficient manner in which they did their work under the most trying conditions.

He said that the men were very tired after the holiday work and had but little rest before the mails started getting heavy again.

Annually, about this time, thousands of pieces of mail are sent into the local office and the greater portion of it is first-class matter which has to be delivered at once. Years ago the business men who advertised by the use of the mails sent the letters second class, but they soon found that when the recipient found a one-cent stamp in the corner of the envelope, the envelope was thrown away without even opening it to learn what it contained.

Of recent years the merchants send the announcements first class, which of course is double the price, but they claim it is cheaper in the end for when a letter comes first class and sealed it is opened and generally read.

BOSTON CONCERN

To Build Fine Apartment Houses in Belvidere

Mr. Herford Elliott, of the real estate firm of T. H. Elliott & Co., has secured options on certain sites in a most desirable part of Belvidere on which Boston capitalists are contemplating the erection of a number of first class apartment houses such as are to be found in the Back Bay, Boston. It is understood that the Boston parties are in a syndicate for the purpose of building a large number of up-to-date apartment houses in the best residential sections of several Massachusetts cities, having already erected some in Boston. It is said that nothing is now in existence in Lowell can compare with the flats which they contemplate building for elaborateness and convenience.

Speaking of the real estate and building outlook Mr. Elliott states that it is surprisingly good in Lowell and all indications are for a fine business in these lines next spring.

Officers Elected by the Veteran Firemen

The annual meeting, election of officers and banquet of the members of the Lowell Veteran Firemen's Association, was held Thursday at the central fire station. It was the 26th annual and proved to be a great success.

All the members of the organization were real veterans for they at one time or another assisted in putting the hand hose and hand engines in years prior to the installation of horse drawn apparatus. At one time the membership included several hundred men, but year by year the number is decreased by death and at the present time there are but 28 members.

Twenty gathered at the central fire station last night and after the reports of the various officers had been read and accepted the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, E. A. Salmon; first vice-president, J. E. Hill; second vice-president, W. W. Murphy; third vice-president, A. H. Sanborn; fourth vice-president, W. A. Dolan; recording secretary, C. H. Philbrick; financial secretary, J. P. Norton; treasurer, J. B. Sweet; board of directors, J. F. Norton, J. Clark Haywood, Nathaniel Bishop, C. Slackpole and E. E. Smith; foreman of engine division, J. E. Hill; second foreman, Nat. Bishop; third foreman, W. H. Halsey; steward, J. P. Norton; relief committees, E. A. Salmon, C. H. Philbrick, J. H. Sweet, H. Hutchinson and I. W. Collins, delegate to league for two years, W. W. Murphy.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the members marched into Chief Hosmer's office, where a table was laid and an excellent menu discussed. After the inner man had been satisfied cigars were lighted and addresses were made by Charles H. Philbrick and Assistant Engineer James P. Norton of the local fire department and others.

CHARTER MEETING

DRAFT OF NEW CHARTER WILL BE SUBMITTED MONDAY NIGHT

The committee on charter revision will meet at 8 o'clock sharp Monday night at the rooms of the Lowell Board of Trade in the Central block to take final action on the draft which will then be submitted. The committee on public and executive committee will hold a joint meeting at seven o'clock at the same place. The purpose of this meeting is to draw up petitions, which will be signed by citizens of Lowell, the petitions to accompany the draft of the charter when presented to the legislature.

FATALLY INJURED

Woman Fell Down a Flight of Stairs

Mrs. Annie Moran, aged 45 years, fell down a flight of attic stairs at her home, 8 Floyd street, about 6 o'clock last night, and suffered a fracture of the base of the skull, which resulted in her death an hour and a half later. The matter was reported to the police, and after several officers made a careful investigation it was decided that the fall was accidental. The body was later viewed by Dr. J. V. Meigs, the medical examiner, who said death was due to a basal fracture of the skull received from an accidental fall.

John Moran, the unfortunate woman's son, arrived home about 6:05 o'clock and found his mother lying at the foot of a flight of rear stairs leading to the attic. She was unconscious and he at once summoned Dr. John F. Boyle, who lives nearby. The latter did everything possible to revive the woman, but believed that she had suffered a serious injury to the skull. She died about 7:30 o'clock without having regained consciousness.

The police were notified and Lieut. John Freeman, Inspector John A. Walsh and Patrolman Timothy J. Dwyer were sent to the house and after making an investigation were satisfied that the fall was accidental.

Besides her husband, Patrick Moran, she leaves six children, John H., Catherine, Annie, James, Mary and Loretta Moran. The body was taken to the rooms of Undertaker J. J. O'Connell.

YOUNG AVIATOR DISTRICT COURT

Won $5000 by Making Flight

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 7.—Jimmy Ward, the 18 year old aviator, in a Curtiss 24 horsepower aeroplane yesterday made a daring flight across two rivers, the harbor and out over the Atlantic ocean, breaking the world's altitude record for low power machines. He also won a prize of $5000 by circling over two miles of the strongest fortifications on the Atlantic coast, thus demonstrating the efficiency of the aeroplane as a scout in time of war.

Landing gracefully on the beach in front of Fort Moultrie, on Sullivan's island, he handed a note to Col. Marsh which the latter signed. Ward then re-entered his machine, rose from the beach and flew back across the harbor in a direct line for the aviation field north of this city. He covered a distance of about 25 miles in 54 minutes.

It was on his return trip that he broke the world's altitude record for small machines, attaining a height of 5300 feet as shown by his barograph.

MANY AMATEURS PATROLMAN McNALLY

Has Been Suspended by Police Board for 53 Days

The Imperials held their annual social and dance in Associate hall last evening with a large and merry attendance. Kittredge's orchestra furnished music for dancing. The entertainment included an "amateur night" in which several local amateurs did most amusing stunts. Henry Sexton, a promising young acrobat, made the world famous Prevost brothers look like a couple of wooden men. Henry's best stunt was a front hand spring, landing on the same stage on which he started. Then he took a chair and did everything to it but eat it.

Willie Giblin sang "Blanche Ring's Song" and Myrtle Flinn sang "Myrtle Flinn's Song" and the audience wished he was in it.

Thomas Armstrong was also strong as a recitationist, while Baby Grove was as graceful as a bird in her dances.

SEEKS DAMAGES

Chas. Lajoie Has Claim Against the City

Lawyer H. V. Charbonneau has filed an attachment at the registry of deeds for the purpose of recovering damages from the city of Lowell in behalf of Charles Lajoie, the coal dealer. Mr. Lajoie's coal yard was formerly at 230 Lincoln street. The building of the new bridge forced Mr. Lajoie to move out, for a large cement wall was erected opposite the driveway of his yard in this way cutting out all means of driving out with a load.

Mr. Lajoie removed to 1012 Gorham street last Monday and now he wants to recover damages from the city of Lowell. The writ is returnable on the first Monday in February.

ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE OAKLANDS IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Oakland Improvement Association was held Thursday evening at the home of the secretary, Chas. S. Proctor, and plans for the year talked over. It is desired a new firehouse is badly needed in the Oakland and an effort will probably be made this year to have one located in that section of the city. New sidewalks will also be petitioned for. The association has nearly $200 in the treasury, with all bills paid.

NEW CHARTER

Draft Presented to Committee

The committee on new charter met at the board of trade rooms with William H. Wilson in the chair and a large attendance of members last night. The draft of the charter as presented by the sub-committee on draft was received and discussed at length. The charter will be ready for the public at an early time, and before being given to the Lowell delegation for presentation at the state house, it will be fully explained to the people of the city.

The committee feels that its time has been profitably occupied, and is confident that when the provisions of the proposed charter are adopted, a radical improvement in the city's business methods will be the result, with the people in more direct control than they have been since Lowell became a city.

HEALTH BOARD

ORGANIZED AND ELECTED DR. MARTIN CHAIRMAN

The board of health met yesterday afternoon and organized for the year 1911. Dr. G. Forrest Martin was re-elected chairman and Inspector Frank J. O'Hare, secretary. The following school physicians, now serving, were re-elected: Dr. Frederick P. Murphy, Dr. M. A. Walsh, Dr. H. W. Jewett, and Dr. R. Mignault.

Dr. Marcus, who wishes to build and occupy a stable for four horses in Short street, was before the board. Action on his petition was deferred until the board has an opportunity to examine the location.

Patrolman James R. McNally appeared before the board of police at a special meeting of that body last night to answer to a complaint charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, it being alleged that he entered a house in Railroad street on Christmas night and made charges against one of the inmates. A short hearing was held and the board in executive session found the respondent guilty and ordered that he be suspended for 53 days.

The charge against the patrolman was preferred by Robert Cartwright of 107 Railroad street, who stated that McNally entered his home on Christmas night and accused him of having accosted girls on the street. Patrolman McNally denied that he entered the house. J. Joseph Hennessy appeared for the patrolman.

Mrs. Cartwright, wife of the complainant, testified that when she came home from church on Christmas night she saw a man standing in the hallway. She thought it was her husband and spoke to him. Her little boy, who was with her, told his mother that the man was not his father, but the officer on the beat.

A little later Mr. Cartwright arrived and is alleged that Patrolman McNally told him that come to bed and been received about him, that he had been given to understand that Mr. Cartwright had accosted girls on the sidewalk.

Mr. Cartwright informed the patrolman that he would go at once to the police station and ascertain where the complaints came from. He went to the police station the next day and found that no complaints had been made against him. He then decided to make complaint against the officer.

Two other witnesses were present and testified that they had not seen McNally about the house on the night in question.

The board then went into executive session, and later gave out the following order:

Board of Police.
January 6, 1911.

Special Order 101:
Patrolman James R. McNally, having been summoned to appear before the board on this day, to answer to the charge of violation of rule 19 of the police manual, to wit: conduct unbecoming an officer, relative to a verbal charge made by him to one Robert Cartwright.

And after a hearing of the charges the board finds the officer guilty and it is voted:

That Patrolman James R. McNally be suspended from Jan. 6 to Feb. 28, inclusive. This order to be read at all roll calls of this date.

For order of the board of police.
Frank Fox, clerk pro tempore.

delegates. Their alternates will be John F. Bateman and W. G. Bowen.

American Mechanics
Warranted council, 2 Junior Order of United American Mechanics, met last night in I. O. O. F. hall, Bridge street. Speeches were made during the open hour by Deputy State Councilor George H. Bartlett of Haverhill and Past National Councilor W. L. S. Gilchrist of Methuen. A number of applications for membership were received for the class initiation to be held January 19. The third degree was worked on one candidate.

CONCORD SHOPS

Will Not be Abandoned Says Supt.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 7.—An announcement yesterday referring to the building of new railroad repair shops in Lowell and intimating that the extensive plant in this city employing 1200 workmen would be abandoned caused a sensation and inquiries were at once begun among the local railroad officials.

When seen by his office, Supt. W. F. Ray of the Concord division stated that he did not believe there was any possibility of moving the Concord railroad shops to Massachusetts. Mr. Ray said that while the railroad may build shops at Tewksbury, Concord shops would remain, as they are modern in every respect. He said that the enlargement of the local shops would not have been contemplated if they were to be moved.

The plans for the extension have been received and the work of moving the fence surrounding the property west to allow more track room will be commenced soon.

George M. Kimball, a director in the Concord and Montreal railroad, which road owns the shops in this city, stated yesterday morning that so far as he knew the Concord shops were not to be removed. He said that he understood that an enlargement of these shops was planned.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The members of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men met in regular session last night. Sachem Albert Stophard presiding. Considerable routine business was transacted and an interesting report of the finance committee was read, it being to the effect that the books of the financial officers had been examined and found to be correct.

The membership of the tribe at the present time is 400 and the funds and other property belonging to the tribe amount to $5645. At the next meeting it was stated the chiefs-elect will be raised to their stumps by Deputy Suits Sachem Joseph H. McNabb and Suits Libby gave an interesting talk on the work of the tribe performed by tribes in this reservation.

OLD TOWN CLERK

CHARLES HARTSHORNE HELD THE POSITION 40 YEARS

WAKEFIELD, Jan. 7.—Charles Hartshorne, town clerk of Wakefield for 40 years and the oldest town clerk in point of service in the state, died at his home here today after an illness of several weeks, aged 74 years. Mr. Hartshorne was a native of Wakefield and with the exception of four years in the Union army during the Civil war had always lived here. He was president of the Middlesex county town and Clerks' association, had served as town selectman and also was an assessor. During his service as town clerk he had frequently recorded the birth, marriage and death of the same person. He is survived by a widow and a son.

NARROW ESCAPE

Captain and Crew Were Almost Drowned

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Me., Jan. 7.—The distressed fishing schooner Nickerson, Captain Blinton, of this place, was towed in late last night by the revenue cutter Woodbury. From Captain Blinton it was learned that all on board his craft barely escaped with their lives last Friday night in the northwest gale while off Cross Island, near Machias. Their sails were blown about for some little time until they were discovered by the crew of the Cross Island life saving station, who reached them and towed them to Cross Island with a powerboat. They remained on the island until the Woodbury was signalled and towed them here. The schooner had a small fare of fish.

DEWEY DAY

TO BE OBSERVED IN PORTLAND, OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 7.—Portland will celebrate Dewey day, May 1, 1911, in a unique way. The first gun of the Spanish-American war was fired from the deck of the cruiser, Boston, the same gun, mounted on the same vessel, will be shot in Portland harbor on May 1 next, firing a salute to brave Admiral Dewey.

The celebration will be held by the newly formed naval reserve, which has secured the Boston as a training ship. The vessel will be stationed in the local harbor as soon as repairs are completed, fitting it for service.

Captain George S. Shepherd of the naval reserve has the plans for the Dewey day celebration well in hand. He expects to make a big event of it, securing the active participation of all the vessels in the harbor at that time, so that the greatest of decorations will be put on every mast and spar. A number of contests will be held in water sports on the river and both sailors and landmen are expected to take an active part in the observance of the thirtieth anniversary of the sea-battle of Manila Bay. In the opinion of the spectators it will be a much more interesting spectacle than the gun of the Boston which opened the opening shots of the battle of Manila Bay, one of the most brilliant victories to the credit of the American navy.

DEWEY DAY

TO BE OBSERVED IN PORTLAND, OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 7.—Portland will celebrate Dewey day, May 1, 1911, in a unique way. The first gun of the Spanish-American war was fired from the deck of the cruiser, Boston, the same gun, mounted on the same vessel, will be shot in Portland harbor on May 1 next, firing a salute to brave Admiral Dewey.

The celebration will be held by the newly formed naval reserve, which has secured the Boston as a training ship. The vessel will be stationed in the local harbor as soon as repairs are completed, fitting it for service.

Captain George S. Shepherd of the naval reserve has the plans for the Dewey day celebration well in hand. He expects to make a big event of it, securing the active participation of all the vessels in the harbor at that time, so that the greatest of decorations will be put on every mast and spar. A number of contests will be held in water sports on the river and both sailors and landmen are expected to take an active part in the observance of the thirtieth anniversary of the sea-battle of Manila Bay. In the opinion of the spectators it will be a much more interesting spectacle than the gun of the Boston which opened the opening shots of the battle of Manila Bay, one of the most brilliant victories to the credit of the American navy.

FISH TO PREVENT CONSUMPTION

London doctors are recommending a fish diet as a preventive of consumption. Cheap fish is specifically mentioned possibly as an inducement to the poor to use fish more than they do, the object being to prevent nitrogen starvation which induces consumption. The London doctors do not seem to think that pure air in the greatest abundance will ward off consumption if there be a lack of nourishing food.

WHERE CITIES ARE LIABLE

The supreme court of Minnesota has decided that a city in that state is liable for the death of a citizen due to drinking bad water supplied by the city. In defense the city authorities claimed that the supplying the citizens with water was a governmental function and that in consequence the city is not liable. But if a city goes into the business of supplying water, running railroads or manufacturing electricity for lighting purposes it must expect to bear the consequence same as others in the same business and with whom the city may be in competition.

MORE SUNSHINE AND FEWER ICEBERGS

Cardinal Gibbons recently spoke of how much happier the world would be if there were not so many human icebergs. He referred to the people who go about in a morose or uncheerful mood, hardly uttering a pleasant word to those around them. He pleaded for the diffusion of more human sunshine than is usually dispensed.

There is a great deal in what the cardinal says, and his words strike home to a great many people, for no doubt there are very few who might not show more cheerfulness and good nature than they really do. In fact it happens that most of those we meet have troubles of their own; often it may be troubles that are wholly unsuspected by their neighbors. Their troubles bring upon them a serious, pessimistic and unhappy mood that spreads a sort of gloom all around.

Unfortunately too many people take delight in pouring their sorrows into the ears of others. Far better forget them and lighten your neighbor's burden with a cheerful word rather than add to its weight by a tale of woe. If we were to discuss the question whether this gloomy mental habit serves any good purpose in overcoming trouble, we believe that all things considered, the verdict would be in the negative. On the contrary this nursing of real or imaginary evils will generally invite others sometimes fully as bad or even worse. There are people who continually give way to evil forebodings. They imagine they are pursued by some evil fate or predestined to a certain calamity, and the very contemplation of such a thought is in many cases all that is needed to bring such a thing about.

There are thousands today who imagine that they are thus handicapped by an evil fate, and who lose courage, spirit and cheerfulness, rushing, as it were, to meet the calamities that have no foundation except in their own diseased imagination. In this regard we would say to them:—

Bode ye not an evil doom,
Man shapes his destiny;
Hope and courage out of gloom,
Bring final victory.

Nothing is more common than the remark made in reference to some people that they are "very distant," "odd" or "uncongenial." As to the manner of some men and how it is interpreted by others there is a good deal of misunderstanding. It is true that there are some men who are as frugal of their bows of recognition as they might be of their dollars; but it is equally true that some men are unjustly charged with this oddity. Among this class are those whose vision is defective, who are near-sighted and cannot recognize anybody except at close range. There are many other men blamed for being "stuck up" because they do not speak to people whom they never had any opportunity of knowing. These are the men who appear often in public places, at public meetings of various kinds, who meet people in the mass and even talk to them without any formal introduction. No man can be expected to be able to distinguish all these people when he meets them individually on the streets. And if he manages to recognize them by outward looks it is plain that he is wholly at sea as to their names. Some men on the other hand have a poor memory for names and faces and even if formally introduced to others may be unable to recognize them a few weeks later. Thus for passing people whom he does not know or whose names he has forgotten, he may be criticized as "proud" or "snobbish" when nothing can be farther from his real sentiments.

Thus it appears that while it is true as Cardinal Gibbons avers, we have a great many human icebergs, yet it is also a fact that many men mistaken for human icebergs, "snobs" and "oddities" are not really so as we have just shown.

But there are, we imagine, very few in any station in life who could not help in the diffusion of sunshine that will make the world happier, that will cost nothing and yet be worth a great deal.

There is scarcely a writer of any distinction who has not borne testimony to the value of cheerfulness and good fellowship. The bible says, "A merry heart doeth good like medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones"; Shakespeare says: "A light heart lives long"; Ovid: "The burden becomes light which is cheerfully borne"; and Addison: "Cheerfulness is the best promoter of health. Repinings and murmurings of the heart give imperceptible strokes to those delicate fibres of which the vital parts are composed, and wear out the machine. Cheerfulness is as friendly to the mind as to the body." Is there not then the very best of reasons for optimism, for looking upon the sunny side of every affliction and every disappointment?

"For what is the use of repining,
As where there's a will there's a way.
Tomorrow the sun may be shining,
Although it is clouded today."

Is it not better to imitate the sunflower that always turns to the king of day or the sundial that registers only the sunbeams as they fall, taking no notice of the periods of cloudiness and gloom?

SEEN AND HEARD

When a beautiful young girl eats heartily, and enjoys it, she is so ashamed of it; it's so gross.

You have been calling for quite a while. Did you ever and any warmed-over food that you really liked?

It is said of an Atchison woman that you don't have to arouse her suspicions; she keeps them at work all the time.

"When I come to die it will be just my luck if something is going on that makes me particularly anxious to live."—Parson Twine.

How easy it is for a man to announce in the fall that he will buy a motor car in the spring!

We cannot forget our deepest wrongs and most heartbreaking sorrows, and smile at the serious way a girl will "announce" her engagement after having told every one she knows.

"I like the looks of this parrot," said the lady who had stepped into the bird store. "Is he a good talker?" The proprietor replied that the bird was an excellent talker, and it was evident the customer was favorably impressed.

"What is your price for him?" she asked. The man had noticed the rich apparel worn by the customer, and he judged that there was a chance to make a little "easy money" at the expense of one who would never miss it. "Ten dollars," he said, with just the slightest possible hesitation.

"Five dollars, madam," instantly croaked the parrot. The lady looked at the proprietor, who had turned red. "He certainly is a fine talker," she said, "and he also seems to have good sense. I am willing to take him at his own valuation. Do I get him for that?" "You do," answered the man, sadly. —Youth's Companion.

"Trust in God and keep your powder."

Soft White Hands

Red, rough hands on retiring usually become soft, white hands on rising through this simple and economical "one night" treatment: Bathe and soak the hands on retiring, in a strong, hot lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and wear during the night old, loose gloves, or a light bandage to protect the clothing. Most effective for chapped, itching, burning and bleeding hands.

dry!" is an old and capricious saying, to be commended to all who would by courage and circumspection, win success in life. The saying may be further amended and extended by adding as a counsel particularly appropriate to cold and slushy weather: "Trust in God and keep your feet dry!" Many an ill or even serious disease starts from getting the feet wet. Health, as well as morality, depends largely on the understanding. Put your trust in heaven, but be careful where (and how) you tread on earth.

CHANGE OF DATE

Owing to a change in the booking at the Opera House the Sheehan Opera company will be seen here on Tuesday, Jan. 17th instead of Monday, the 16th as at first announced. Bessie McCoy in "The Echo" will be seen here later.

FAMOUS OPERA STAR COMING

Joseph F. Sheehan, America's favorite and greatest tenor ever heard in the English language, is to bring his all star company to the Opera House for one performance, the evening of Tuesday, Jan. 17th.

The Sheehan English Grand Opera company this year is said to excel all previous efforts. It consists of the best of the Chicago and Boston companies, each principal being selected for his or her fitness for the roles they will sing and the chorus is the cream of the two big companies.

Never before in America has an all star opera company been put before the public and no greater compliment can be paid this organization than to say it is on a par with its famous leader.

THE SOUL KISS

Much interest is centered in the announcement of the engagement of "The Soul Kiss," which comes to the Opera House soon. This is the first visit here of the company, and on account of its being heralded as the musical sensation of the past decade, and having a run of three hundred nights at the months in Chicago, three months in Boston, and a proportionate length of time in the other large cities, is sure to draw the record-breaking audience of the season.

It has that inclusive accent, well graduated finales, and a direct appeal of real comedy and tuncful music absolutely refreshing to a performance of this kind.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre will find awaiting them an unusually excellent series of offerings for the three concerts to be given tomorrow at this popular playhouse. There will be a matinee Sunday at 2 p. m., and performances in the evening at 7 and 9 o'clock respectively.

Among the offerings in vaudeville acts which will be presented are Shorty Edwards, the inimitable comedian who makes such a hit wherever he appears; the Durand Sisters, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray in an original act. There will be three other first class acts also.

The moving picture films for Sunday have been chosen with especial care this week and contain in the list four feature films which are sure to make a hit.

suit for her ability and one that afforded her many excellent opportunities. In the supporting company are Walter Downing, Harry Moore, Prince Ellwood, Maude Parker, Pearl Young, Gladie Blumme and others. In addition to the play, there are several excellent specialties to be seen at each performance. Matinees are to be given daily starting Tuesday, at which the prices will be ten cents to all parts of the house. The evening prices are also to be ten cents with a few reserved seats at twenty-five cents. A change of play will be made each day during the engagement and seats for all performances are now on sale.

been arranged for next week. Among the top line acts will be the Orpheum Comedy Four, a quartet of comedians who are guaranteed to keep an audience in roars of laughter from the beginning to the end of their act, and who can sing better than most merely straight comedians. Then there are Ed Dawson and the Gillette Sisters in a dainty and original offering as refreshing as it is bright and amusing. The Three Banjo Phonos are on the bill, too. What they do principally may be imagined from the title of their offering, but the excellence of their act must be seen to be appreciated, to use a somewhat hackneyed phrase. Patrons may be sure that they are well worth seeing, however. No less interesting of its kind is the comedy aerobatic act presented by the Burdett Brothers. Miss Mae Monahan, the dainty little singer of Irish songs, has been retained for another week at the special request of numerous patrons. She will sing an entirely new repertoire, and, of course, the best moving pictures also will be on the bill.

Colonial Theatre

Tonight will be the last chance to see Pearl Tangle, "the mental marvel" in her wonderful mind reading act, and the other acts that have been drawing large crowds to the Colonial theatre for the last three days of this week.

Sacred concerts will be given tomorrow afternoon and evening. Six acts of vaudeville and four reels of moving pictures will be presented. For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Manager Marcus has prepared an unusually strong bill, which he claims will surpass any ever given in this city.

For the headline position he has secured the great Levasseur, the champion strong man of the world, who has appeared in all of the leading vaudeville houses in this country as well as Europe. The heavy lifting of this man is the talk of every town he plays in. Every evening at 7 o'clock in front of the theatre Levasseur will give a free exhibition of his skill by pulling against the strength of four big work horses.

Others on the bill will be La Temple, the renowned illusionist, Freeman and Carr, character comedians, singers and dancers; Hall and Zillet, comedy sketch artists.

PANIC IN CHURCH DEATH SENTENCE

of South Boston By Judge Bell

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—A congregation of 1000 persons sat fascinated by fear in the Gate of Heaven church, South Boston, last night and watched the curate put out a fire which threatened a panic with loss of life and the destruction of the church edifice.

The church was crowded and some of the women were about to break into a wild scramble for the exits when the presence of mind of the curate calmed the excited people.

It was just before the evening service in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, when an altar boy came into the sanctuary and lit the numerous candles set before the main altar and the side altar.

As the congregation watched the altar boy leave and the candles begin to sputter and twinkle, those in the front seats heard the crackling of laurel leaves as a small, fiery string began to climb the festoon.

A thrill of terror ran through the congregation composed mainly of women. They began to shift in their seats and act as if about to leave. Some of the more excitable in the back of the church stood up to get a look at what was causing the commotion in front.

Excited whispers began to be heard on all sides. People uneasily shifted their feet. The excitement was intense and growing every moment.

Just as a woman in the middle of the church rose to her feet and started to step into the aisle, the Rev. Walter Lambert, the curate, called by some men in the front seat, ran out of the vestry into the chancel and, pulling down the flaming laurel, trampled it under foot.

While the priest and altar boys were pulling down the burning decorations and the sparks and smoke were rising from the chancel, P. J. O'Leary, one of the ushers, stepped to the front of the church, assuring the people that there was no danger.

Everyone then quieted down and remained in their seats.

Wife Murderer Was Calm and Had Nothing to Say to the Court—His Lawyers Will Present Writ of Error to the Court

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Chester S. Jordan, of Somerville, who murdered his wife, Honora C., and severed her body at their home in that city, Sept. 1, 1908, will be electrocuted the week beginning Sunday, March 12, if the sentence of the Middlesex superior court is carried out.

Jordan was brought into the East Cambridge courthouse yesterday afternoon and took his seat in the steel cage at 4.05 after the shackles which bound him to Court Officer Fred Rhoades and Court Officer George Stiles had been removed.

A conference was going on in the judge's lobby in which Gen. Charles W. Bartlett and J. Harvey Pratt of counsel for Jordan took part. The junior counsel, Jeremiah S. Sullivan, went to the cage and conversed with Jordan.

The subject evidently was a serious one and probably had to do with the conference then being held. Jordan was healthy looking and not pale. After a few minutes' conversation Mr. Sullivan, in response to a summons from Dist. Atty. Higgins, went with the latter to the judge's lobby and joined in the conversation that was going on there.

Jordan in the meantime gazed around the courtroom, nonchalant and apparently undisturbed. He needed at an acquaintance he saw in the seats of the spectators, and just then the jailer bellowed giving notice to the prisoners in the shops to quit work and prepare to return to their cells. At 4.13 the door of the lobby opened and Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Higgins came out.

Mr. Sullivan went directly to Jordan again and the conversation was again taken up. Mr. Sullivan evidently telling the prisoner the result of the conference. Jordan evidently was not pleased, for he talked back earnestly as though advancing suggestions. Then, as Gen. Bartlett and Mr. Pratt appeared, he settled back in his seat.

The conference had to do with a proposition to the court to stay the proceedings in order that counsel might have time to prepare a writ of error for presentation to the United States supreme court.

Judge Charles U. Bell, one of the presiding justices at the trial, took his place on the bench at 4.16. District Attorney Higgins at once offered his motion for sentence. He stated briefly that on May 4, 1909, Jordan had been convicted of murder in the first degree, that exceptions had been filed and a motion for a new trial was heard by the court and the motion overruled. Exceptions to the overruling were taken and the arguments were heard by the full bench, and on January 3 a rescript was handed down again overruling the exceptions. He moved for sentence.

Judge Bell asked Gen. Bartlett if he desired to say anything at this time. The latter responded, "In view of the conference we had with your honor we have nothing to say."

Judge Bell then directed Clerk W. V. Dillingham to ask the defendant if he desired to say anything.

Jordan stood and answered in a full, bass voice, "I have nothing to say. There was not a tremor in his tones and not an indication in his immobile face. At just 4.19, three minutes after Judge Bell took his place on the bench, the judge stood and, facing Jordan, pronounced the sentence of death, by electrocution, during the week beginning Sunday, March 12, 1911.

The court adjourned and Jordan a moment later was on his way back to the jail.

None of his relatives was present in the courtroom. Dr. George E. Watson, the noted neurologist, was an interested spectator, and the members of the grand jury now sitting at East Cambridge also took advantage of the opportunity to witness the proceedings.

A writ of error will be prepared immediately and will be presented by Jordan's counsel to the U. S. supreme court.

FIRST DEBATE

CONDUCTED BY THE F. T. GREEN

HALGE DEBATING SOCIETY. The first regular debate of the Frederick T. Greenhalge Debating Society was held yesterday afternoon in room 20, High school. The question under discussion was "Resolved, That the Lowell High School Should Adopt a Standard Plan."

Misses Charlotte Greene and Elizabeth Irish argued for the affirmative. While the negative side was taken by Misses Helen Hunter and Frances MacIntosh. The judges were Miss Stevenson, Miss Kelley and Miss Huntington, teachers of the school, and they decided in favor of the affirmative.

At the conclusion of the debate Principal Cyrus W. Irish gave his opinion on the debate, expressing favor of the adoption of a standard plan.

In the absence of President Randolph Gleason, Mr. William F. Sullivan was elected temporary presiding officer. He held the subject to be discussed being "Resolved, That the City of Lowell Should Purchase an Athletic Field for High School Sport." The affirmative will be presented by Mr. Carp and Mr. Schilling and the negative by Mr. Rogers K. Eastman and Mr. Arthur Sullivan.

MIDDLESEX NORTH

NEELEY SHOT DEAD

Wealthy Man

CANEY, Kas., Jan. 7.—J. D. S. Truskett was taken by automobile Neeley, president of the Wichita Pipe to the county jail in Independence, Line Co.; president of the Lima, O. Kas. Truskett fired at Neeley twice, Trust Co., and head of several large oil companies, was shot and killed in heart and the other through his left the Palace hotel here this morning by arm. When employees of the hotel Al O. Truskett, a prominent business reached the prostrate man he was dead, man of Caney. The shooting was the Neeley arrived here yesterday on result of litigation over an oil lease; his regular monthly inspection of oil Truskett surrendered immediately. and gas interests and of his pumping plant recently erected here. The killing is believed to have been largely the result of a law suit now pending between Truskett and the Wichita Pipe Co. Truskett refused to make a statement following his arrest. His friends, however, say that the law suit weighed heavily on his mind. He is a member of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in southern Kansas.

WIRELESS STATIONS

WIRELESS TELEGRAPH STATION AT 118 HALE STREET.

One in Hale Street and the Other in Chelmsford Street

A reporter of The Sun this morning discovered two other wireless telegraph stations, one at No. 118 Hale street and the other at 238 Chelmsford street. The former is owned and operated by Prof. Henry T. Frenette, the roller skater. This station is equipped with two aereals measuring 35 feet, standing on the roof of a three story building, which catch the messages in the air and transmit them into an adjustable tuning coil. From there the messages are delivered into a condenser composed of 36 sheets of zinc, and then follows its course through a variable condenser which is connected to the ground. The operator receives his messages by means of two telephone receivers.

The transmitting part of the apparatus is composed of only one inch spark coil, a helix and a telegraph key. Mr. Frenette claims that he can transmit a message on a distance of about 600 miles and receive from 500 to 1000 miles. Storage batteries are being used for transmitting purposes, but no current whatever is needed for receiving, because the receiving instruments are sensitive enough to do the work without electrical force. The evening is the time to get messages for at that time it seems that most stations are busy. Every day at about 11:56 o'clock, Mr. Frenette gets the standard time through his wireless from the Harvard observatory in Cambridge.

Mr. Frenette is employed as lever man in the Boston & Maine tower. He acquired his knowledge of electricity while working for the New England Tel. and Tel. Co., when he was assistant foreman for 12 years, in the Fitchburg division. He has manufactured all his apparatus and is working every day to improve his station. Mr. Frenette, who is a professional roller skater, will sail for Europe in the early part of spring and will give skating exhibitions in France, Germany and England.

The other wireless station is situated at No. 238 Chelmsford street. Its owner is James W. Scott, aged 20 years, who is a machinist by trade. His is a single aerial also perched on the roof of a three-story building. The apparatus works well and the young man gets new improvements on it every day. In entering the operating room, one would think he was in an electrical factory, for the walls and ceiling of the apartment are covered with electric wires connecting with bells, lights, etc. The gas jet is even equipped with an electrical appliance which turns on the light with a touch of a button.

MEETING CALLED

To Discuss Public Hall in Collinsville

A smoke talk under the auspices of the Holy Name society of St. Mary's parish, Collinsville, will be held in Holt's hall tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Prof. Hugh Molloy of the Lowell normal school and his subject will be "Daniel O'Connell." While the affair is under the auspices of the society, all men of the town are invited to be present as it is proposed at the close of the lecture to have a business meeting at which plans will be discussed about the erection of a public hall in the town. This is a matter of general interest in the town, and it is expected that there will be a large turnout of the men of the town.

To be Used in Testing Milk

A refractometer to determine if water has been added to milk has arrived at the office of the inspector of milk and vinegar at city hall. The little instrument came all the way from Germany and it cost over $100. In the old catalogues it was listed at $55, but the tariff advanced the price $16. The board of health has been sorely in need of a refractometer and the only excuse the department had for being without it was "lack of funds." The local board of health has never been able to make a complaint against a milk dealer for "watered milk." The complaint has always read "milk below standard." The fine for watering milk, the minimum fine, is $50, while the average fine for selling or having in one's possession milk below the standard is $10.

AN ICE JAM

HAS FORMED IN THE GENESEE RIVER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 7.—An ice jam of gigantic proportions which has formed in the gorge of the Genesee river, near here is causing uneasiness to residents of Livingston county villages and the flat lands about there. The jam is the largest ever seen in the river and will result in incalculable damage if not broken up before the spring floods set in.

BANK IS CLOSED

Supt. of Banks Takes Charge of

Carnegie Trust Company

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Carnegie Trust Co. was closed this morning by direction of the state superintendent of banks, O. H. Cheney. It has a capital of $1,500,000 and deposits aggregating about $10,000,000. The institution was in serious trouble in the panic of 1907 and has never fully recovered. Its late president, Mr. Dickinson, died last year under peculiar circumstances.

The institution was organized in 1907 and after the retirement of Leslie M. Shaw from the office of the secretary of the treasury, he became its president. The name of Carnegie as applied to this institution attracted to it a great deal of attention, but the adoption of this name was without Mr. Carnegie's authority or approval. It is understood that he was not a stockholder and not immediately identified with it. Mr. Shaw's connection with the bank ceased after a few months because of differences with the other officers of the institution.

The Carnegie bank occupies handsome quarters on Broadway in the heart of the financial district. News of the suspension spread rapidly, and hundreds of depositors had assembled about the doors even before the usual hour of opening. The following notice was pinned on the doors of the company:

"Pursuant to the provisions of section 19 of the banking laws of the state of New York, as amended, I have this day taken possession of the Carnegie Trust Co."

(Signed) "O. H. Cheney, Superintendent of Banks."

This notice was posted shortly before 10 a. m., which is the usual hour of the opening of the bank. The state officials had made their plans earlier in the day and it was evident that their actions had been expected as "through with it" already begun to gather. The doors remained closed.

The following statement was issued by Supt. Cheney:

"The superintendent of banks has taken possession of the property and business of the Carnegie Trust company, located at 115 Broadway, for examination."

"Examination of the affairs of this company has caused the superintendent to conclude that it is in an unsound condition to transact business and that it is not safe for it to continue. The examination is not yet complete and no further statement can be made at the present time."

The principal officers of the bank are: President, J. T. Howell; Vice President, Robert Smith; and James Curran; secretary, Robert Morehead.

The directors of the company are: David Bates, A. W. Sutherland, W. J. Cummings, A. B. Chandler, M. J. Condon, George W. Court, George D. Crabbs, John Cudahy, James R. Curran, W. A. Keener, S. H. Kresh, L. T. Lewis, L. F. Lovison, Bradley Martin, Jr., C. A. Moore, Jr., E. E. O'Neill, J. B. Richmond, J. P. Rupert, Charles M. Schwab, G. C. Smith and J. B. Stauchfield.

The suspension of the Carnegie Trust company was not unexpected in the financial district although the pinning of the notice of closing on the trust company's doors quickly brought a crowd of depositors and others having business with the institution they gradually melted away and there was little to indicate that the failure had taken place.

All the doors of the trust company with the exception of a small side entrance were locked by direction of Supt. Cheney. Those having business with the state banking officials used the side door.

The suspension caused selling on the stock exchange, but the declines were not large. Important banking interests rendered support wherever necessary.

Officials of the trust company were loath to discuss the failure and it was stated that President Howell would not be down town today.

Mr. Howell succeeded J. B. Reynolds as president of the company some months ago. He was formerly president of the Fourth National bank of Nashville, Tenn., became president.

The city of New York had on deposit with the Carnegie Trust at the close of business yesterday the sum of $350,000.

The stock market reflected the failure with a slight dip in prices, which just as smartly recovered when it was seen that the suspension would not involve the stability of any other financial institutions.

Not long after Mr. Dickinson had retired he died in a hospital here, and it was stated that the cause of his death was the inhalation of poisonous gases in the laboratory of a chemist in Scranton. His death was so sudden that it gave rise to rumors that he had committed suicide. This was vigorously denied by relatives, and pneumonia was officially determined as the cause of death.

The Carnegie Trust Co. occupied most extensive banking quarters at 115 Broadway, which extended from Broadway to Trinity place. An enormous rental was paid for this space.

THE CARNEGIE CO. ONE OF LARGEST BANKING INSTITUTIONS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Carnegie Trust Co., one of the largest banking institutions in the city, with deposits of nearly $3,000,000, closed its doors today by order of State Supt. of Banks Cheney. The suspension hardly caused a ripple in the financial district, where the trust company was often reported in a shaky condition.

Supt. Cheney in an official statement said an examination of the trust company had caused him "to conclude that it is in an unsound condition to transact business and that it is not safe for it to continue." State banking officers are now probing the company's books. Officials of the trust company have made no statement and the extent of liabilities is unknown. Bankers, however, said depositors would be paid in full.

The organization of the Carnegie Trust Co. in 1907 by the late Charles Dickinson brings out some interesting modern financial history. Mr. Dickinson interested a number of prominent financiers in the company and Leslie Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, who had a large banking following in the west, was made president. Through Mr. Shaw's connection the business of the company became large.

The name of Mr. Carnegie was used by the organizers in order to lend strength to the undertaking but Mr. Carnegie, shortly after the formation of the concern, repudiated the use of his name in connection with it.

Mr. Dickinson, who was formerly a state bank examiner, became vice president of the company and sought to dictate to a large degree the management of the company. After about a year Mr. Shaw resigned and Mr. Dickinson became president.

Troubles developed when Mr. Dickinson attempted to form a chain of banks with the Carnegie Trust as a parent institution.

Control of the Van Norden Trust Co., the Nineteenth Ward bank and the Twelfth Ward bank was sought and a syndicate had secured control of the Van Norden company and was heavily purchasing securities of the other banks when the state banking department put a stop to the plan. During the Dickinson regime the Carnegie Trust Co. became involved with the Fidelity Funding Co., which failed, causing many Catholic institutions throughout the country considerable financial loss.

Mr. Dickinson resigned and Joseph B. Reichmann temporarily took the presidency in order to effect some reforms and eliminate certain paper held by the institution. Mr. Reichmann retired several months ago and J. T. Howell, formerly president of the Fourth National bank of Nashville, Tenn., became president.

The city of New York had on deposit with the Carnegie Trust at the close of business yesterday the sum of $350,000.

The stock market reflected the failure with a slight dip in prices, which just as smartly recovered when it was seen that the suspension would not involve the stability of any other financial institutions.

Not long after Mr. Dickinson had retired he died in a hospital here, and it was stated that the cause of his death was the inhalation of poisonous gases in the laboratory of a chemist in Scranton. His death was so sudden that it gave rise to rumors that he had committed suicide. This was vigorously denied by relatives, and pneumonia was officially determined as the cause of death.

LAI D AT REST

Funeral of Cornelius Callahan, Jr., Today

The funeral of Cornelius Callahan, Jr., a well known and popular resident of Belvidere, took place this morning from his home, in Bartlett street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. His death was due to a fall while suffering with erysipelas and a deep gloom over a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral cortege proceeded to the immaculate Conception church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Owen McQuade, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., deacon, Rev. Fr. Fox, O. M. I., sub-deacon, and Rev. Brother O'Neill, master of ceremonies. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Walker rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory, Mr. Edward Shea sang "O Jesu." At communion, Mrs. Theresa Cox sang "O Meritum Passionis." The solos in the "Liberia" were sustained by Mrs. Hugh Walker. As the body was being borne from the church the choir sang "De Profundis," Mr. Joseph McCaffrey sustaining the solos.

The bearers were Messrs. Thomas McCrann, Henry Dunham, Thomas Cury, Michael Kennedy, Patrick Cryan and Patrick Flynn. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery. Rev. Fr. Fox reading the prayers at the grave. The interment was under the direction of Undertaker Peter Davey. Among the many beautiful floral tributes laid upon the graves were the following:

Large pillow, inscribed "Sweet rest from family sorrow on base from his brother William of Andover; large wreath, Edward Callahan of Boston; cross on base from Stone Masons union, No. 7; large pillow from A. O. U. W.; spray of thirty-four pinks, representing age of deceased, from Geo. Englesby; spray from James Brown; standing cross from Thomas McCrann and William Callahan; cross on base from James Dolan; spray of pinks and roses from Mrs. Klug and Mrs. McGills.

In attendance at the funeral were delegations from different societies of which the deceased was a highly esteemed member, including the following: Owls, Messrs. John Slack, Ernest P. Pearson, James E. McManus, John F. Taggart; Stone Masons union, Messrs. Horace Kittredge, James Smith, Patrick Gallagher, Joseph Jackson; the Celtics, Messrs. Michael McDonald, James O'Rourke, Patrick Kane and John Duffy.

Mayer John F. Meehan is a frequent visitor to the Shedd park skating rink and he is very much interested in it. The mayor went to the rink yesterday afternoon and found at least one thousand skaters enjoying themselves. He is not quite satisfied, however, with the conditions there. He says that the ice is not as good as it ought to be and he does not believe in sparing pains or expense to make the rink as nearly perfect as possible. "I am a great believer in skating," said the mayor, "and I want to see the skating facilities at Shedd park improved upon. Skating is a splendid exercise and as a sport it is exceptionally healthy. The city is being well repaid for the trouble and expense of a rink at Shedd park." It was stated today that over 1500 skaters skated in the snow at the park last night.

DANGEROUS FIRE

In Building at Corner of Plain and Tanner Streets

What might have proved to be a serious fire and probably result in the loss of a life, broke out in the three story wooden building at the corner of Plain and Tanner streets shortly after four o'clock this morning. The sprinkler system in the building held the flames in check until the fireman arrived on the scene, the latter having been alarmed by the large gong on the outside of the building which started to clang as soon as the sprinkler head melted and the water began whirling about the vicinity of the fire.

The building is unoccupied at the present time. A watchman is kept there night and day. He was asleep when the fire broke out, but fortunately he awoke before the dense volume of smoke penetrated the room in which he was sleeping.

The fire which started over the boiler in the basement of the building was soon located and soon extinguished, but not before considerable of the woodwork had been burned away. The watchman informed Chief Hoseman that he heard an explosion and was of the opinion that one of the tubes had burst, but an examination by the firemen failed to show that there had been any explosion.

Members of Hose Co. No. 9, which is located nearby, were awakened by the clanging of the water gong on the outside of the building. They made a quick hitch and were soon on the scene. Owing to the dense smoke it was deemed advisable to secure assistance and word was telephoned to Chief Hoseman and the latter sent the Westford street truck to assist the hosemen.

Left Cambridge by Freight and Landed in Police Court

Joseph Burns, aged 18 years, of Boston, and Thomas F. Lane, 19 years, of Cambridge were arrested in Middlesex street last night by Patrolman John H. Clark for stealing a pair of trousers valued at $2 which were hanging outside the store of Isaac Paresky in Middlesex street. When arraigned in police court this morning each entered a plea of guilty and offered no defense. They were fined $15 apiece.

The young men were passing through Middlesex street early last night and upon seeing the trousers one of them took them off the hanger and both ran away. One of the clerks in the store had seen the defendants about the place and was able to give Patrolman Clark a good description of them.

The patrolman came across one of the young men outside the depot and after placing him under arrest, went to a nearby lunchroom where he found the other. The latter was getting some food for nothing, the clerk in the cart

SEN. ELKINS BURIED

His Body Laid to Rest in Little Town Named After Him

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Senator Stephen B. Elkins was buried today in the graveyard of this little mountain town. He was laid to rest within a brief time after the funeral train from Washington had arrived this morning bearing the bereaved family and relatives and friends, both in official life and out.

Another special train arrived from Charleston, the state capital. It brought Gov. Glasscock, his cabinet, the justices of the state supreme court and a score or more of state officials. The town to which the late senator had given his name was crowded with mourners. Many who could not come by rail drove over the mountain roads through hours of darkness to pay the last tribute to the man who had done so much for the state.

All business was suspended; the flags fluttered at half mast.

The special train from Washington bore a distinguished company. Representing the senate were Senators Scott, Bacon, Kean, Bailey, Foster, Carter, Smith of Maryland, and Root. The house delegation included Representatives Hubbard, Hughes, Woodard, Gaines, and Sturgis of West Virginia, Andrews of New Mexico, Rucker of Missouri, Alexander of New York, Longworth of Ohio and Lamb of Virginia.

Mrs. Elkins was not of the party. Overcoming by the shock she was badly shaken up that her physician forbade her leaving Washington. Of the immediate family there were Miss Katherine Elkins and other children, former Senator Davis, father of Mrs. Elkins and Richard Elkins of Philadelphia.

A number of distant relatives and several close friends also accompanied the body from the capital.

The funeral car was a bower of blossoms and the ponderous bronze coffin was buried in flowers which had poured into the Elkins home in Washington. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. F. H. Barron in the Davis Memorial Presbyterian church. The ceremony, simple in the extreme, was conducted in the presence of a throng that took up every inch of space within the edifice and overflowed into the street. The body was laid to rest in Maplewood cemetery, which Senator Elkins and former Senator Davis 20 years ago had planned and laid out.

The most elaborate precautions were taken to guard against the possibility of contagion of cholera. The bronze coffin, the plates of which were three inches thick, was inclosed in an outer case of armor-plate steel. This was lowered into the grave which had been lined with masonry and which will be hermetically sealed. There were brief eulogies at the grave in charge of the local lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, of which Senator Elkins was a member.

Several thousand persons stood uncovered near the open grave until the impressive ceremony was ended.

Immediately after the interment the congressional delegation and other distinguished members of the party returned to the national capital.

Miss Elkins and other members of the family were of the returning party, all of them being anxious to rejoin the stricken mother.

WALKER OPPOSED TO GERRYMANDER

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Speaker Walker of the house declared today that while the "gerrymander" in election districts originated in Massachusetts just a century ago he intended that, so far as his power in the matter went, there should be no taint of such methods in the rearrangement of the congressional districts by the legislative committee this year.

The legislative committee on redistricting is usually composed of five members of the senate and 11 of the house. In 1901 the committee was composed of one democratic senator and three democratic representatives. Mr. Walker announced that he intended to divide the house committee as evenly as possible between republicans and democrats and would not appoint anyone, republican or democrat, who did not give the assurance that he would be absolutely fair and would not gerrymander.

In a brief history of the "gerrymander" Mr. Walker says that it was under the administration of Governor Gerry of Massachusetts that the first "gerrymander" took place. The state at that time was restricted to secure a majority of democratic members of congress, and it is said that Gov. Gerry instigated the measure. As one of the districts had a fancied resemblance of a salamander the word "gerrymander" was evolved.

ENTIRE FAMILY Was Nearly Killed by Coal Gas

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Twenty-four families in the six-story apartment house at 53 East 102d street were stupefied by coal gas yesterday morning, and when the police came they found the janitor, David Sigel, his wife Sarah, and their three children, Louis 10, Esther 7, and Julia 4, unconscious in their rooms in the basement.

Sigel banked the fires in the house at 11 o'clock Thursday night and then shut off all drafts, as has been his custom. In the room adjoining the cellar were his three sleeping children.

To insure them against cold Sigel left the door of their room open. The door of the room occupied by him and his wife also was left open.

The tenant's home at 2:30 o'clock was almost suffocated by the coal gas as he entered the house. He ran to the basement and tried to arouse Sigel, but failing, called in Policeman Meyers. Meyers aroused the families on the upper floors. Many persons were so affected by inhaling the gas that they staggered as they ran to the streets. The policeman then got into Sigel's room. Sigel and his wife were carried to the street, where they quickly revived.

Three children could not be aroused. A physician came from Harlem hospital, and then a call was sent for a doctor from Mr. Sinai hospital. After half an hour's work the children were revived.

Every window in the house was opened and the fire in the furnace was drawn. Then the shivering tenants were permitted to return to their homes.

STOCK MARKET

STRONG AT THE CLOSING HOUR TODAY

Short Interest Alarmed at Character of Buying Orders—Quite a Demand for Heading—The Market Showed a Good Rise

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The market opened heavy under an active selling movement, in which all leading shares participated. There was a sale of 8,000 shares of Reading at from 15 1/2 to 15 3/4, and 500 U. S. Steel at from 72 1/2 to 73 1/2 against 74 1/2 yesterday. Elsewhere losses ran from 3/4 to 1 1/2, with an exceptional decline of 1 1/2 in Canadian Pacific and 1 in U. P. The announcement of the closing of the Carnegie Trust Co. was made just as the market opened.

The market received influential backing as soon as the closing of the Carnegie Trust Co. became generally known and supporting orders were quickly distributed which stopped the decline. Reading, which had been one of the weakest features was marked up from 15 1/2 to 15 3/4, placing it a half point above yesterday's close. Con. Gas also scored a similar recovery but the rest of the list fell a trifle short of making up all of its loss.

The market closed strong. The short interest took alarm at the substantial character of the buying orders, which appeared in the market, and bid for stocks eagerly to retire their contracts. The demand was especially urgent for Reading, which climbed to 15 3/4, a rally from the low of the morning of almost 3 points. Generally speaking, the market showed a good rise over the final prices of yesterday with the inquiry broad and comprehensive and on a large scale for both accounts.

TO KILL ALFONSO

Daring Attempt on Life of King of Spain

MALAGA, Spain, Jan. 7.—What is believed by many to have been an attempt upon the life of King Alfonso occurred during his brief visit here on Thursday, and threw his attendants into a state of panic.

The facts became generally known for the first time today. The king, accompanied by Premier Canalejas, the ministers of war and marine, had arrived here en route for Melilla for a week's stay in the vicinity of the Spanish town in Morocco. At the station his majesty was acclaimed by a great throng that joyously followed the carriage in which he drove with the mayor to the palace of the governor-general.

Arriving at the palace, the king stepped down from the carriage and, turning for a moment, again acknowledged the cheers and then entered the palace. As the door swung closed behind him an explosion in the crowd outside drowned the cheers. Before the alarmed and stampeded mass fully realized just what had happened, grenades had closed in about the spot from which the report arose. It was found that two persons had been slightly injured, but no other harm was done.

An official account of the incident says that it was unimportant. A civilian "dropped a pistol enclosed in a box." No further details were made public. Yesterday the king and his party boarded the royal yacht and proceeded for Melilla. The yacht was convoyed by warships.

CRUSADE BEGUN

To Stop Trading and Selling of Broken Down Horses

The influx of aged and decrepit horses into this city from surrounding cities and towns will soon come to a stop, if the efforts of Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society and Judge Hadley of the local court are of any avail. Agent Richardson, while always active in looking after the welfare of the dumb animals, is about to start a crusade which will lead to a number of arrests if people try to bring old broken down horses into Lowell for the purpose of disposing of them, and Judge Hadley in conversation with representatives of the press this morning expressed his opinion as to what he would do to the offenders in order to teach them lessons which they would not forget.

The matter was brought to the attention of the newspaper representative of the case of Samuel Shatz of Lawrence, who was charged with cruelty to a horse, found guilty and a fine of $5 imposed. The light fine was imposed because it was learned that Shatz did not own the animal in question, but had been paid by a Lawrence man to lead it over the road to Lowell where it was to be disposed of.

Last Thursday morning Shatz was leading one of the worst specimens of horseflesh imaginable through Bridge street when Patrolman John Leighton saw him and took the man and the horse to the police station. The animal was 25 years of age, broken down, spavined, had sores all over its body, and had the flesh gouged out of one of its ankles where it had interfered.

Shatz told what the police constable straightforward story. He said he had a family was out of work and when offered a dollar to lead the horse to Lowell he did so. He said that it took him four hours to cover the nine miles between Lawrence and this city. He said he was going to take the horse to a place in Lowell where he

It is just as important that a $100 of earnings be safely invested as $10,000. The same principles apply in both cases. This firm gives every investor the benefit of long experience on conservative lines.

THE HEALTH DEPT.

Reports Many Cases of Diphtheria

That there is considerable diphtheria in Lowell at the present time is evidenced by the call for anti-toxin at the office of the board of health. The number of cases is not alarming by any means, but it is generally understood that all cases are not reported to the office of the board of health. Dr. Jas. J. McCarthy, chairman of the board of charities, called at the office of the board of health this forenoon to get some anti-toxin. Dr. McCarthy, speaking of the use of anti-toxin, said: "The people should be educated as to the value of anti-toxin at the beginning of the disease. It is absolutely imperative that it should be applied at an early date in order to get the best results. I treated the disease before anti-toxin was ushered in and I know the value of it."

FUNERAL NOTICES

PORTER—The funeral of Adm. J. F. Porter will take place at his residence, 100 Shaw street, Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Friends invited, but requested not to send flowers. Funeral in charge of J. A. Weinbeck.

SULLIVAN—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Sullivan will take place Monday morning from her home, No. 33 Dover street, at 8.15. A high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Funeral in charge of Peter H. Savage.

O'LOUGHLIN—The funeral of John O'Loughlin will take place Monday morning from the home of his sister, Mrs. John Greeley, 30 Marion street, at 8.30. At 9.45 a high mass of requiem will be sung at the Sacred Heart church. Funeral in charge of Peter H. Savage.

LE MARINEL—Died, Jan. 6th, Mrs. Amelia G. Le Marinel, aged 68 yrs., at her home, corner Groton road and Newfield street, North Chelmsford. She is survived by her husband, John Le Marinel, Sr., three sons, John, Jr., Theodore, and Walter, and two daughters, Mrs. T. E. Mitchell and Mrs. D. F. Small. Funeral services will be held at the residence in North Chelmsford, Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Friends are invited without further notice; burial private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

The remains will be sent on the 9.10 train Monday night to Vanhook Hill, Ontario, J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

AVIATION MEET

WAS OPENED IN SAN FRANCISCO TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Under clear skies, in crisp air hardly stirred by a breath, San Francisco's first aviation meet opened today. The forenoon hours were given over to novices, 11 of whom brought planes to the field. Multifarious machines, some of the standard makes and some of such rare types as the V-shaped biplane and the multiplane were to be seen. They will compete for distance, duration, height and speed.

The professional contests will take place this afternoon. Two bird men from over seas are on the field—Hubert Latham of France, and James R. H. of England. Glenn Curtiss is at the head of his own camp with Charles Willard and Eugene Ely as assistants. The Wright brothers are represented by Walter Brookings and Philip Parmelee. With the exception of a few brief flights made here by Paulhan last year nothing has been seen of professional aviation displays in this part of California.

DRASTIC BILLS

To Put a Stop to Betting

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 7.—Identical bills of the most drastic nature have been introduced in both houses of the legislature which are intended to put a stop to betting of all kinds. Imprisonment from 30 days to a year is the penalty with alternative fine. The betting legislated against is against any contest of skill, speed or power of man or beast or between men, beasts or mechanical apparatus, or upon the result or purported result of any lot, chance, casualty or any known contingent event whatsoever.

FOR THE McFARLAND-WELSH BOUT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 7.—Packey McFarland, who is here, last night received a bid of $4500 from the National Sporting Club, London, for his first bout with Freddie Welsh. Hugh McIntosh has already offered $1500 and 25 per cent of the gross receipts. McFarland said he would accept one of the offers, but he did not know which. In either event the go will take place in England.

BOTH DRANK POISON

One Sister Dead and Other is Not Expected to Live

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Arms interlinked and facing a mirror to watch their dying expressions, Mabel and Isabella Boisseau, sisters and members of a prominent family, drank poison last night in a confectionery store here. Mabel died at the city hospital and her sister is not expected to live. Before taking the poison one of the girls requested the proprietor to call a policeman.

Not until Mabel fell off the chair, writhing in pain, was any attention paid to the girls. The second sister dropped to the floor soon after Mabel collapsed.

"We are tired of living," was the last message written by the partners in the suicide pact.

The despondent girls drank the poisons from soda water glasses.

LABOR TROUBLES IN LYNN

LYNN, Jan. 7.—A peculiar industrial muddle exists at the shoe factory of Albert Creighton in this city, where the lasters have made a demand on the firm for an increase of half a cent a pair on cloth and calf shoes. The Creighton factory is the only factory in the city having a twelve months agreement with the union, under the terms of which no strike can be declared and all disputes are to be referred to arbitration. The union and the firm have each named two arbitrators, but these have been unable to agree except to name John H. Madden, a local business man, as the fifth arbitrator, and Mr. Madden has declined to serve. Several other men have been named as the fifth arbitrator but Mr. Madden was the only one on whom both sides could agree. The settlement of the controversy appeared today to be somewhat distant.

TO INQUIRE INTO LORENZ'S SANITY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 7.—A new commission was appointed today to examine into the sanity of Ernest Lorenz, who is now awaiting trial for the murder of Gilbert Mann in Johnston on Jan. 8, 1910, and also for a number of highway robberies. A former commission reported last summer that while Lorenz was insane he was "normally responsible" for the crimes with which he is charged. The naming of another commission today was at the request of Walter Wightman, agent of the state board of charities and corrections, who claims that Lorenz should not be tried for murder because of the fact that he is insane.

THE "ENEMY" DISCOVERED

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—The naval demonstration against the Atlantic coast by the returning North Atlantic squadron under command of Rear Admiral Schroeder has been defeated by the defending fleet, under the command of Rear Admiral Stanton, in the opinion of the naval authorities, who learned today that the "enemy" had been discovered and located off the coast.

Rear Admiral Schroeder sailed from Europe ten days ago with 16 battleships for Guantanamo, with orders to threaten the Atlantic coast on the way, the game being to get as close to the coast as possible without being discovered.

Rear Admiral Stanton was placed in the command of the defending fleet and given the warships Tennessee, Montana, North Carolina, Washington, Birmingham and Salem. This fleet sailed earlier in the week and has been on patrol from Eastport to Jacksonville. Wireless telegraphy was eliminated during the game, and it was necessary to locate the "enemy" under the old conditions.

It is understood that having been discovered, the attacking fleet continued on its way to the West Indies.

Schooner Had to be Abandoned

CHATHAM, Jan. 7.—The Rockland, Me., schooner Silver Heels, after 40 years of active service along the Atlantic coast, has selected the shifting sands of Nantucket shoals as her last resting place, orders having been given today to abandon her. The Silver Heels was edging her way from a New Brunswick port to New York with a cargo of laths when her skipper tacked too far inshore after passing Shovel lightship last Thursday and the schooner struck on the bar that makes out just to the southward of Monomoy Point lighthouse.

The life savers and the revenue cutter Gresham worked all day yesterday trying to drag her into deeper water and two big hawsers were parted before the attempt was given up.

A band of Chatham wreckers will save what they can for the owners, but the greater part of the Silver Heels will be swallowed by the shifting sands to mingle with the bones of hundreds of other unfortunate coasters.

COLONIZATION PROJECT

Of International Scope Planned by Catholic Clergymen

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—A colonization project of international scope and which will not only attempt to turn the tide of immigration from cities to the country but in a measure to control immigration to the United States is being pushed by an organization of Roman Catholic clergymen, according to a news article printed by the Tribune today.

The organization is the Catholic Organization of the United States of America and its founder and first president is the Rev. Julius E. Devos, pastor of St. John Berchmann's church, Chicago.

The object of the organization is three-fold: First, to search out the most available agricultural lands in the United States which are open to colonization and then direct immigrants to these lands; second, to check undesirable immigration to the United States through co-operation with the local clergy in those foreign countries from which the great bulk of immigrants come; third, to establish a church and a school in each of the colonies formed, in order to give permanence to the community.

The first step of the society will be to send abroad chaplains of colonization to interest the Catholic clergy of Europe in the project. The local priests will be asked to keep these chaplains informed of families within their parishes who intend to come to the United States. If the immigrants are of the desirable class the chaplains will endeavor to have them come to the new agricultural colonies and stay away from the cities. If they are classed as "undesirables," the local priests will endeavor to dissuade them from emigrating.

SENATOR LODGE

Criticised at Sumner Meeting

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—At the centennial memorial meeting in honor of the birth of Charles Sumner last evening in Faneuil hall, it is an open question which caused the greater surprise—the father severe criticism of Charles Sumner's peculiarities and shortcomings by the orator of the evening, Ex-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., or the scathing criticism by Frank B. Sanborn at the absence of the two U. S. senators of Massachusetts from any of the celebrations in honor of Charles Sumner.

Mr. Sanborn began his brief eulogy of Sumner with a reference to the absence of the senators, saying that "they, of all men, should be present to testify to the honor and esteem in which the greatest of all the U. S. senators from Massachusetts, held."

And he closed with these words: "I wonder today that neither of the senators of this ancient state has thought fit to favor these anniversary meetings with his presence and his words of grateful remembrance. If unable to imitate the high virtues of Sumner, they should at least have paid that recent respect for the opinion of mankind, which the commemoration of departed excellence demands—to the exclusion of the petty, self-seeking and disappointed politics of the vanished year."

The meeting which was almost exclusively of colored people—as far as the audience was concerned—began soon after 7 o'clock with a service of song which lasted about a half an hour. Then, Clement C. Morgan, chairman of the exercises, spoke briefly on the character and great life work of Charles Sumner.

On the program it stated that Hon. John L. Bates would preside and that Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge has been invited to deliver an address upon the "Congressional career of Mr. Sumner." Hon. John L. Bates was unavoidably absent owing to a business call to New York, as was explained by Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., before he began his address, and at the end of the meeting letters of regret were read from Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Hon. W. Murray Crane and ex-U. S. Senator Foraker of Ohio. There was singing by Mrs. Estelle Plinkney Clough of Worcester, William H. Richardson and the Coleridge-Taylor choral society. A quartet also sang.

The speakers of the evening were Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., George G. Bradford, Butler R. Wilson, Frank B. Sanborn, Dr. Francis H. Rowley, Rev. Dr. Horace Brunstead, ex-president of Atlanta university; Rev. Joshua A. Brackett of Cambridge and Rev. Samuel M. Crothers.

AT ST. PETER'S

Beautiful Music at Holy Hour Service

The Holy Hour service at St. Peter's church last evening attracted a large congregation, embracing many from other parishes, and, a few non-Catholics. Rev. John T. O'Brien officiated. The musical program was of a high order, both choirs assisting with special programs. The soloists were: Miss Gertrude Kelcher, Miss May E. Whitley, Mr. James L. Donnelly and Mr. Cornelius E. Calahan. The singing of "Adeste Fideles" by the vested choir was particularly well done. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy was organist.

Solemn benediction was given with Rev. John J. Harkins, pastor of St. Margaret's parish, celebrant, assisted by Rev. James J. McGuinness and Rev. John T. O'Brien. Rev. Dr. Kelcher occupied a seat within the sanctuary during the service. The services closed with the singing of "Holy God."

Maggi Favors Annexation to Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Alfred L. Maggi, ex-superintendent of streets and city engineer of Chelsea, created quite a sensation at the meeting of the committee of 50 citizens of that city who have in charge the preliminary arrangements for a future charter for Chelsea last night, when he stated that the only salvation for Chelsea was annexation to Boston.

In reply to a question from ex-Alderman Wm. J. Williams he stated that he believed strongly in the actual, political and absolute annexation of Chelsea to Boston.

Mr. Maggi said that he felt that annexation was a matter that the committee should give most serious attention. The commerce of Boston, the board of trade and the chamber of commerce all argued, he stated, that annexation of Chelsea to Boston was advisable, and as for the betterment of Chelsea and its people, he stated that there wasn't the slightest doubt, but that it was to be vastly improved by the city annexing to Boston.

Ex-Representative Marcus M. Morritt asked the speaker if he favored annexation as suggested in the inaugural address of Gov. Foss Thursday, and he stated that he believed in direct annexation. Mr. Maggi said further that it was the only thing left for Chelsea to do and that a large delegation of citizens were now engaged in circulating a petition in Chelsea looking to securing legislative action bringing about annexation.

The petition which is in circulation is as follows: "We, the undersigned citizens of Chelsea, petition the members of the legislature from Chelsea to introduce into the present legislature a bill for the annexation of Chelsea to Boston."

Owen Moran's Challenge is Blocked by Wolgast

When Owen Moran, the English boxer, arrived in Chicago Monday prepared to challenge Ad Wolgast to fight for the world's lightweight title. He learned to his dismay that Wolgast had accepted an offer to "fight" twenty rounds with George Menzies, fourth rounder, at Los Angeles on February 22. Wolgast knew last week that Moran intended to claim his title by forfeit if the Milwaukee boy did not accept a challenge, so he signed with Menzies as a subterfuge. Moran of course realized that he couldn't secure a match with Wolgast for at least three months, if then, and therefore decided to withhold his challenge and forfeit money. But Moran's manager, C. J. Harvey, put Wolgast on the pan until the alleged lightweight champion fairly sized.

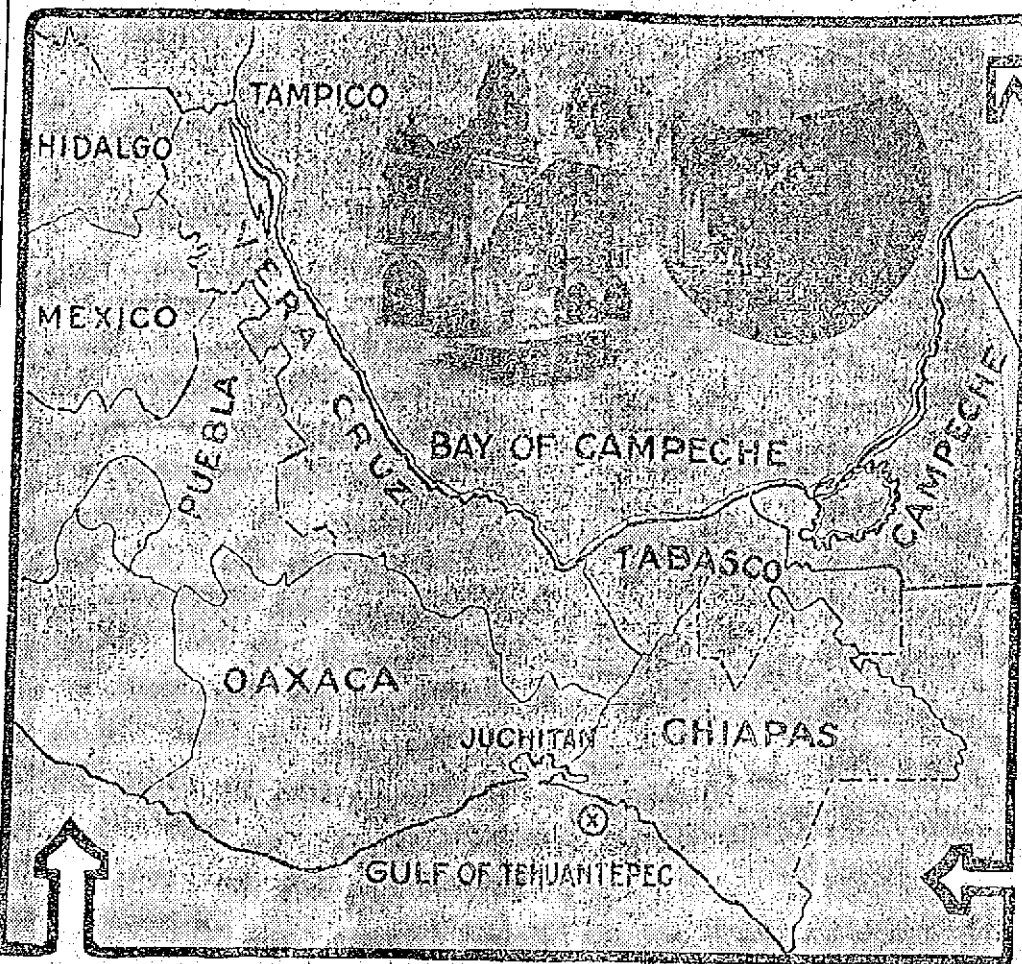

"Wolgast has simply sidestepped us," declared Harvey. "He has taken on Menzies and has no time to bother with Moran just now. Menzies is about the poorest apology for a fighter that Wolgast could dig up yet he has the nerve to meet him instead of taking on a real challenger. In my opinion promoters should refuse to put up such matches for Wolgast. In which event he would soon be compelled to come out of his shell."

Harvey and the manager of Packy McFarland are discussing a match between the latter and Moran to be decided in Milwaukee. Harvey didn't believe there was any use talking until McFarland's manager intimated that Packy would do 133 pounds for the Briton. McFarland would prefer 135 pounds at 6 o'clock, his best weight, but Moran doesn't weigh an ounce more than 128, says Harvey, and will appear upon 135, letting McFarland scale at 6. A Milwaukee boxing promoter wants to stage the bout some time in February.

McFarland, it is reported, may take another trip to England to box Freddie Welsh at McIntosh's Olympia on February 9, the weight to be 133 at 2 o'clock. It has been sent out from Chicago that McFarland will sign articles provided Eusebio Corri is the referee. It is asserted that McFarland has offered McFarland $1,500 in cash and a round trip ticket, in addition to a percentage of the receipts, to meet Welsh in London. There is no denying the fact that McFarland wants to fight the English lightweight champion again because the unfair deal Packy received when Referee Scott called him out with Welsh last year a draw, that McFarland stated while here two weeks ago that Corri was the only man in Great Britain who would be allowed to referee for him in future. For some reason Welsh has always been violently opposed to Corri, although that gentleman is a member of the stock exchange and is not a professional referee. He is highly regarded as a boxing expert, however, and is well known for his fairness, particularly to American boxers. If Welsh will accept Corri, therefore, McFarland will make the match, but he will not leave here for the other side until this important question has been decided. As far as fighting Welsh on February 9 is concerned it is doubtful if McFarland can be ready by that time. Packy boxes Jack Goodman here on January 17 and may need several days' rest after that before sailing for London. At that rate he would have less than two weeks on the other side to get down to the weight. For that reason if there's a fight McFarland will probably ask for a later date.

JAPAN, WITH PERMISSION OF MEXICO, SAID TO BE ESTABLISHING NAVAL STATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Negotiations being carried on between Mexico and Japan will result in an ultimate treaty, which will give the Japanese navy a supply station in Bahia de Todos Santos, on the bay of All Saints, according to a statement made by Gustavo Madero, brother of General Francisco Madero, the leader of the Mexican rebels. Within fifty miles of this bay, which is called the best base on the frontier, is a colony of Japanese who, according to Gustavo Madero, have been imported by President Diaz and given concessions that no other members of a foreign race have been given before by an official of the government of Mexico. The motive behind the treaty, according to the brother of the revolutionary leader, is that the opening of the Panama canal will virtually kill the entire business of the Tehuantepec railway, in which

Mexican and some American interests have invested something like $100,000,000 of capital. "This railway," said Senor Madero, "is at the zenith of its power financially and is practically earning money. It runs from the port of Salina Cruz, on the Atlantic coast, to Salina Cruz, on the Pacific, and controls almost every bit of freight and transportation south of the great transcontinental American roads. It can easily be seen what the opening of the Panama canal will do to the Tehuantepec railway. And it must be remembered that President Diaz has never forgotten and never will forget that the United States as the dominant nation of the western hemisphere interfered with the plans of bygone schemers by countenancing the revolt which led ultimately to the annexing of the state of Texas. President Diaz has always felt—and he has expressed his feelings in no uncertain terms to men who were at one time among the members of his council, but who are now outcasts—that Mexico has not been treated fairly by the United States in the matter of building the Panama canal. He has always expected until the past few years that the United States would in a great measure share with Mexico the benefits of the Panama canal, especially since its operation will put an end to the great profits the Tehuantepec railway has poured into the pockets of its owners. The first evidence of the growing friendliness between Diaz and Japan came when he granted concessions to the Japanese who have established themselves in the state of Chiapas, which is not far distant from the bay of All Saints. The last evidence of his friendship for the people of the militia's kingdom is yet to be seen."

MIDDLESEX CLUB Won From the Lamson Bowlers

The Middlesex club bowling team met the representatives of the Lamson Consolidated Store Service Co. on the alleys last night and defeated the latter team by winning two of the three points and capturing the total. Lather of the winning team was high man.

The Bleckery and Bunting teams had at it and the former team put it all over the latter. The bowling of both teams in the last string was exceptionally high, both teams going over the 500 mark. O'Brien and McIntyre of the winning team were high men, each having a triple of 311.

In the game between the Officers and Machineists the Officers won with comparative ease.

The Wood Grangers gave Coggin's Pets a severe trouncing.

In the Moody Bridge league the Clerks gave the Perron Juniors a whitewash, winning by over 100 pins. Sturtevant of the winning team with a total of 326 was the king pin.

The Leaders also rubbed it into the Mongeaus, winning all three points.

Large Increase at the Local Office Officers Elected by the Veteran Firemen

After a most strenuous two weeks prior to Christmas, the letter-carriers and clerks at the local postoffice were of the opinion that the mail would be light, and it was for about a week, but the mails are getting heavy again owing to the fact that the local merchants are sending out announcements of the spring openings and marked down sales.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun yesterday Postmaster A. G. Thompson said he was proud of the work done by the members of the postal force and that they were deserving of much credit for the efficient manner in which they did their work under the most trying conditions.

He said that the men were very tired after the holiday work and had but little rest before the mails started getting heavy again.

Annuity, about this time, thousands of pieces of mail are sent into the local office and the greater portion of it is first-class matter, which has to be delivered at once. Years ago the business men who advertised by the use of the mails sent the letters second class, but they soon found that when the recipient found a one-cent stamp in the corner of the envelope, the envelope was thrown away without even opening it to learn what it contained.

Of recent years the merchants send the announcements first class, which of course is double the price, but they claim it is cheaper in the end for when a letter comes first class and sealed it is opened and generally read.

Mr. Edward Montmarquet, formerly of the A. G. Pollard Co. of this city has accepted the position of buyer with the J. G. Hill Dry Goods Co. of Manchester, N. H.

The annual meeting, election of officers and banquet of the members of the Lowell Veteran Firemen's Association, was held Thursday at the central fire station. It was the 28th annual and proved to be a great success.

All the members of the organization were real veterans for they at one time or another assisted in pulling the hand hose and hand engines in years prior to the installation of horse drawn apparatus. At one time the membership included several hundred men, but year by year the number is decreased by death and at the present time there are but 28 members.

Twenty gathered at the central fire station last night and after the reports of the various officers had been read and accepted the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, E. A. Salmon; first vice-president, J. E. Hill; second vice-president, W. W. Murphy; third vice-president, A. H. Sabin; fourth vice-president, W. A. Dolan; recording secretary, C. H. Philbrick; financial secretary, J. F. Norton; treasurer, J. D. Sweet; board of directors, J. E. Norton, J. Clark Haywood, Nathaniel Bishop, C. Stackpole and E. E. Smith; foreman of engine division, J. E. Hill; second foreman, Nat. Bishop; third foreman, W. H. Halstead; steward, J. P. Norton; relief committee, E. A. Salmon, C. H. Philbrick, J. H. Sweet, H. Hutchinson and L. W. Collins; delegate to league for two years, W. W. Murphy.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the members marched into Chief Hosmer's office, where a table was laid and an excellent menu discussed. After the inner man had been satisfied cigars were lighted and addresses were made by Charles H. Philbrick and Assistant Engineer James F. Norton of the local fire department and others.

BOSTON CONCERN

To Build Fine Apartment Houses in Belvidere

Mr. Herford Elliott, of the real estate firm of T. H. Elliott & Co., has secured options on certain sites in a most desirable part of Belvidere on which Boston capitalists are contemplating the erection of a number of first class apartment houses such as are to be found in the Back Bay, Boston. It is understood that the Boston parties are in a syndicate for the purpose of building a large number of up-to-date apartment houses in the best residential sections of several Massachusetts cities having already erected some in Boston. It is said that nothing now in existence in Lowell can compare with the flats which they contemplate building for elaborateness and convenience.

Speaking of the real estate and building outlook Mr. Elliott states that it is surprisingly good in Lowell and all indications are for a fine business year in these lines next spring.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—After one of the stormiest sessions in the history of the Tidewater baseball league it was decided last night to make the monthly salary limit $1900. Instead of $2475, which was the limit last season. The $175 individual limit was continued.

AL KAUFMAN HAS BEEN PROMISED MATCH WITH JOHNSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Al Kaufman, California heavyweight, who has been promised a battle with Jack Johnson, is the latest one to announce his intention of going abroad. Al figures that if he takes on several of the American heavyweights in Paris and stows them away in the line it will make him a better drawing card with Johnson. Within the next month or so there will be five or six American heavyweights in gay Paris. Among them will be Joe Jeannette, Jim Parry and Sam Langford. Kaufman will try hard to land a battle with Langford. Kaufman figures that if he defeated the Boston negro it would hurry his contest with Johnson and the Paris promoters would offer a big purse for a bout with the champion. Johnson wants $25,000 for his end and insists that the fight take place within the United States. Now, as most of us know, the boxing game is not particularly prosperous, and any promoter who would guarantee Johnson $25,000 for his end, to say nothing of what Kaufman would demand, would be looked upon as more or less of a capitalist. Should Kaufman prove a big drawing card in Paris the promoters might offer a purse that would suit Johnson.

Unusual Spectacle Seen by
Hundreds of Persons

MALDEN, Jan. 7.—A locomotive ablaze, with the engineer and fireman at their posts, was the unusual spectacle which attracted the attention of hundreds of persons in this city early last night. It was the locomotive hauling the train which leaves Boston at 5.55 for Lynn over the Saugus branch. The fire near the firebox blew out soon after leaving Malden. The curtains and the woodwork in the cab caught fire and, fanned by the wind, burned briskly as the train passed Franklin street on the way to the Faulkner station.

Engineer H. P. Goodwin and his fireman, H. J. Morrow, showed their pluck and remained at their places notwithstanding the danger. The cotton packing round the boiler was soon ablaze

THE BOYS' CLUB

Officers Chosen by the Directors

The directors of the Lowell Boys' club held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon and re-elected the following officers: President, William S. Southworth; vice president, Franklin Nourse; secretary, Greenleaf C. Brock; treasurer, Lewis E. MacBrayne; auditor, Ralph F. Draper, trustee for three years, John J. Pickman.

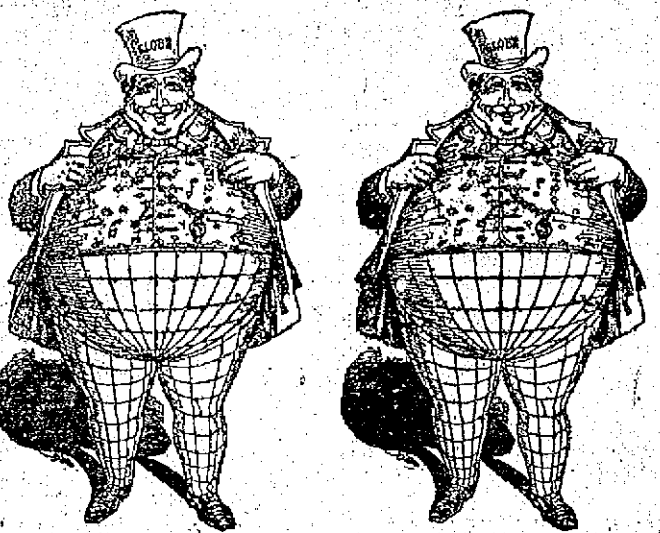

James I. Stewart, the superintendent of the club, presented the following interesting report:

"The attendance for the past three months has been very good, having an average of more than 200 boys per night. In November the attendance was not as large as it generally is, probably on account of the fine weather, but in December our rooms were crowded every evening, making our average about the same as in other years. On the night before Christmas we distributed some 270 bags of oranges, candy and popcorn to as many boys, and on the following Monday gave the balance of the 200 bags made ready to boys who were not there on Christmas eve.

"The classes in carpentry, cobbling, cane-sewing and sign-lettering are running as usual, with as much interest as in previous years. The carpentry class is finishing a few tables for games which were needed.

"The cobbling class is mending an

THE FIRST LINK A SELF MADE MAN

Of the Proposed Inland Waterways
Is the New Senator From Ohio

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 7.—Twenty-five hundred people, including many men prominent in state and nation, tendered yesterday a public celebration of the completion of the first link of the proposed inland waterways from Maine to Florida, on the banks of the waterway near Beaufort, N. C.

The celebration was presided by a parade of naval and government boats, headed by the revenue cutter Cimicola, while probably one hundred gasoline launches brought up the rear.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly, welcoming the visitors and paying tribute to Captain Earle I. Brown, corps of U. S. engineers in charge of the work, who declared the waterway officially open.

The canal has been under construction since 1907 and was completed last December. It shortens the distance from Oriental, Newbern and other points to Beaufort and southern ports about 90 miles and gives double the depth of water. The canal is 20 to 250 feet wide and 10 feet deep at mean low water, while at high tide it will give about 12 feet. The length is 20 miles, five of which were cut through dry land, the remainder by dredging and straightening Adams and Cares creeks. The canal gives an inside route to coastwise vessels, enabling them to avoid treacherous Hatteras and Cape Lookout.

way through school and through Princeton. He practiced law in Canton. In 1908 he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor and was defeated by Harmon. In November he was Harmon's running mate. He is married, but has no children. Pomarene will qualify Jan. 9 and preside over the senate until he goes to Washington on March 4.

Through Pomarene's selection a coal miner may become governor of Ohio. William Green, president pro tem, of the senate, will succeed to the office of lieutenant-governor. Should Governor Harmon become the democratic candidate for president, he probably would resign as governor, and Senator Green would succeed him. Green was a former president of the Ohio miners.

MEDICINE HAT

PROPOSED CHANGE OF NAME

AROUSES KIPLING'S WRATH

(From the Emporia Gazette.)

The town bearing the above unique name is greatly exercised over the fact that the name is used in a flippant way by newspapers all over the country. It is a venerable joke that the blizzards all come from Medicine Hat.

In the days when that burgh was small and struggling, and peopled by pioneers, nobody cared for this. In fact, the hardy settlers enjoyed it; they were glad to have the village advertised in any connection.

But Medicine Hat has grown, and now it has a considerable city, and the real estate agents are numerous, and extremely jealous of the reputation of the place. The real estate agents and prominent business men have come to the conclusion that the town never will be taken seriously so long as it bears the name of Medicine Hat, and they are talking of changing the name to something modern, something suggestive of values in real estate, something that will appeal to prominent business men the world over.

The report of the contemplated change reached Rudyard Kipling in his sequestered English home, and stirred him up to wrath. As a young man Kipling went to Medicine Hat largely because the name attracted him. A town with such a name must be worth seeing. Ever since then he has had an affectionate regard for the border town—with the queer Indian name. So when the story reached him he sat down and opened a cold pint bottle of green ink, and took his pen in hand, and wrote a corking letter to the prominent business men of Medicine Hat. Following is a part of the letter:

"To my mind the name of Medicine Hat has an advantage over all the names I have heard quoted. It echoes the old Cree and Blackfoot tradition of red mystery and romance that once filled the prairies. Also it hints, I venture to think, at the weird and undeciphered city in the shape of your natural gas. Believe me, the very name is an asset, and as years go on will become more and more of an asset. It has no duplicate in the world. It makes men ask questions, and as I know more than twenty years ago, draws the feet of the young men toward it. I do not think much of a family which in the year would change its name for social reasons. They think still less of a man who, because he is successful, repudiates the wife who stood by him in his early struggles. I do not know what I should say, but I have the clearest notion of what I should think of a town that went back on itself.

There is the case for the defense, advanced as only Kipling could advance it, and may be hoped that the real estate agents and prominent business men of Medicine Hat will quit their foolishness and permit their town to glory in the name that has become a household word all over the world.

The largest town in Kansas once had a pretty, poetic Indian name that was known everywhere. "Wyandotté." When the town bore that name it had an individuality; it occupied a distinct place on the map; when men mentioned it, it was not associated with any other town. No other town of any consequence had the name. It should be valued as a priceless possession. It was a trademark, and a mark of greatness.

For some reason that only the gods can understand, that charming distinctive name was abandoned, and the town deliberately assumed a name that marked it forever as a mere suburb of a city in Missouri. Wyandotté became Kansas City, Kan., and ever since the change was made the town has been a nonentity. Kansas City regards it as a poor relation, and the state of Kansas is always wondering why the town doesn't move across the river and be done with it. A woman when she marries, can change her name without sacrifice of dignity or self-respect, but a woman is the only creature under the sun that can do it.

BIG "MOTOR BOAT"

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A steamship line plying between this port and Russia announced yesterday that it will put into commission next September an 11,000-ton trans-Atlantic "motor boat" equipped with internal combustion engines and accommodations for 400 passengers. The ship is now building on the Clyde.

One of the German lines has also building two 800-ton motor driven freighters.

The outcome of this experiment will be watched with the keenest interest, not only by the merchant marine, but by the navies of the world. If it proves a pronounced success the days of steam will be counted as numbered.

Is the New Senator From Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 7.—Lieutenant-Governor-elect Allice Pomarene, progressive democrat, will be the next United States senator from Ohio. Pomarene is a self-made man. He was born at Berlin, O., forty-seven years ago, a poor boy. He worked his way through school and through Princeton. He practiced law in Canton. In 1908 he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor and was defeated by Harmon. In November he was Harmon's running mate. He is married, but has no children. Pomarene will qualify Jan. 9 and preside over the senate until he goes to Washington on March 4.

JURY'S FINDING

In Case of Death of Cumberland Couple

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 7.—"Came to their deaths by means unknown to the jury."

This was the conclusion reached by the 12 men who for nearly five hours last night heard testimony relative to the deaths last Saturday of Grace Blosser and Charles T. Twigg, whose dead bodies were found by Mrs. Blosser, the mother of the dead girl, on a sofa in the parlor of the Blosser home. The tragedy occurred less than 20 hours prior to the time that had been set for the marriage of the victims.

One of the points brought out was that May Blosser, one of Grace's sisters, had been helping her mother carry Grace's body from the parlor to a bed in a room in the rear, herself being seized with illness which showed symptoms of poisoning by hydrocyanic acid.

"No connection between this and the deaths of the others," however, was made apparent by the questioning of the witnesses.

There was abundant testimony that careful examinations of the bodies, by medical men and chemists showed that cyanide of potassium caused the deaths of Twigg and Grace Blosser. How the poison was brought into the house is still a mystery.

DOCTORS FIGHT

Manchester

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 7.—Two well-known physicians of the city, Dr. J. E. Feide Roy of 604 Harvard street, with offices at 1235 Elm street, and Dr. Gustave Lafontaine of 1152 Elm street, which is also his office address, clashed in a professional dispute yesterday morning, and after it was all over the latter was nursing a black eye.

The argument took place in the office of Dr. Lafontaine. It consisted of a brief verbal passage-at-arms and a blow from the fist of Dr. Roy. The only spectator was Joseph Gagnon, a patient of both practitioners. According to the accounts given by the doctors to the friends and partisans and the testimony of the eyewitness, the story is quite exciting.

Dr. Roy for some weeks has been attending Mr. Gagnon, who has been ill. Mr. Gagnon belongs to a lodge of which Dr. Lafontaine is the medical examiner. He went to Dr. Dr. Lafontaine yesterday to get a certificate of health from him to present to the railway company for the purpose of qualifying himself as having recovered from his illness. Dr. Lafontaine asked him who was his doctor and on being told it was Dr. Roy, Dr. Lafontaine is said to have made disparaging remarks about Dr. Roy, which were repeated to the latter, and the encounter followed.

Dr. Lafontaine then preferred charges against Dr. Roy and the latter, it is anticipated, will be aired in police court. Dr. Lafontaine is a member of the board of health and weighs 110 pounds. Dr. Roy is a heavyweight, tipping the scales at the 300 notch.

PROSPEROUS YEAR

OF "LUXURIES"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—That the year 1910 must have been a reasonably prosperous one in the United States is indicated by the figures of importation of the class of articles usually termed "luxuries." No more satisfactory barometer of general business conditions is furnished than the figures representing the importation of articles purely or chiefly luxuries, including diamonds and other precious stones, furs, art works, wines, tobacco, and manufactures thereof, and other articles of this character. This is illustrated by a glance at the yearly record of imports as recorded by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. In years of marked depression, 1894 and 1895, for example, the value of diamonds and other precious stones imported dropped from 15 million dollars in 1893 to 5 1/2 million in 1894, 7 1/2 million in 1895, and about 6 1/2 million in 1896; gradually moving upward again until 1899 and 1900 and reaching a total of 32 million in 1903 and 40 million in 1904. In the years 1905, a year of business depression, the total fell to 16 1/2 million dollars, returning to 29 million in 1909 and 48 million in the fiscal year 1910, while the figures of the calendar year will not materially differ from those of the fiscal year.

The figures of diamond importations above cited are merely an example of the evidence of prosperity supplied by the figures of imports in autos, art works, furs, lace, feathers, furs, wines and liquors, tobacco, decorated chinaware, and numerous other articles named in the list of importations, the figures of 1910 are large, and the importation of articles usually classed as "luxuries" will show a total of between 200 and 300 million dollars.

Of the luxuries alone the value imported during the year just ended approximated 45 million dollars, a very large proportion of which was of cotton. This class of importations also shows considerable fluctuations, according to conditions of prosperity or otherwise, though the fluctuations are not as great as in the case of diamonds. The value of cotton laces, embroideries, etc., imported in the fiscal year 1893 was 12 1/2 million dollars and dropped in 1894 to 8 million dollars. Again in the 1907-8 period of depression, the value of importations of this class dropped from 39 1/2 million dollars in the fiscal year 1907 to 33 1/2 million in 1908, returning to 34 1-2 million in 1909 and 38 1/2 million in 1910.

Among the other articles of importations in 1910 which are usually classed as luxuries are: Silk laces, 1 1/2 million dollars; laces of flax and other similar fibers, 4 million; tobacco, cigars, etc., 33 million; furs and fur skins, 25 million; art works, 21 million; spirits, wines and liquors, 20 million; feathers and flowers, natural and artificial, 11 million; toys, 8 million; mahogany, 3 1/2 million; jewelry, 2 million; manufactures of gold and silver, 2 million; and beads and ornaments, perfumeries, cosmetics, shells, orchids, pipes and smokers' articles, and musical instruments in various sums between 1 million and 2 million dollars each.

The principal sources from which these luxuries are drawn are, in the case of manufactures, Europe; in the case of tobacco, mahogany, and other articles of this class, the tropical sections; while the 25 million dollars' worth of furs and fur skins originate largely, of course, in the frigid or semi-frigid sections of the world. Most of the imported laces, whether of cotton, flax, or silk, are made in Switzerland, France, Germany, Belgium, England, and Ireland; most of the tobacco and cigars come from Cuba; most of the art works, from various European countries, and most of the toys, from Germany.

SUPREME COURT

Finds Street Railway
Co's. are Liable

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Street railway companies are liable for injuries sustained by passengers who may be injured in seeking to alight from a car in the face of a crowd boarding it and also for injuries due to a passenger slipping on the car step, according to a decision handed down by the full bench of the supreme court yesterday.

The court had before it the cases of Katherine Glennon and Mary R. Kingsford. The former was attempting to leave a car of the Boston Elevated Railway company and was forced back and injured by the crowd rushing to get seats while the latter slipped on mud, which had accumulated on the car step, as she was alighting and fell to the ground. Both cases came to the supreme court on exceptions.

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

The Pickout board of the Lowell Textile school announces the following prizes for the best short story and best sketch of the school:

Five dollars for the best short story, poem or jingle relating to school life or individuals in the school, either humorous or otherwise.

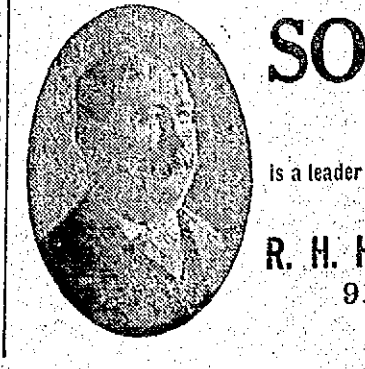

Five dollars for the best sketch, picture or drawing, relating to school life or individuals in the school, either humorous or otherwise.

The entries will be judged by the Pickout board as a whole, and the awards made strictly on the merit of the entry. The editors cannot complete for these prizes.

The editor, L. B. Chisholm, will be in the office of the Pickout board, daily except Wednesday and Saturday, from 1:45 to 2 p. m., to give additional information or receive entries.

D. F. McMahon of Fitchburg will coach the baseball team this season. He has been playing professional ball for a number of years and has coached several academy and high school teams. He is said to be an excellent coach.

EVENING FROCKS AND WRAPS OF SUBTLE BEAUTY THIS SEASON

ONE may say all kinds of complimentary things about the costumes for street wear this winter, but the evening gowns and wraps are charming things, and to modish costumes of this kind the unbiased critic will take off his hat to Mine la Mode.

In spite of all the reckless extravagance of evening dress it is possible to be gowned according to the last word at comparatively small expense. The flowered white silks, for instance, made up on empire lines, need no trimming beyond a bit of lace, galon or fur trimming on the bodice, and the changeable taffetas overhung with chiffon, mousseline or gauze and belted with an effective contrast leave nothing to be desired. And the much used Byzantine embroideries and baroque effects can be achieved in leisure moments by the skillful worker in dress adornments.

A word to the wise. Here is the way a clever young woman turned ordinary gold colored tulle into a dress adornment worthy of the genius of Pierrot. She applied irregular bits of rose and gold colored broadened ribbon to the tulle and outlined them with fine gold and silver cord. A few of the larger bits of silk she covered with gold net, and on some of the smaller ones she sewed a copper colored palmette or a steel one, and now and then she added a tiny knot of black silk. As fancy moved her she added a novel touch, and while the design displayed no regularity it was perfectly harmonious in tone. After the work was finished it was applied to a long tunic which had been previously cut the required shape. The edges of the tunic were finished with a three inch fringe of gold colored glass beads. This tunic the girl wears with three different sheaths, one of deep copper colored satin, one of olive green and one of black velvet.

Every one knows this late in the season that drapery and suppleness are the chief characteristics of evening frocks. All the materials parake of a gauzy, filmy nature, and even the velvets used for these gowns are reduced to a wisp of shimmer and sheen. It certainly sounds stiff and uncomplimentary to say that a dinner dress is composed of velvet, metal lace and embroidery, but in reality the mingling is delightfully soft and pliant. Satin plays a large part in the gowns of the winter, both for street and evening, and for the latter it is veiled by chiffon and touched off by metal lace. As for fur, that trims everything from a negligee to a ball gown.

The idea of colored chiffon or mousseline over gold colored tulle or white chiffon for evening dresses trimmed with gold or silver lace is an insistent note of Dame Fashion. And often even in gowns of very gorgeous effect the outer veiling is wonderfully simple, all the spectacular elements being relegated to the foundation. Black and gold creations with an elaborate, almost barbaric, display of bullion in the foundation may be covered simply with tulle or chiffon. The skirt of such a costume is nearly always weighted with a band of fur, generally skunk.

One might say that empire lines are the favored ones of the best designers of evening gowns, and almost all of the waist lines are shortened, if not decidedly short. In sleeves the choice seems to lie between short loose effects or shoulder straps or chains of some sort and a little fold of tulle by way of a sleeve apology.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

WRAP OF CHIFFON VELVET.

GEORGIOUS is the term that applies to this evening wrap of shot chiffon velvet trimmed with ermine and point de venise lace. The effect is rich, although not overelaborate.

FROCK IN EMPIRE EFFECT.

PUR plays a leading part in the smart evening frock, and the pelt of the sable variety adorns this nimon evening frock of a lovely shade of wild rose.

DANCING FROCK OF NET.

A RESTAURANT COSTUME.

THIS restaurant costume has a distinctive place in the season's wardrobe, and the creation illustrated is of this cult in wine colored champagne hemmed with velvet.

GIRL'S EVENING GOWN.

THIS charming gown is of rose brocade and crystal bead embroidery. The sash is of carnation red moire, and a cabochon of crystal beads completes the costume.

FOR THE CONVALESCENT.

PERHAPS what convalescence demands—and is most frequently grudging—is leisure. Severe sickness leaves languor and weariness behind, and satisfactory mending does not sensibly diminish either the acuteness or duration of these sensations. Therefore, because there is much time to dispose of, a good nurse will be wise to protract all that is pleasant. She need not be hurried or seem hurried, as if wanted elsewhere. The patient likes to feel her thoroughly at command, brisk and to do her bidding, but in harmony with the kind of lazy well being which it is the perfection of convalescent nursing to insure.

From the earliest days of getting well the morning toilet provides excellent opportunity for happy dawdling. Everybody who has gone through an elementary nursing course has learned the principle of washing by degrees, so that no part of the body runs the risk of being chilled. But while adding to sound instruction in the main very seldom is the justification for all the little toilet luxuries, vanities and extravagances included in the course. The drops of aromatic essence for a final sponging, sweet scented soaps and powders, dainty dentifrices—the appreciation for all of which, please note, depends not at all upon age or sex. The patient who does not care a pin how he or she looks is often on the brink of one of those fits of depression, common to convalescence which occasionally end in tragedy. An interest in becoming dressing gowns, ribbons, hairdressing or shaving is the best of signs, and the nurse should be an insidious flatterer while waiting that the right light falls on the patient's mirror.

WHAT'S YOUR COLOR?

The girl who believes in good luck charms or likes to think that she does will want to know about her particular astral color.

It is supposed to be both becoming and charmed with good fortune for the wearer; but, however that may be, here are the colors for each month:

The girl who was born in January should wear green.

The February girl may choose all shades of pink.

Purple is for the March girl. She will feel the most comfortable and cheerful with purple things about her.

The April daughter can wear red, and especially rose red.

The special color for May is blue, and the girl born in this month should choose jewelry and clothes of light tints of blue. This girl is supposed to be sensitive.

Bronze green is for the June girl, which is apt to make her a little melancholy.

Light red is the color for July and deep blue for the girl born in August.

Yellow is for the girl born in September.

If you were born in October you will take the greatest comfort in wearing brown, while if November is your month you may choose a light gray. Instead of the gay holiday colors the girl who is born in December should choose mauve. It will bring her luck and love and other good things.

WHEN STONING RAISINS.

Many people dislike stoning raisins because of the unpleasant stickiness. This can be quite prevented by rubbing a little butter on your finger and on the knife before beginning.

THINGS ONE HEARS NOWADAYS

"WHEN my sewing machine gets cranky," said a woman who makes many of her clothes, "I humor it almost as I would a cross child. In the first place, I make up my mind to turn my attention to hand sewing, for a cranky machine stays cranky sometimes for a day or so. After folding up and putting away all I have ready for stitching I give the machine a thorough cleaning inside and out; then I oil it, loosen the tension, take off the belt and shut it up to get over the sulks. When you think it over it is only a matter of justice and gratitude that a machine should be humored occasionally and given a rest and an oil bath and left to enjoy the peace of disuse for a day or two. When oiling a machine I run it quite fast between the doses, so that the oil will be worked into the joints, so to speak, and the last dose I make a very generous one, spreading newspapers on the floor all round the stand to catch the drip. With machine oil I always mix a little kerosene. That keeps the other oil from clogging."

Says a man who has recently discovered that his better half has taken advantage of the concealing grace of a tunic drape to have two real and welcome pockets inserted in the under portion of the skirt on several of her fall frocks:

"The return of the prodigal, the return from Elba are as nothing to the latest return of the pocket to women. The affairs mentioned have created some slight stir in the world, but this threatens to create a revolution. In future a conversation with a woman friend will not include picking up her pocket handkerchief at least three times. When one takes out one's wife she will not cry out at every turn: 'Oh, dear, where is my bag? I must have dropped it in the cab or the shop.' Those who wish to keep women down should never have allowed pockets to them. Properly considered, the possession of a pocket is a greater stride on the path of independence than the winning of the vote."

It is said that when fruit juices refuse to "jell" a few spoonfuls of carrot juice strained and added will bring about the desired result at once.

A USEFUL NOVELTY.

A little cup shaped like a very long thimble attached to a slender wire is a novelty that is used for taking the cream from milk bottles without trouble or waste. For keeping milk bottles covered a very nice strong cap of aluminum is sold that is a joy to the housekeeper who dreads germs.

CANDY FOR THE LITTLE FOLK

A SMALL amount of pure, wholesome candy is good for the little folk, and when made at home from tested recipes such as the following the sweet is not injurious:

Popsicle Candy.—Make a common molasses candy. Grind nicely popped corn in a coffee mill or meat chopper, and when the candy is ready to be taken from the fire stir in as much of the ground corn as the sirup will hold. Pour into a buttered tin and when slightly cool mark off in squares.

Pulled Candy.—Take a pound of granulated sugar and about a cup and a third of boiling water. Boil until quite thick and test in ice water. Then add one quart of New Orleans molasses, one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and boil until the mixture will harden in ice water. Stir in a small half teaspoonful of soda and then pour into buttered tins to cool. When it can be handled grease the hands with butter or moister them with ice water and pull the candy into long white strips. Cut some in finger lengths. Braid it or cut in inch-lengths and twist up in colored oiled papers.

Apples on a Stick.—These give all day pleasure to any candy loving child. Choose small tart apples that will not cook soft quickly. Stick a wooden skewer or slender stick in each and coat them in the following sirup: Boil two pounds of brown sugar with just enough water to dissolve until it is stringy. Dip in the apples and turn about until they are well coated. Cool them by resting the stick close to the apples, on the edge of the pan, or if you have a cake cooler place it over a deep pan and put the sticks through the wires and let the apples cool.

Tac-inc.—Put one cupful of granulated sugar in a boiler with one tablespoonful of butter and three tablespoonfuls of water. Boil until almost candies; then add three cupfuls of nicely popped corn and stir rapidly until the corn is well coated with the sirup. Remove from the fire and cool a bit, stirring until each grain is coated. While hot roll it in balls or form into little pyramids or pat into round cakes.

SMART HAT FOR THE WEE GIRL

VARIATION OF THE UBIQUITOUS MUSHROOM.

THIS pretty child's hat with a slight roll at the left side of the brim gives an agreeable variety from the everlasting mushroom style. The hat is of Dutch blue satin, with a shirred satin under brim. A band of shell pink velvet on which is a wall of troy pattern in blue, outlines the crown, the coronet crown, and at other side of this velvet band is a narrow border of rabbit fur. At the right side, near the back, a flat bow and two tails of fur form a simple trimming.

A DINNER BELLE.

She is a small china lady about a foot high with a frock in some pale shade, blue or salmon or yellow, also of the china, made in the style of hoop skirt days. When she is picked up and shaken a little china leg inside kicks its foot against the side and makes a pleasant tinkle. She is simply a novelty in dinner bells.

Treatment of Corns and Bunions

IT is a strange and much to be deplored fact that but few women pay sufficient attention to the care of their feet. Many who are most particular about the proper manikuring of their finger nails fail to realize that pedicure is of as great importance in their daily toilet as manikure and that the irritation and discomfort caused by corns, bunions and ingrowing toenails are detrimental both to their health and general nervous system. To treat a hard corn successfully a sharp knife should be used to pare away all the hard skin, commencing at the outer edge and working toward the center. No rough edges should be left. To prevent this an emery-board may be gently passed over the surface, but great care must be taken while using the knife that it does not cut the skin and draw blood. When the surface is perfectly smooth rub a little vaseline upon it and cover with a pad of camels leather cut in a round with a tiny hole in the center to fit the corn. Continue this treatment every other day until cured. To remove a soft corn soak the feet in warm water and after drying thoroughly rub a mixture of equal parts of oxide of zinc and vaseline upon the corn, then place a pad of cotton wool between the toes. This should be done for two or three days. The portions of hardened cuticle which cannot be cut away may be removed with a pair of tweezers. After removing the corn paint with a mixture of bichloride and iodine in equal parts (about one dram each will be sufficient).

If the corn be inflamed it is best to apply a soothing poultice before commencing treatment. When the poultice has been removed and the skin dried take a wet pad of cotton wool and thoroughly cleanse the bunion, pare away the callous skin and apply the same mixture of oxide of zinc and vaseline which was recommended for the soft corn. For an ingrowing toenail saturate a piece of cotton wool with a mixture of one-third of carbolic acid and two-thirds of glycerin and work in the cotton wool gently under the nail, using an orange stick. This cotton wool should be changed night and morning until the cure is complete.

ENORMOUS MUFFS.

More gigantic than ever are the muffs of the season. Not only are they very deep, but very wide as well. The openings are quite large and not puckered up or gathered in any way.

This new style is called the "barrel" muff and is somewhat of a revival of the huge affairs of the directoire period.

Often two furs are combined, similar in color, but different in texture, the center of one skin and the ends or border of another.

Hudson seal and skunk were noticed in one clever combination, but there are many others equally as effective.

ORIENTAL RUGS.

A woman who is the possessor of beautiful oriental rugs says she never allows them to be beaten or shaken. Instead they are brushed with a soft brush, wiped with a damp cloth and laid in the shade to air. If the rugs have a light delicate background she cleans them by sprinkling them with a powder made of six parts of cornstarch and one part of whiting. This remains on the carpet for several hours and is brushed off lightly with a whisk-broom and then with a very soft brush.

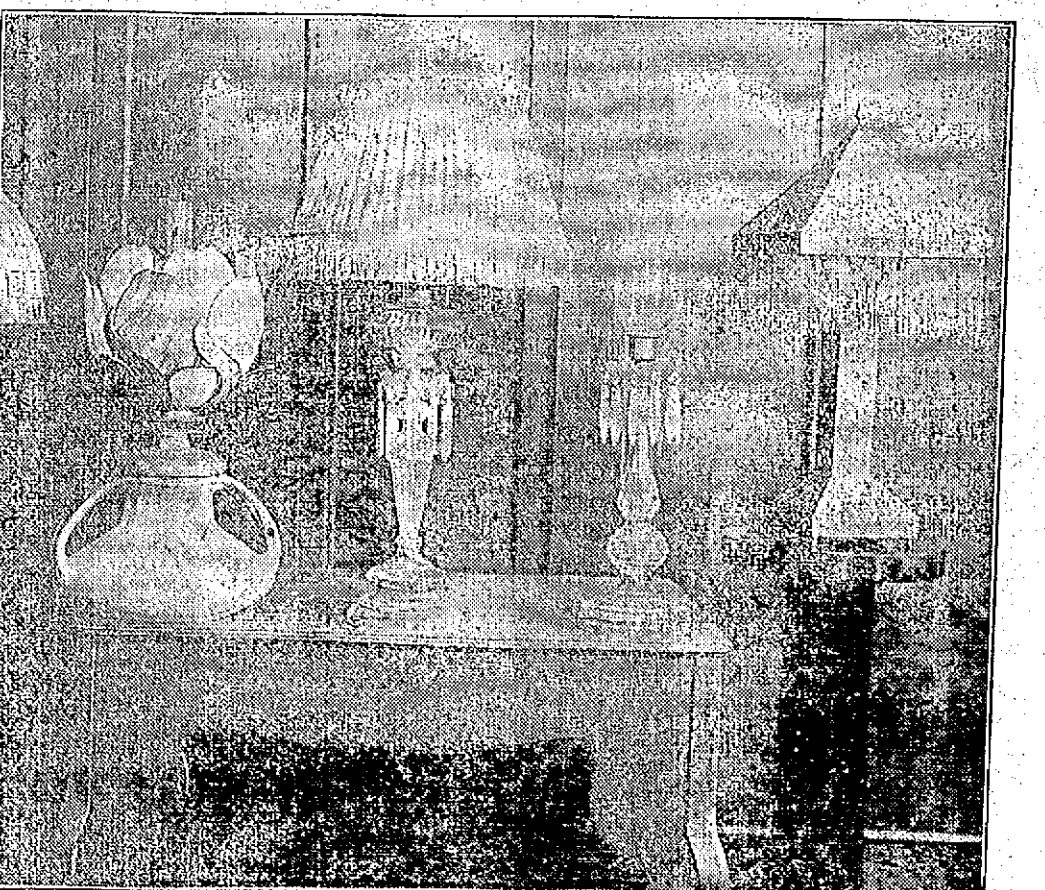

GIFT FOR LUCKY BABYKINS

A LUXURIOUS LAYETTE BASKET.

VERY lucky is the mother who received as a layette gift one of these convenient and dainty baskets. Underneath the dressing basket is a deep receptacle, in which the little garments may be kept conveniently at hand, and both dressing basket and wardrobe beneath are provided with satin lined doors that close tightly, keeping dust from the dainty interior. This basket is trimmed with pink satin, and smart bows of pink ribbon are tied to the handles.

WHAT IS USED IN THE NEW ART LAMPS

GAS, oil and electric lamps in the newest and most approved styles are pictured here. The first model is a bronze gas lamp with a shade of glass in two colors, yellow and orange arranged in squares. Next comes a pretty oil lamp with a lotus flower shade in dull pinks and greens. The third lamp is a banquet design of crystal with an empire shade of pink silk. Fascinating is the bedroom candlestick with glass prisms and a wind shield for the flame. A beautiful electrolier is also seen in this group of lamps of etched verte copper over green glass, with an iridescent green glass fringe.

PANIC IN CHURCH DEATH SENTENCE

of South Boston By Judge Bell

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—A congregation of 1000 persons sat fascinated by fear in the Gate of Heaven church, South Boston, last night and watched the curate put out a fire which threatened a pane with loss of life and the destruction of the church edifice.

The church was crowded and some of the women were about to break into a wild scramble for the exits when the presence of mind of the curate calmed the excited people.

It was just before the evening service in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, when an altar boy came into the sanctuary and lighted the numerous candles set before the main altar and the side altar.

As the congregation watched the altar boy leave and the candles begin to sputter and twinkle, those in the front seats heard the crackling of laurel leaves as a small fiery spring began to climb the festoon.

A thrill of terror ran through the congregation composed mainly of women. They began to shift in their seats and act as if about to leave. Some of the more excitable in the back of the church stood up to get a look at what was causing the commotion in front.

Excited whispers began to be heard on all sides. People instinctively shifted their feet. The excitement was intense and growing every moment.

Just as a woman in the middle of the church rose to her feet and started to step into the aisle, the Rev. Walter Lambert, the curate, called by some name in the front seat, ran out of the vestry into the church and pulling down the flaming laurel, trampled it under foot.

While the priest and altar boys were pulling down the burning decorations and tiny sparks and smoke were rising from the chancel, P. J. O'Leary, one of the ushers, stepped to the front of the church, assuring the people that there was no danger.

Everyone then quieted down and remained in their seats.

Wife Murderer Was Calm and Had Nothing to Say to the Court—His Lawyers Will Present Writ of Error to the Court

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Chester S. Jordan of Somerville, who murdered his wife, Honora C. and severed her body at their home in that city, Sept. 1, 1908, will be electrocuted the week beginning Sunday, March 12, if the sentence of the Middlesex superior court is carried out.

Jordan was brought into the East Cambridge courthouse yesterday afternoon and took his seat in the steel cage at 4.05 after the sheriffs which bound him to Court Officer Fred Rhoades and Court Officer George Stiles had been removed.

A conference was going on in the judge's lobby in which Gen. Charles W. Bartlett and J. Harvey Pratt of counsel for Jordan took part. The junior counsel, Jeremiah S. Sullivan, went to the cage and conversed with Jordan.

The subject evidently was a serious one and probably had to do with the conference then being held. Jordan was healthy looking and not pale. After a few minutes' conversation Mr. Sullivan, in response to a summons from Dist. Atty. Higgins, went with the latter to the judge's lobby and joined in the conversation that was going on there.

Jordan in the meantime gazed around the courtroom nonchalant and apparently undisturbed. He nodded at an acquaintance he saw in the seats of the spectators, and just then the fall bell sounded giving notice to the prisoners in the shops to quit work and prepare to return to their cells. At the sound he glanced up at the clock. At 4.13 the door of the lobby opened and Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Higgins came out.

Mr. Sullivan went directly to Jordan again and the conversation was again taken up. Mr. Sullivan evidently telling the prisoner the result of the conference. Jordan evidently was not pleased, for he talked back earnestly as though advancing suggestions. Then, as Gen. Bartlett and Mr. Pratt appeared, he settled back in his seat.

The conference had to do with a proposition to the court to stay the proceedings in order that counsel might have time to prepare a writ of error for presentation to the United States supreme court.

Judge Charles U. Bell, one of the presiding justices at the trial, took his place on the bench at 4.16.

District Attorney Higgins at once offered his motion for sentence. He stated briefly that on May 4, 1909, Jordan had been convicted of murder in the first degree, that exceptions had been filed and a motion for a new trial was heard by the court and the motion overruled. Exceptions to the overruling were taken and the judgments were heard by the full bench on January 3, a receipt was handed down again overruling the exceptions. He moved for sentence.

Judge Bell asked Gen. Bartlett if he desired to say anything at this time. The latter responded, "In view of the conference we had with your honor we have nothing to say."

Judge Bell then directed Clerk W. W. Dillingham to ask the defendant if he desired to say anything.

Jordan stood and answered in a full rich bass voice, "I have not." There was not a tremor in his tones and not an indication in his immobile face. At just 4.19, three minutes after Judge Bell took his place on the bench, the judge stood and, facing Jordan, pronounced the sentence of death, by electrocution, during the week beginning Sunday, March 12, 1911.

The court adjourned and Jordan a moment later was on his way back to the jail.

None of his relatives was present in the courtroom. Dr. George F. Walton, the noted neurologist, was an interested spectator, and the members of the grand jury now sitting at East Cambridge also took advantage of the opportunity to witness the proceedings.

A writ of error will be prepared immediately and will be presented by Jordan's counsel to the U. S. supreme court.

FIRST DEBATE

HALGE DEBATING SOCIETY

The first regular debate of the Frederick T. Greenhalge Debating Society was held yesterday afternoon in room 10 of the High school. The question under discussion was "Resolved, That the Lowell High School Should Adopt a Standard Plan."

Misses Charlotte Greene and Elizabeth Hester argued for the affirmative, while the negative side was taken by Misses Helen Hunter and Frances Masson. The judges were Miss Stevens, Miss Kelley and Miss Hester, teachers of the school, and they decided in favor of the affirmative.

At the conclusion of the debate Principal Cyrus W. Irish gave his opinion on the debate, expressing favor of the adoption of a standard plan. In the absence of President Randolph Gleason, Mr. William P. Sullivan was elected temporary presiding officer. Next week Friday a debate will be held, the subject to be discussed being "Resolved, That the City of Lowell Should Purchase an Athletic Field for High School Sport."

The affirmative will be presented by Mr. Cass and Mr. Schilling, and the negative by Mr. Roger K. Eastman and Mr. Arthur Sullivan.

MIDDLESEX NORTH

NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS WERE INSTALLED YESTERDAY

The newly elected officers of Middlesex North Pomona Grange, were installed yesterday by Charles M. Gardner of Westfield, master of the State Grange.

The installation exercises were held in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville. The morning session was given over to annual reports and other business. Dinner was served in the lower hall and at 2 o'clock the installation ceremony was carried out. The following officers were installed:

Master, James S. Anthony; overseer, James A. Ruth; lecturer, Mrs. Elta G. Spaulding; steward, Lester R. Hayward; assistant steward, Fred P. Viani; chaplain, James Danforth; treasurer, Norman L. Peavey; secretary, Mrs. Lulu M. Hutchins; matron, A. H. Sutherland; Ceres, Miss Blanche King; Pomona, Mrs. Florence, Anthony; Flora, Mrs. Mary Wheeler; executive committee for boys, Francis O. Dutton. The appointment of Norman L. Peavey of Dracut as a state deputy was announced. The state master said that the order in the state now numbers 20,000 members. After the installation there were songs by Percy Yarnell and Inez Beale.

The Westford Grange

Westford Grange held its annual installation of officers and banquet at the town hall, Thursday night. Mrs. Sadie Colman of Dracut was the installing officer. She was assisted by Mrs. Alice Colburn, also of Dracut. The following officers were installed:

Master, Frank C. Wright; overseer, Mrs. David Greig; lecturer, Miss Martha Grant; steward, Mr. J. Henry Colburn; assistant steward, Mr. Fred Colburn; treasurer, Mr. L. W. Wheelwright; secretary, Mrs. E. C. Wright; Flora, Mrs. Daisy Colburn; Ceres, or Mrs. Addie Day; Pomona, Mrs. Ruth Baulant; gate keeper, Mr. A. H. Sutherland; lady assistant stewards, Mrs. Fred Snow; executive committee, W. R. Taylor.

MANY LABOR BILLS

Senator Hear Presents a Measure for Senatorial Election

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Fourteen bills, the enactment of which organized labor is to demand at the hands of the present legislature, were filed at the state house late yesterday afternoon by John Weaver Sherman, legislative counsel for the state branch of the American Federation of Labor.

Included in the number are five referring to injunctions and proceedings under them and three having to do with hours of labor.

In the first class comes the bill which has several times been introduced, regulating the meaning of the word "conspiracy"; that relative to the imposition and collection of fines by trade unions or other associations; relative to the proceeding for the punishment of the violations of injunctions; an act to allow peaceful persuasion and one setting forth in detail methods by which communications may be held with applicants during strikes, lockouts and labor disputes.

The hour bills include the eight-hour, the 54-hour bill for women and children, and one changing the hours of labor for street car men from 10 hours in 13 to nine hours in 11.

Initiative and Referendum

The initiative and referendum bill is again introduced, with a change clearing up an ambiguity in last year's bill. It now provides that the initiative shall be set in motion by not less than 3 per cent. of the vote cast for governor at the preceding election, and the referendum by not less than 5 per cent.

The 54-hour bill is identical with that introduced last year, and twice defeated by the vote of Pres. Treadway of the senate. Since that time Treadway has announced that he is for the passage of the bill. The eight-hour bill and the public opinion bill are also reintroduced without change.

The hours of street car men bill is introduced as a health and safety measure, and another health measure is that providing for the creation of a commission to have charge of the establishment of homesteads in the country for poor people now living in the crowded city districts.

One of the injunction bills introduced provides that no restraining order or injunction shall be issued unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or to property rights. The "lines" bill seeks to restore to labor unions the right to fine their members, a right which they exercised and supposed they had up to 1908, when it was taken away through a divided opinion of the court.

The other bills introduced are the peaceful persuasion bill, the picketing bill and the bill providing for the registration of barbers.

Special Election of U. S. Senator

In the senate yesterday the following bills were read and referred to election laws: Bill of Senator Roger Sherman of Iowa to provide for a special election on the fifth Tuesday following the passage of this act, unless prior to that day the legislature shall have elected a U. S. senator, for popular preference for U. S. senator.

To carry out the purposes of this act it is provided that any political party represented in the legislature may hold a caucus of its senators and representatives, which caucus may make one nomination. A nomination may also be made by nomination papers signed by ten members of the legislature who do not attend the caucus of any party. Signatures appearing on more than one nomination paper shall be void as to both.

Certificates of nomination and nomination papers must be filed with the secretary of the commonwealth on the third Tuesday preceding the election, before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The names of the candidates so nominated shall be played upon the official ballots. The act shall take effect on its passage.

To judiciary—Bill of Senator Hoar to provide that the defendant in proceedings for an injunction prohibiting the doing of an act of criminal nature shall be entitled to a trial by jury.

Senator George S. Nevill introduced the petition of George N. Nichols of Lynn for legislation to provide that shares of stock of an issue approved by the gas and electric light companies shall be sold at public auction.

Senator George H. Finkham of Boston introduced a bill to provide that no maker or publisher of a false or exaggerated statement of the affairs, pecuniary condition or property of any joint stock association, partnership or individual shall be liable to a penalty of imprisonment for not more than 10 years or a fine of not more than $10,000, or both.

Rep. Murphy of Lowell was appointed clerk of the committee on public works and Geo. H. Stevens of Dracut, clerk of committee on roads and bridges.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

Devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart were held last night in St. John's church at 7.30. A sermon, hymns and prayers in honor of the Sacred Heart with benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament were given by Rev. Fr. Doherty.

The installation of the newly elected officers of the St. John's T. A. society will take place in their hall on Thursday night and will be installed by Deputy Althea Boye of Lowell.

The ice at Crystal lake is about 12 inches thick and the Boston Ice company will probably start cutting next week.

EXTRA PEARY IS HEARD

He Furnished Memoranda of Trip to North Pole

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Capt. Robert E. Peary told the story of his trip to the frozen north at a hearing today before the sub-committee of the house committee on naval affairs, the purpose being to furnish proof of his attainment of the North pole on April 6, 1909, in connection with pending legislation for national recognition of his achievements.

He produced all of his original memoranda and answered numerous questions. Cross-examination by Representative Macon of Arkansas, who has announced his opposition to recognition of the explorer, was deferred on account of the time taken in reading data. The committee adjourned until next Tuesday.

Capt. Peary said that he was ready to answer any questions. He described his naval service and said that his present rank of captain in the construction corps was the highest rank he could attain, except that as head of the bureau he might become rear admiral.

The committee asked Capt. Peary to tell in his own way how he actually reached the pole, and he began the narrative at the point where Capt. Bartlett left him.

The explorer submitted an original signed memorandum of Capt. Bartlett showing that he had left Peary 133 miles from the pole, when, according to Bartlett, Peary should have reached the pole in eight days, the going being good and weather fair. He also submitted his original notes, made while in the vicinity of the pole, and his original logbook and journal.

"Was it absolutely necessary for you to be at the North pole to make these observations?" asked Chairman Butler.

"That is a question on which there has been some discussion," replied the captain. "Observations have never been made yet, except where they are stated to have been made."

"Would there be any way to detect such efforts?" insisted Mr. Butler.

"That is a thing I could not answer," replied Peary. "There has been a difference of opinion. Some experts say observations can be arranged and others say not."

FRENCH AVIATOR LOST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Didier Mason, the French aviator, who left here early today in his biplane to carry newspapers to Pomoná and San Bernardino, 60 miles from Los Angeles, is lost somewhere in the mountains. He was last seen steering his machine over the San Jose hills, miles out of his course. Hundreds of persons in automobiles are searching for the aviator.

LIVELY RUNAWAY CREW ESCAPED

Boys Had a Treat Schooner Will be a Total Loss

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., Jan. 7.—Cast on the rocks of Thumb Cat Island during a storm early today, the two masted schooner Red Jacket of Rockland, will be a total loss. Captain James Tibbitts and his crew of four men reached the island safely.

The Red Jacket sailed from Boothbay Harbor yesterday, light, for Rockland. Early today she ran into a heavy snow squall and the high wind blew the vessel ashore on the island, which lies at the mouth of the Damascene river. The tide was high and the little schooner was carried well up on the island. The seamen found shelter in a summer cottage until taken off today by vessels from the mainland.

The Red Jacket was built at Camden in 1860 and registered 110 tons net. She was 32 feet long, 27 feet beam and eight feet depth of hold.

HARRIET SILK HAS TAKEN HER RESIDENCE IN WORCESTER

Miss Harriet Silk of North Tewksbury has gone to Worcester to live, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Silk, having taken up their residence there. Miss Silk's many friends in Tewksbury regret her departure from their midst as she was especially popular in social circles. She was an officer in the girls' battalion of the high school last year. Upon her departure from Tewksbury she was made the recipient of many beautiful farewell gifts and good wishes for success in her new home. Mr. Fred Silk, for many years connected with the Bigelow Carpet company in this city, went to Worcester some time ago having secured a lucrative position there similar to that which he held in this city. A few weeks ago he decided to remove his family to Worcester. The Silk family were noted for their kindness and hospitality and they will be much missed by their neighbors and friends.

NEELEY SHOT DEAD

Pres. of Big Trust Co. Killed by Wealthy Man

CANBY, Kas., Jan. 7.—J. D. S. Truskett was taken by automobile to the county jail in Independence, Kas. Truskett fired at Neeley twice. One bullet passed through Neeley's heart and the other through his left arm. When employees of the hotel reached the prostrate man he was dead. Neeley arrived here yesterday on his regular monthly inspection of oil and gas interests and of his pumping plant recently erected here.

The killing is believed to have been largely the result of a law suit now pending between Truskett and the Wichita Pipe Co.

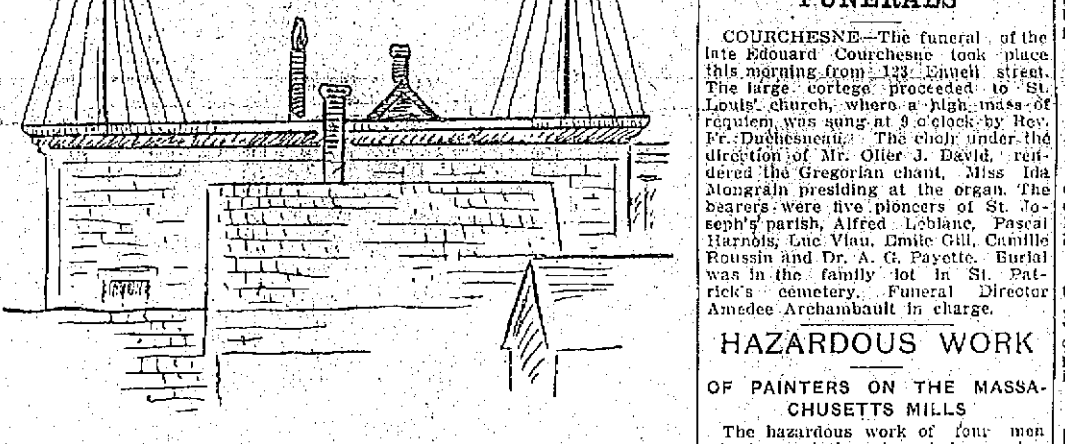

Truskett refused to make a statement following his arrest. His friends, however, say that the law suit welked heavily on his mind.

WIRELESS STATIONS SEEKS SISTER

Woman Thinks She is in Lowell

Mary E. Crocker, residing at 17 Tyng street, Portland, Me., has written the local police asking for assistance in locating her sister, Mrs. Margaret Smith, wife of James whom she is said to think resides in this city. The writer states that she visited her sister in this city two years ago and at that time Mrs. Smith had a son who had made application for a position in the Lowell police department.

One in Hale Street and the Other in Chelmsford Street

A reporter of The Sun this morning discovered two other wireless telegraph stations, one at No. 118 Hale street and the other at 238 Chelmsford street. The former is owned and operated by Prof. Henry F. Frenette, the roller skater. This station is equipped with two aërials measuring 35 feet, standing on the roof of a three-story building, which catch the messages in the air and transmit them into an adjustable tuning coil. From there the messages are delivered into a condenser composed of 25 sheets of zinc, and then follows its course through a variable condenser which is connected to the ground. The operator receives his messages by means of two telephone receivers.

The transmitting part of the apparatus is composed of only one inch apparatus, a helix and a telegraph key. Mr. Frenette claims that he can transmit a message on a distance of about 500 miles and receive from 800 to 1000 miles. Storage batteries are being used for transmitting purposes, but no current whatever is needed for receiving, because the receiving instruments are sensitive enough to do the work without electrical force.

The evening is the time to get messages for at that time it seems that most stations are busy. Every day at about 11.55 o'clock, Mr. Frenette gets the standard time through his wireless, from the Harvard observatory in Cambridge.

Mr. Frenette is employed as lever

HAZARDOUS WORK OF PAINTERS ON THE MASSACHUSETTS MILLS

The hazardous work of four men who are painting the window sashes on the recently completed storehouse of the Massachusetts mills in Bridge street attracted considerable attention today. There were two platforms which could be either raised or lowered as the painters desired and there were two men on each of the platforms. They started on the windows nearest the roof and upon completing the painting of the sashes on that story lowered themselves to the story below.

JAIL OFFICER COREY

A Witness Before Grand Jury That is Probing "County Ring"

Michael J. Shughrue, attorney for the Boston finance commission and legal advisor of the Middlesex county citizens' committee, which probed the graft charges in Middlesex county last summer, was the chief witness who testified in the Essex County grand jury room yesterday where the Middlesex county cases are being investigated.

In an adjoining room were Attorney Arthur Brooks and Richard Henry Dana, both of the Middlesex committee. Attorney Archibald Howe was in the grand jury room in the morning as was also Officer Corey of the Lowell jail who had some books with him who were called as witnesses.

The Middlesex county committee already has a suit pending for the supreme court for an accounting of the county finances.

It is understood other summonses have been issued and it was also stated that the grand jury would sit next week, extending their regular term of sitting.

Early in the forenoon, before continuing with the "probe" case, the grand jury made its report of the other cases that had come up. The list of indictments, numbering less than 20, was one of the smallest ever returned.

BLOOD INJURED BOND NOT FILED

He Says That He Was Assaulted

Edward D. Almeida Notified of Oversight

John Galerson, assistant superintendent of the Salvation Army Industrial home in Liberty Square was arrested about 11 o'clock this morning by Warrant Officer Peter Cawley on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on John F. Blood. He was taken in the police station but was bailed during the early part of the afternoon.

According to what could be learned of the affair Blood has been working at the Industrial home and while at work this morning he and Galerson got into an altercation, and it is alleged that Galerson picked up a heavy bolt and struck Blood on the hand, injuring the hand so badly that it may be necessary to amputate two of the fingers.

MEETING CALLED To Discuss Public Hall in Collinsville

A smoke talk under the auspices of the Holy Name society of St. Mary's parish, Collinsville, will be held in Holy hall tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Prof. Hugh Molloy of the Lowell normal school and his subject will be "Daniel O'Connell." While the affair is under the auspices of the society, all men of the town are invited to be present as it is proposed at the close of the lecture to have a business meeting at which plans will be discussed about the erection of a public hall in the town. This is a matter of general interest in the town and it is expected that there will be a large turnout of the men of the town.

MAYOR MEEHAN Wants Shedd Park Skating Surface Improved

Mayor John F. Meehan is a frequent visitor to the Shedd park skating rink and he is very much interested in it. The mayor went to the rink yesterday afternoon and found at least one thousand skaters enjoying themselves. He is not quite satisfied, however, with the conditions there. He says that the ice is not as good as it ought to be and he does not believe in sparing pains or expense to make the rink as nearly perfect as possible. "I am a great believer in skating," said the mayor, "and I want to see the skating facilities at Shedd park improved upon. Skating is a splendid exercise and as a sport it is exceptionally healthful. The city is being well repaid for the trouble and expense of a rink at Shedd park." It was stated today that over 1500 skaters skated in the snow at the park last night.

HAD A JOY RIDE Pelham Car Failed to Connect at Turn-Out

A dozen or more passengers on the 11.15 Pelham car from Merrimack had a joy ride at the expense of the company and yet they are kicking. It isn't often that a railroad company allows passengers to ride free but it did last night and they don't appreciate it.

Of all the passengers on the car there was last night one who didn't register. He was a conductor in the employ of the road who was taking a night off. He didn't say a word, though it is believed he did a heavy thinking act.

This 11.15 car is supposed to connect at the Meadow road turn-out with a car to Pelham and hence a dozen or more passengers for Collinsville and Pelham boarded it, tired out and desirous of getting home as soon as possible. When they got to the turn-out they were surprised to find no car waiting there. So were the motor-man and conductor. The latter got busy on the telephone and learned that the car had been held up on account of a dance or some other old thing and would not be available for half an hour. Now the Old Meadow road turn-out is a tough place to be laid off for half an hour even in good weather, but to lay off there last evening was out of the question and all decided to stick to their places in the car and back they went to Lowell, only to go back again immediately, using up half an hour in riding back and forth. "Fares please," said the innocent conductor as the car proceeded toward Merrimack square. Then he heard something in one grand chorus that made him seek the rear platform and remain there. On the trip out he simply stuck his head in the doorway and timidly whispered "Fares, please." Someone dared him to come in and got them, but he didn't.

Upon arrival at the turn-out the second time the Pelham car was on hand and the tired suburbanites finally reached their respective destinations.

On the car were two prominent officials of the town of Braintree who were exceedingly wrath and who threatened to have the matter taken up at the coming town meeting if better service is not afforded within a short time. The residents of Collinsville and Pelham who patronize the line have been protesting for some time past against the so-called "Dinky" cars that the road has recently put on instead of the big cars, the klickers claiming that the demand is greater than the supply and that they are packed in like the traditional sardines in a box when riding to and from Lowell.

6 O'CLOCK TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

Left Cambridge by Freight and Landed in Police Court

Joseph Burns, aged 18 years, of Boston, and Thomas F. Lane, 19 years, of Cambridge were arrested in Middlesex street last night by Patrolman John H. Clark for stealing a pair of trousers valued at $2 which were hanging outside the store of Isaac Poretsky in Middlesex street. When arraigned in police court this morning each entered a plea of guilty and offered no defense. They were fined $15 apiece.

The young men were passing through Middlesex street early last night and upon seeing the trousers one of them took them off the hanger and both ran away. One of the clerks in the store had seen the defendants about the place and was able to give Patrolman Clark a good description of them.

The patrolman came across one of the young men outside the depot and after placing him under arrest went to a nearby lunchroom where he found the other. The latter was getting some food for nothing, the clerk in the cart

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The market opened heavy under an active selling movement, in which all leading shares participated. There was a sale of 8,000 shares of Reading at from 15 1/2 to 15 3/4, and 300 U. S. Steel at from 12 1/2 to 12 3/4 against 7 1/4 yesterday. Elsewhere losses ran from 1/2 to 3/4 with an exceptional decline of 1 1/2 in Canadian Pacific and 1 in U. P. The announcement of the closing of the Carnegie Trust Co. was made just as the market opened.

The market received influential backing as soon as the closing of the Carnegie Trust Co. became generally known and supporting orders were quickly distributed which stopped the decline. Reading, which had been one of the weakest features was marked up from 15 1/2 to 15 3/4, placing it a half point above yesterday's close. Con. Gas also scored a similar recovery but the rest of the list fell a trifle short of making up all of its loss.

The market closed strong. The short interest took alarm at the substantial character of the buying orders, which appeared in the market and bid for stocks eagerly to retire their contracts. The demand was especially urgent for Reading, which climbed to 15 3/4, a rally from the lowest of the morning of almost 3 points. Generally speaking, the market showed a good rise over the first prices of yesterday with the heavy broad and comprehensive and on a large scale for both accounts.

TO KILL ALFONSO

Daring Attempt on Life of King of Spain

MALAGA, Spain, Jan. 7.—What is his majesty was acclaimed by a great throng that joyously followed the carriage in which he drove with the mayor to the palace of the governor-general.

Arriving at the palace, the king stepped down from the carriage and, turning for a moment, again acknowledged the cheers and then entered the palace. As the door swung closed behind him an explosion in the crowd outside drowned the cheers. Before the alarmed and stampeded mass fully realized just what had happened, grenades had closed in about the spot from which the report arose. It was found that two persons had been slightly injured, but no other harm was done.

An official account of the incident says that it was unimportant. A civilian, "dropped a pistol enclosed in a box." No further details were made public. Yesterday the king and his party boarded the royal yacht and proceeded for Melilla. The yacht was conveyed by warships.

CRUSADE BEGUN

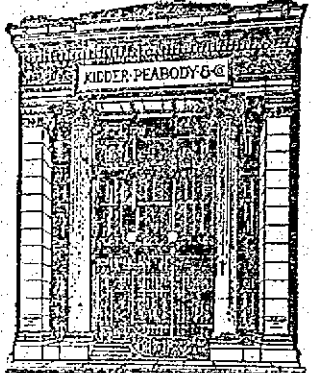

To Stop Trading and Selling of Broken Down Horses

The influx of aged and decrepit horses into this city from surrounding cities and towns will soon come to a stop, if the efforts of Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society and Judge Hadley of the local court are of any avail. Agent Richardson, who always active in looking after the welfare of the dumb animals, is about to start a crusade which will lead to number of arrests if people try to bring old broken down horses into Lowell for the purpose of disposing of them, and Judge Hadley in conversation with representatives of the press this morning expressed his opinion as to what he would do to the offenders in order to teach them lessons which they would not forget.

The matter was brought to the attention of the newspaper representatives by Judge Hadley at the conclusion of the case of Samuel Shatz of Lawrence, who was charged with cruelty to a horse, found guilty and a fine of $5 imposed. The light fine was imposed because it was learned that Shatz did not own the animal in question, but had been paid by a Lawrence man to lead it over the road to Lowell where it was to be disposed of.

Last Thursday morning Shatz was leading one of the worst specimens of horseflesh imaginable through Bridge street when Patrolman John Leighton saw him and took the man and the horse to the police station. The animal was 25 years of age, broken down, shrunken, had sores all over its body, and had the flesh gouged out of one of its ankles where it had interfered. Shatz told what the police consider a straightforward story. He said he had a family, was out of work and when offered a dollar to lead the horse to Lowell he did so. He said that it took him four hours to cover the nine miles between Lawrence and this city. He said he was going to take the horse to a place in Lowell where he

It is just as important that a $100 of earnings be safely invested as $10,000. The same principles apply in both cases. This firm gives every investor the benefit of long experience on conservative lines.

THE HEALTH DEPT.

Reports Many Cases of Diphtheria

There is considerable diphtheria in Lowell at the present time is evidenced by the call for anti-toxin at the office of the board of health. The number of cases is not alarming by any means, but it is generally understood that all cases are not reported to the office of the board of health. Dr. Jan. J. McCarthy, chairman of the board of health this forenoon to get some anti-toxin. Dr. McCarthy, speaking of the use of anti-toxin, said: "The people should be educated as to the value of anti-toxin at the beginning of the disease. It is absolutely imperative that it should be applied at an early date in order to get the best results. I treated the disease before anti-toxin was ushered in and I know the value of it."

NEWSPAPERS

ARE TO BE DELIVERED BY AEROPLANE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—The delivery of newspapers by aeroplane is scheduled to be made tomorrow when Diller Mason will fly from this city to San Bernardino, 60 miles, carrying an edition of a local paper. The route will include Pomona, where a descent is to be made and papers delivered to the agent. He will then continue to San Bernardino.

Mason will give an exhibition in San Bernardino early in the afternoon and will return to Pomona for exhibition flights.

LAUNDRY WORK

WOMEN STUDENTS MUST LABOR OVER WASH TUB

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 7.—Beginning February 1 next, every young woman of the home economics department of the University of Missouri, who takes a course in testing fabrics must roll up her sleeves and work over a wash tub. Each student will have a locker in the laboratory which will contain a tub, washboard, soap and chemicals. It is the aim of the university to teach the effect the starch, bluing and other chemicals have on clothing. Later the laboratory will be equipped with an electric washing machine. It is expected to enable the co-eds to determine which is cheaper, laundry work done by hand or work done by electricity.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to express my heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors who by kind acts and sympathetic words encouraged me during the illness and death of my sister, Miss Emma Gallagher. To all I am deeply grateful as well as to those who sent floral offerings. Their kindness will ever be remembered by me.
Charles J. Gallagher.

AVIATION MEET

WAS OPENED IN SAN FRANCISCO TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Under clear skies, in crisp air hardly stirred by a breath, San Francisco's first aviation meet opened today. The forenoon hours were given over to novices, 14 of whom brought planes to the field. Multitudinous machines, some of ambitious original designs, some of the standard make and some of such rare types as the V-shaped biplane and the multiplane were to be seen. They will compete for distance, duration, height and speed.

The professional contests will take place this afternoon. Two bird men from over seas are on the field—Hubert Latham of France and James Rader of England. Glenn Curtiss is at the head of his own camp with Charles Willard and Eugene Ely as assistants. The Wright brothers are represented by Walter Brookings and Philip Parmelee. With the exception of a few brief flights made here by Paulhan last year nothing has been seen of professional aviation displays in this part of California.

ARMED ROBBERS

Were Found at a Logging Camp

ST. SEN. ELKINS BURIED

His Body Laid to Rest in Little Town Named After Him

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Senator Stephen B. Elkins was buried today in the graveyard of this little mountain town. He was laid to rest within a brief time after the funeral train from Washington had arrived this morning bearing the bereaved family and relatives and friends, both in official life and out. Another special train arrived from Charleston, the state capital. It brought Gov. Glasscock, his cabinet, the justices of the state supreme court and a score or more of state officials. The town to which the late senator had given his name was crowded with mourners. Many who could not come by rail drove over the mountain roads through hours of darkness to pay the last tribute to the man who had done so much for the state.

All business was suspended; the flags fluttered at half mast.

The special train from Washington bore a distinguished company. Representing the senate were Senators Scott, Bacon, Keam, Bailey, Foster, Carter, Smith of Maryland, and Root. The house delegation included Representatives: Hubbard, Hughes, Woodyard, Gaines and Sturgis of West Virginia, Andrews of New Mexico, Rucker of Missouri, Alexander of New York, Longworth of Ohio and Lamb of Virginia.

Mrs. Elkins was not of the party. Overcome by the shock she was so badly shaken up that her physician forbade her leaving Washington. Of the immediate family there were Miss Katherine Elkins and other children, former Senator Davis, father of Mrs. Elkins and Richard Elkins of Philadelphia. A number of distant relatives and several close friends also accompanied the body from the capital.

The funeral car was a bower of blossoms and the ponderous bronze coffin was buried in flowers which had poured into the Elkins home in Washington. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. F. H. Barren in the Davis Memorial Presbyterian church. The ceremony, simple in the extreme, was conducted in the presence of a throng that took up every inch of space within the edifice and overflowed into the street. The body was laid to rest in Maplewood cemetery, which Senator Elkins and former Senator Davis 20 years ago had planned and built.

The most elaborate precautions were taken to guard against the possibility of operations of ghosts. The bronze coffin, the plates of which were three inches thick, was inclosed in an outer case of armor-plate steel. This was lowered into the grave which had been lined with masonry and which will be hermetically sealed. There were brief rites at the grave in charge of the local lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, of which Senator Elkins was a member.

Several thousand persons stood uncovered near the open grave until the impressive ceremony was ended.

Immediately after the interment the congressional delegation and the other distinguished members of the party returned to the national capital.

Miss Elkins and other members of the family were of the returning party, all of them being anxious to rejoin the stricken mother.

WALKER OPPOSED TO GERRYMANDER

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Speaker Walker of the house declared today that while the "gerrymander" in election districts originated in Massachusetts just a century ago he intended that, so far as his power in the matter went, there should be no taint of such methods in the rearrangement of the congressional districts by the legislative committee this year.

The legislative committee on redistricting is usually composed of five members of the senate and 11 of the house. In 1901 the committee was composed of one democratic senator and three democratic representatives. Mr. Walker announced that he intended to divide the house committee as evenly as possible between republicans and democrats and would not appoint anyone, republican or democrat, who did not give the assurance that he would be absolutely fair and would not gerrymander.

In a brief history of the "gerrymander" Mr. Walker says that it was under the administration of Governor Gerry of Massachusetts that the first "gerrymander" took place. The state at that time was redistricted to secure a majority of democratic members of congress, and it is said that Gov. Gerry instigated the measure. As one of the districts had a fancied resemblance of a salamander the word "gerrymander" was evolved.

ENTIRE FAMILY

Was Nearly Killed by Coal Gas

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Twenty-four families in the six-story apartment house at 58 East 102d street were stupified by coal gas yesterday morning, and when the police came they found the janitor, David Sigel, his wife Sarah, and their three children, Louis 10, Esther 7, and Julia 4, unconscious in their rooms in the basement.

Sigel banked the fire in the house at 11 o'clock Thursday night and then shut off all drafts, as has been his custom. In the room adjoining the cellar were his three sleeping children, having taken pity on him. When extinguished it was found that the young man who was taken from the lunch cart had the trousers tucked under his coat.

When they were questioned as to their reason for being in Lowell they said they had ridden on a freight train from Boston to Ayer and had walked from Ayer to Lowell and they took the trousers to sell in order to get some money to buy something to eat.

Case Continued

The case of Constantino Samowski, charged with assault and battery on Stanislaw Kozlowski, was continued till Monday by agreement of counsel.

Other Offenders

There were but two drunken offenders before the court. Edward P. Brown was given a sentence of four months in jail, and one first offender was fined $2.

Every window in the house was opened and the fire in the furnace was drawn. Then the shivering tenants were permitted to return to their homes.

BOTH DRANK POISON

One Sister Dead and Other is Not Expected to Live

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Arms interlinked and facing a mirror to watch their dying expressions, Mabel and Isabella Bolseau, sisters and members of a prominent family, drank poison last night in a confectionery store here. Mabel died at the city hospital and her sister is not expected to live. Before taking the poison one of the girls requested the proprietor to call a policeman. Not until Mabel fell on the chair, writhing in pain, was any attention paid to the girls. The second sister dropped to the floor soon after Mabel collapsed.

"We are tired of living," was the last message written by the partners in the suicide pact.

The despondent girls drank the poisons from soda water glasses.

LABOR TROUBLES IN LYNN

LYNN, Jan. 7.—A peculiar industrial muddle exists at the shoe factory of Albert Creighton in this city, where the lasters have made a demand on the firm for an increase of half a cent a pair on cloth and calf shoes. The Creighton factory is the only factory in the city having a twelve months agreement with the union, under the terms of which no strike can be declared and all disputes are to be referred to arbitration. The union and the firm have each named two arbitrators, but these have been unable to agree except to name John H. Madden, a local business man, as the fifth arbitrator, and Mr. Madden has declined to serve. Several other men have been named as the fifth arbitrator but Mr. Madden was the only one on whom both sides could agree. The settlement of the controversy appeared today to be somewhat distant.

TO INQUIRE INTO LORENZ'S SANITY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 7.—A new commission was appointed today to examine into the sanity of Ernest Lorenz, who is now awaiting trial for the murder of Gilbert Mann in Johnston on Jan. 8, 1910, and also for a number of highway robberies. A former commission reported last summer that while Lorenz was insane he was "morally responsible" for the crimes with which he is charged. The naming of another commission today was at the request of Walter Wightman, agent of the state board of charities and corrections, who claims that Lorenz should not be tried for murder because of the fact that he is insane.

THE "ENEMY" DISCOVERED

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—The naval demonstration against the Atlantic coast by the returning North Atlantic squadron under command of Rear Admiral Schroeder has been defeated by the defending fleet, under the command of Rear Admiral Stanton, in the opinion of the naval authorities, who learned today that the "enemy" had been discovered and located off the coast.

Rear Admiral Schroeder sailed from Europe ten days ago with 16 battleships for Guantanamo, with orders to threaten the Atlantic coast on the way, the game being to get as close to the coast as possible without being discovered.

Rear Admiral Stanton was placed in the command of the defending fleet and given the warships Tennessee, Montana, North Carolina, Washington, Birmingham and Salem. This fleet sailed earlier in the week and has been on patrol from Eastport to Jacksonville. Wireless telegraphy was eliminated during the game, and it was necessary to locate the "enemy" under the old conditions.

It is understood that having been discovered, the attacking fleet continued on its way to the West Indies.

Schooner Had to be Abandoned

CHATHAM, Jan. 7.—The Rockland, Me., scho. Silver Heels, after 40 years of active service along the Atlantic coast, has selected the shifting sands of Nantucket shoals as her last resting place, orders having been given today to abandon her. The Silver Heels was edging her way from a New Brunswick port to New York with a large cargo of laths when her skipper took her far inshore after passing Shovel lightship last Thursday and the schooner struck on the bar that makes out just to the southward of Monomoy Point lighthouse.

The lifesavers and the revenue cutter Groveland worked all day yesterday trying to drag her into deeper water and two big hawsers were parted before the attempt was given up.

A band of Chatham wreckers will save what they can for the owners, but the greater part of the Silver Heels will be swallowed by the shifting sands, to mingle with the bones of hundreds of other unfortunate coasters.

COLONIZATION PROJECT

Of International Scope Planned by Catholic Clergymen

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—A colonization project of international scope and which will not only attempt to turn the tide of immigration from cities to the country but in a measure to control immigration to the United States is being pushed by an organization of Roman Catholic clergymen, according to a news article printed by the Tribune today.

The organization is the Catholic Organization of the United States of America and its founder and first president is the Rev. Julius E. Devos, pastor of St. John Berchmann's church, Chicago.

The object of the organization is three-fold: First, to search out the most available agricultural lands in the United States which are open to colonization and then direct immigrants to these lands; second, to check

SENATOR LODGE

Criticised at Sumner Meeting

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—At the centennial memorial meeting in honor of the birth of Charles Sumner last evening in Faneuil hall, it is an open question which caused the greater surprise—the rather severe criticism of Charles Sumner's peculiarities and shortcomings by the orator of the evening, Ex-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., or the scathing criticism by Frank B. Sanborn at the absence of the two U. S. senators of Massachusetts from any of the celebrations in honor of Charles Sumner.

Mr. Sanborn began his brief address of Sumner with a reference to the absence of the senators, saying that "they, of all men, should be present to testify to the honor and esteem in which the greatest of all the U. S. senators from Massachusetts held."

He closed with these words: "I wonder today that neither of the undestable immigration to the United States through co-operation with the local clergy in those foreign countries from which the great bulk of immigrants come; third, to establish a church and a school in each of the colonies formed, in order to give permanence to the community.

The first step of the society will be to send abroad chaplains of colonization to interest the Catholic clergy of Europe in the project. The local priests will be asked to keep these chaplains informed of families within their parishes who intend to come to the United States. If the immigrants are of the desirable class the chaplains will endeavor to have them come to the new agricultural colonies and stay away from the cities. If they are classed as "undesirables," the local priests will endeavor to dissuade them from emigrating.

senators of this ancient state has thought fit to favor these anniversary meetings with his presence and his words of grateful remembrance. If unable to imitate the high virtues of Sumner, they should at least have paid that recent respect for the opinion of mankind, which the commemoration of departed excellence demands—to the exclusion of the petty, self-seeking and disappointed politics of the vanished year."

The meeting which was almost exclusively of colored people—as far as the audience was concerned—began soon after 7 o'clock with a service of song which lasted about half an hour. Then, Clement C. Morgan, chairman of the exercises, spoke briefly on the character and great life work of Charles Sumner.

On the program it stated that Hon. John L. Bates would preside and that Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge has been invited to deliver an address upon the "Congressional career of Mr. Sumner."

Hon. John L. Bates was unavoidably absent owing to a business call to New York, as was explained by Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., before he began his address, and at the end of the meeting letters of regret were read from Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Hon. W. Murray Crane and ex-U. S. Senator Foraker of Ohio.

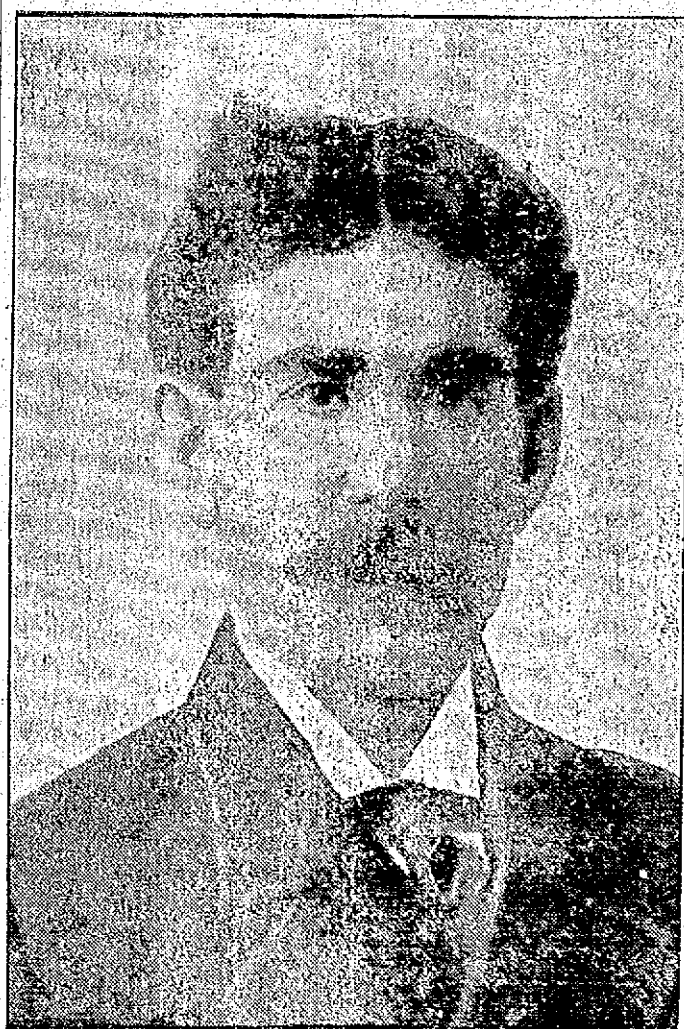

There was singing by Mrs. Estelle Finckney Clough of Worcester, William H. Richardson and the Coleridge-Taylor choral society. A quartet also sang.

The speakers of the evening were Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., George G. Bradford, Butler R. Wilson, Frank B. Sanborn, Dr. Francis H. Rowley, Rev. Dr. Horace Brumstead, ex-president of Atlanta university; Rev. Joshua A. Bracke of Cambridge and Rev. Samuel M. Crothers.

HAS BEEN AWARDED TO CHICAGO NATIONALS

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Pitcher Vic Willis of the St. Louis Nationals, has been awarded to the local Nationals. Word was received from President Lynch of the National league yesterday that the Chicago club had won Willis away from Cincinnati by lot. Manager Griffiths of Cincinnati refused to waive claim to the veteran pitcher when the St. Louis club sought to dispose of his services to the Baltimore Eastern league team. Knowing that

The pitcher was obtained by Chicago at the waiver price of $1,500.

AT ST. PETER'S

Beautiful Music at Holy Hour Service

The Holy Hour service at St. Peter's church last evening attracted a large congregation, embracing many from other parishes, and not a few non-Catholics. Rev. John T. O'Brien officiated. The musical program was of a high order, both choirs assisting with special programs. The soloists were: Miss Gertrude Keleher, Miss May E. Whiteley, Mr. James E. Donnelly and Mr. Cornelius F. Calman. The singing of "Adeste Fideles" by the vested choir was particularly well done. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy was organist.

Solemn benediction was given with Rev. John J. Harkins, pastor of St. Margaret's parish, celebrant, assisted by Rev. James J. McGowan and Rev. John T. O'Brien. Rev. Dr. Keleher occupied a seat within the sanctuary during the service. The services closed with the singing of "Holy God."

TO HELP CHELSEA

Maggi Favors Annexation to Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Alfred L. Maggi, ex-superintendent of streets and city engineer of Chelsea, created quite a sensation at the meeting of the committee of 50 citizens of that city who have in charge the preliminary arrangements for a future charter for Chelsea last night, when he stated that the only salvation for Chelsea was annexation to Boston.

In reply to a question from ex-Alderman Wm. J. Williams he stated that he believed strongly in the actual, political and absolute annexation of Chelsea to Boston. Mr. Maggi said that he felt that annexation was a matter that the committee should give most serious attention. The commerce of Boston, the board of trade and the chamber of commerce all argued, he stated, that annexation of Chelsea to Boston was advisable, and as for the betterment of Chelsea and its people, he stated that there wasn't the slightest doubt but that it was to be vastly improved by the city annexing to Boston.

Ex-Representative Marcus M. Merritt asked the speaker if he favored annexation as suggested in the inaugural of Gov. Thomas. Maggi said he stated that he believed in direct annexation. Mr. Maggi said further that it was the only thing left for Chelsea to do and that a large delegation of citizens were now engaged in circulating a petition in Chelsea looking to securing legislative action bringing about annexation.

The petition which is in circulation is as follows: "We, the undersigned citizens of Chelsea, petition the members of the legislature from Chelsea to introduce into the present legislature a bill for the annexation of Chelsea to Boston."

SPORTING GOSSIP BANK IS CLOSED DANGEROUS FIRE

Supt. of Banks Takes Charge of Carnegie Trust Company

In Building at Corner of Plain and Tanner Streets

When Owen Moran, the English boxer, arrived in Chicago Monday prepared to challenge Ad Wolgast, the lightest of the world's high weight title, to fight him in a fight which Wolgast had accepted an offer to "fight" twenty rounds with George Menzies, fourth rated, at Los Angeles on February 22. Wolgast knew last week that Moran intended to claim his title by forfeit. The Milwaukee boy did not accept a challenge, so he signed with Menzies as a substitute. Moran of course realized that he couldn't secure a match with Wolgast for at least three months, if then, and therefore decided to withhold his challenge and forfeit money. But Moran's manager, C. J. Harvey, put Wolgast on the pay until the alleged lightweight champion fairly alighted.

Wolgast has simply sidestepped us," declared Harvey. "He has taken on Menzies and has no time to bother with Moran just now. Menzies is about the poorest apology for a fighter that Wolgast could dig up yet he has the nerve to meet him instead of taking on a real challenger. In my opinion, Moran should refuse to put on such matches for Wolgast, or which event he would soon be compelled to come out of his shell."

Harvey and the manager of Packy McFarland are discussing a match between the latter and Moran to be decided in Milwaukee. Harvey didn't believe there was any use talking until McFarland's manager had indicated that Packy would do 133 pounds for the Briton. McFarland would prefer 135 pounds at 6 o'clock, his best weight, but Moran doesn't weigh an ounce more than 128, says Harvey, and will insist upon 133, letting McFarland choose. A Milwaukee boxing promoter wants to stage the bout some time in February.

McFarland, it is reported, may take another trip to England to box Freddie Welsh at McIntosh's Olympia on February 9, the weight to be 143 at 2 o'clock. It has been sent out from Chicago that McFarland will sign another provision. Corri is the referee. It is asserted that McIntosh has offered McFarland $1,500 in cash and a round trip ticket, in addition to a percentage of the receipts, to meet Welsh in London. There is no denying the fact that McFarland wants to fight the English lightweight champion again because the unfair deal Packy received when he fought Corri called his bluff with Welsh last year, but McFarland stated while he would have two weeks ago that Corri was the only man in Great Britain who would be allowed to referee for him in the future. McFarland's reason Welsh has always been violently opposed to Corri, although that gentleman was a member of the stock exchange and a professional referee. He is highly regarded as a boxing expert, however, and is well known for his fairness, particularly to American boxers. If Welsh will accept Corri, therefore, McFarland will make the match, but he will not leave here for the other side until this important question has been decided. As far as fighting Welsh on February 9 is concerned it is doubtful if McFarland can be ready by that time. Jacky boxes Jack Gooden here on January 10 and may need several days' rest after that before sailing for London. At that rate he would have less than two weeks on the other side to get down to the weight. For that reason if there is a fight McFarland will probably ask for a later date.

Charley White was agreed upon yesterday to referee the twelve round bout between Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette at the Armory A. A. Boston, next Tuesday night. As these old rivals have met nearly a dozen times before without scoring a knockout it is presumed that the coming bout will go the limit as usual. Langford, it is believed, can beat Jeannette decisively any time he tries, but as both have offers to fight again in Paris it is suspected that Langford will have the better of it. At least that is the way local sportsmen regard the match, and some of the big boys they will not be surprised if Jeannette withdraws more than the usual scrutiny when the negroes begin fighting.

During a recent fanning bee Harry Howell, the St. Louis Brown's old pitcher who is an intelligent judge of ball players, was asked to select an American league team that, in his opinion, could beat everybody without receiving "inside instructions" from the bench. So Howell, with pencil and pad, wrote down these names: Pitchers, Johnson, Washington; Ford, New York; Vane, Chicago; Coombs, Athletics; Calhoun, Street, Washington; and Clarke, St. Louis. First base, Chase, New York. Second base, Lord, Chicago. Shortstop, Wallace, St. Louis. Left field, D. Jones, Detroit. Center field, Speaker, Boston. Right field, Cobb, Detroit. Sub infielder and base runner, Eberfeld, Washington. Sub outfielder and pinch runner, Crawford, Detroit. Howell gave no reason for omitting Thord Baseman Baker of the Athletics and Outfielder Sweeney of the Highlanders, recognized stars in their respective positions.

After Howell had selected this team and the expert said to be Konechey, figured out the National league team in this manner: Pitchers, McGraw, New York; Cole, Chicago; Rucker, Brooklyn; and Gaspar, Cincinnati. Catchers, Kling, Chicago, and Bresnahan, St. Louis. First base, Konechey, St. Louis. Second base, Evers, Chicago. Third base, Grant, Cincinnati. Shortstop, Tinker, Chicago. Left field, Nagler, Philadelphia. Center field, Leach, Pittsburgh. Right field, Schulte, Chicago. Sub infielder, Wagner, Pittsburgh. Sub outfielder, Hoffman, Chicago.

The Cincinnati papers say that the schedules of both major leagues will end on October 8. President Habbert of the Brooklyn club at the meeting of the National league here next month will try to find out why the schedule committee of which Thomas J. Lynch is chairman, has ignored his request, backed up by other club owners, to have the season extended to include Columbus day, October 12. Habbert says it was understood at the meeting

In December that October 12 would be the last day of the season in his league and he questions the right of President Lynch's committee to make a change advocated by the American league without first securing consent by a majority vote.

The "novelty races" at Jacksonville in which a man, a mule, a horse and an automobile have measured speed are not to be regarded as furthering the interests of the breeding industry. It is observed that in sanctioning such events, together with the licensing of books for the accommodation of negro fotters, the self-styled Southern Yockey club has a poor idea of real sport.

Funeral of Cornelius Callahan, Jr., Today

The funeral of Cornelius Callahan, Jr., a well known and popular resident of Delvidere, took place this morning from his home, in Bartlett street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. His death was due to a fall while suffering with crystalline and east a deep gloom over a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral cortege proceeded to the immaculate Conception church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Owen McGuire, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., deacon, Rev. Fr. Fox, O. M. I., sub-deacon, and Rev. Brother O'Neill, master of ceremonies. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Walker rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory, Mr. Edward Shea sang "Pie Jesu." At communion, Mrs. Terrence Cox sang "O Meritum Passionis." The solos in the "Liberia" were sustained by Mrs. Hugh Walker. As the body was being borne from the church the choir sang "Da Profundi." Mr. Joseph McCaffrey sustained the Mass. Thomas McCann, Henry Dunham, Thomas Cuff, Michael Kennedy, Patrick Cryan and Patrick Flynn. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery. Rev. Fr. Fox reading the prayers at the grave. The interment was under the direction of Undertaker Peter Davey. Among the many beautiful floral tributes laid upon the graves were the following:

Large pillow, inscribed "Good-bye," from family; wreath on base, from his brother William of Andover; large wreath, Edward Callahan of Boston; cross on base, from Stone Masons union, No. 7; large pillow from A. O. U. W. spray of thirty-four pinks, representing age of deceased, from Geo. English; spray from James Brown, standing cross from Thomas McCann and William Maloney; cross on base from James Dolan; spray of pinks and roses from Mrs. King and Mrs. McGillis.

In attendance at the funeral were delegations from different societies of which the deceased was a highly esteemed member, including the following: Owis, Messrs. John Schick, Ernest P. Pearson, James P. McManus and John F. Tansey; Stone Masons' union, Messrs. Horace Kiltreger, James Smith, Patrick Gallagher, Joseph Jackson; the Celtics, Messrs. Michael McDonald, James O'Rourke, Patrick Kane and John Duffy.

To be Used in Testing Milk

A refractometer to determine if water has been added to milk has arrived at the office of the inspector of milk and vinegar at city hall. The little instrument came all the way from Germany and it cost over $100. In the old catalogues it was listed at $50, but the tariff advanced the price $50. The board of health has been sorely in need of a refractometer and the only excuse the department had for being without it was "lack of funds." The local board of health has never been able to make a complaint against a milk dealer for "watered milk." The complaint has always read "milk below standard." The fine for watering milk, the minimum fine, is $50, while the average fine for selling or having in one's possession milk below the standard is $10.

SALARY LIMIT OF $1800

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—After one of the stormiest sessions in the history of the Tri-State baseball league it was decided last night to make the monthly salary limit $1800, instead of $2475, which was the limit last season. The $176 individual limit was continued.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Carnegie Trust Co. was closed this morning by direction of the state superintendent of banks, O. H. Cheney. It has a capital of $1,500,000 and deposits aggregating about $10,000,000. The institution was in serious trouble in the panic of 1907 and has never fully recovered. Its late president, Mr. Dickinson, died last year under peculiar circumstances.

The institution was organized in 1907 and after the retirement of Leslie M. Shaw from the office of the secretary of the treasury he became its president. The name of Carnegie as applied to this institution attracted to it a great deal of attention, but the adoption of this name was without Mr. Carnegie's authority or approval. It is understood he was not a stockholder and not immediately identified with it. Mr. Shaw's connection with the bank ceased after a few months because of differences with the other officers of the institution.

The Carnegie bank occupies headquarters on Broadway in the heart of the financial district. News of the suspension spread rapidly, and hundreds of depositors had assembled about the doors even before the usual hour of opening. The following notice was pinned on the doors of the company:

"Pursuant to the provisions of section 19 of the banking laws of the state of New York, as amended, I have this day taken possession of the Carnegie Trust Co."

(Signed) "O. H. Cheney, Superintendent of Banks." This notice was posted shortly before 10 a. m. which is the usual hour of the opening of the bank. The state officials had made their plans earlier in the day and it was evident that their actions had been expected as things had already begun to gather. The doors remained closed.

The following statement was issued by Supt. Cheney:

"The superintendent of banks has taken possession of the property and business of the Carnegie Trust company, located at 115 Broadway, borough of Manhattan."

"Examination of the affairs of this company has caused the superintendent to conclude that it is in an unsound condition to transact business and that it is not safe for it to continue. The examination is not yet complete and no further statement can be made at the present time."

The principal officers of the bank are:

MIDDLESEX CLUB
Won From the Lamson Bowlers

The Middlesex club bowling team met the representatives of the Lamson Consolidated Store Service Co. on the alleys last night and defeated the latter team by winning two of the three points and capturing the total. Luther of the winning team was high man.

The Bleachery and Bunting teams had at it and the former team put it all over the latter. The howling of both teams in the last string was exceptionally high, both teams going over the 500 mark. O'Brien and McIntyre of the winning team were high men, each having a triple of 311.

In the game between the Bleachery and the Wood Grainers gave Coggins a severe thrashing. In the Moody Bridge league the Bleachery gave the Perron Juniors a whitewash, winning by over 100 pins. Sturtevant of the winning team with a total of 320 was the king pin.

The Ledgers also rubbed it into the Mongeaus, winning all three points.

The directors of the company are: David Bates, A. W. Burchard, W. J. Cummings, A. B. Chandler, M. J. Condon, George W. Court, George D. Chubb, John Cudney, James R. Curran, W. A. Keener, S. H. The suspension of the Carnegie Trust company was unexpected in the financial district and though the pinning of the notice of closing on the trust company's doors quickly brought a crowd of depositors and others having business with the institution they gradually melted away and there was little indication that the failure had taken place.

All the doors of the trust company with the exception of a small side entrance were locked by direction of Supt. Cheney. Those having business with the state banking officials used the side door.

The suspension caused selling on the stock exchange, but the declines were not large. Important banking interests rendered support wherever necessary.

Officials of the trust company were loath to discuss the failure and it was stated that President Howell would not be down town today.

Mr. Howell succeeded J. B. Reychman as president of the company some months ago. He was formerly president of the Fourth National bank of Nashville, Tenn.

It is understood that examination of the trust company's affairs which resulted in its closing was begun on Thursday by the superintendent of banks, Geo. W. Egbert, special deputy superintendent has been placed in charge of the banking department's investigation and is working on the official statement, which probably will be issued Monday. Paul Cravett and Edmund M. Groat, former controller of this city, had a brief conference this morning with Supt. Cheney. It is believed they represent some special interests connected with the closed trust company.

Trust Co., one of the largest banking institutions in the city, with deposits of nearly $20,000,000, closed its doors today by order of State Supt. of Banks Cheney. The suspension hardly caused a ripple in the financial district, where the trust company was often reported in a shaky condition.

Supt. Cheney in an official statement said an examination of the trust company had caused him "to conclude that it is in an unsound condition to transact business and that it is not safe for it to continue." State banking officers are now probing the company's books. Officials of the trust company have made no statement and the extent of liabilities is unknown. Bankers, however, said depositors would be paid in full.

The organization of the Carnegie Trust Co. in 1907 by the late Charles Dickinson brings out some interesting modern financial history. Mr. Dickinson interested a number of prominent financiers in the company and Leslie Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, who had a large banking following in the west, was made president. Through Mr. Shaw's connection the business of the company became large.

The name of Mr. Carnegie was used by the organizers in order to lend strength to the undertaking but Mr. Carnegie, shortly after the formation of the company, repudiated the use of his name in connection with it.

Mr. Dickinson, who was formerly a state bank examiner, became vice-president of the company and sought to dictate to a large degree the management of the company. After about a year Mr. Shaw resigned and Mr. Dickinson became president.

Troubles developed when Mr. Dickinson attempted to form a chain of banks with the Carnegie Trust as a parent institution.

Control of the Van Norden Trust Co., the Nineteenth Ward bank and the Twelfth Ward bank was sought and a syndicate had secured control of the Van Norden company and was heavily purchasing securities of the other banks when the state banking department put a stop to the plan. During the Dickinson regime the Carnegie Trust Co. became involved with the Eldridge Funding Co., which failed, causing many Catholic institutions throughout the country considerable financial loss.

Mr. Dickinson resigned and Joseph B. Reychman temporarily took the presidency in order to effect some reforms and eliminate certain paper held

What might have proved to be a serious fire and probably result in the loss of a life, broke out in the three story wooden building at the corner of Plain and Tanner streets shortly after four o'clock this morning. The sprinkler system in the building held the flames a check until the firemen arrived on the scene, the latter having been alarmed by the "big bang" on the outside of the building which started to clang as soon as the sprinkler head melted and the water began whirling about the vicinity of the fire.

The building is unoccupied at the present time. A watchman is kept there night and day. He was asleep when the fire broke out, but fortunately he awoke before the dense volume of smoke penetrated the room in which he was sleeping.

It was about 4:15 o'clock that the members of Hose Co. No. 9, which is located nearby, were awakened by the clanging of the water going on the outside of the building. They made a quick hitch and were soon on the scene. Owing to the dense smoke it was deemed advisable to secure assistance and word was telephoned to Chief Hosmer, and the latter sent the Westford street truck to assist the hosemen.

The fire which started over the boiler in the basement of the building was soon located and soon extinguished, but not before considerable of the wood work had been burned away. The watchman informed Chief Hosmer that he heard an explosion and was of the opinion that one of the tubes had burst, but an examination by the firemen failed to show that there had been any explosion.

LASTERS OUT ON STRIKE

LYNN, Jan. 7.—Twenty-six lasters struck work at the factory of the Watson Shoe Co. here today, giving as their reason the laying-off of four of their number by the company, which the lasters claim is a violation of an agreement between the union and the firm. The lasters contend that this agreement provides that no man shall be laid off without satisfactory cause being shown and that in this case no cause has been shown. The manufacturers declare that no such agreement exists. The lasters are affiliated with the United Shoe Workers of America, which organization has its branches in every department of the factory.

MANY PUBLIC BEQUESTS

DEDHAM, Jan. 7.—All Saint's Protestant Episcopal church of Dorchester receives $385,000 under the will of the late Mrs. Mary Lothrop Penbody of Milton, the widow of the late Mr. Oliver Peabody. The will was filed here today. There are numerous bequests to relatives and friends and religious and charitable institutions benefit greatly. Among the principal public bequests are:

Fifty thousand dollars each to the Children's hospital, Wellesley Hills, and the Children's hospital, Boston; $25,000 each to the Sisterhood of St. Margaret, Boston, the relief of aged and disabled Protestant Episcopal clergymen, the relief of the widows and children of deceased Protestant Episcopal clergymen of the Massachusetts diocese, the trustees of donations of the Protestant Episcopal church in Massachusetts, the income to be used for the benefit of its missions, the domestic and foreign missionary societies of the Protestant Episcopal churches in the United States and Mashopah college, Wisconsin.

After all bequests have been paid the residue of the estate is to go to the cathedral church of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts.

by the institution. Mr. Reichmann retired several months ago and J. T. Howell, formerly president of the Fourth National bank of Nashville, Tenn., became president.

The city of New York had on deposit with the Carnegie Trust at the close of business yesterday the sum of $650,000.

The stock market reflected the failure with a slight dip in prices, which was just as smartly recovered when it was seen that the suspension would in no wise involve the stability of any other financial institutions.

Not long after Mr. Dickinson had retired he died in a hospital here, and it was stated that the cause of his death was the inhalation of poisonous gases in the laboratory of a chemist in Scranton. His death was so sudden that it gave rise to rumors that he had committed suicide. This was vigorously denied by relatives, and pneumonia was officially determined as the cause of death.

The Carnegie Trust Co. occupied most extensive banking quarters at 115 Broadway, which extended from Broadway to Trinity place. An enormous rental was paid for this space.

CHINESE BANKERS

OPPOSED TO A CHINO-AMERICAN BANK

HANKOW, China, Jan. 7.—Chinese bankers along the Yangtze River, perfected an organization for the purpose of combating a reported plan for a Chino-American bank. According to a rumor, such an institution was proposed during the visit here of a delegation of American business men from the chambers of commerce of the Pacific coast. The Chinese opponents of the project contend that they see in it only another evidence of foreign encroachment.

$25,000 DAMAGE

Building in Berlin, N. H., Destroyed

BERLIN, N. H., Jan. 7.—The Bell block, a three story brick structure at the corner of Pleasant and Mechanics streets, this city, was destroyed by fire today, causing a loss estimated at $25,000. Of this amount $20,000 is on the building and $5,000 on the plant of the Berlin Reporter, a weekly newspaper, which had its office in the block.

The uniforms, rifles and furnishings in the armory of Company L, New Hampshire National guard, which was located in the building, were saved by the militiamen.

The cause of the fire has not been determined but it is known to have originated around the furnace or in the stockroom of the newspaper, directly above the furnace.

FATALLY INJURED

Woman Fell Down a Flight of Stairs

Mrs. Annie Moran, aged 49 years, fell down a flight of attic stairs at her home, 8 Floyd street, about 6 o'clock last night, and suffered a fracture of the base of the skull, which resulted in her death an hour and a half later. The matter was reported to the police, and after several officers made a careful investigation it was decided that the fall was accidental. The body was later viewed by Dr. J. V. Meigs, the medical examiner, who said death was due to a basal fracture of the skull received from an accidental fall.

John Moran, the unfortunate woman's son, arrived home about 6:05 o'clock and found his mother lying at the foot of a flight of rear stairs leading to the attic. She was unconscious and he at once summoned Dr. John F. Boyle, who lives nearby. The latter did everything possible to revive the woman, but believed that she had suffered a serious injury to the skull. She died about 7:30 o'clock without having regained consciousness.

The police were notified and Lieut. John Freeman, Inspector John A. Walsh and Patrolman Timothy J. Dwyer were sent to the house and after making an investigation were satisfied that the fall was accidental.

Besides her husband, Patrick Moran, she leaves six children, John H., Catherine, Annie, James, Mary and Loretta. The body was taken to the rooms of Undertaker J. J. O'Connell.

YOUNG AVIATOR DISTRICT COURT

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 7.—Jimmy Ward, the 18 year old aviator, in a Curtiss 24 horsepower aeroplane yesterday made a daring flight across two rivers, the harbor and out over the Atlantic ocean, breaking the world's altitude record for low power machines. He also won a prize of $5000 by circling over two miles of the strongest fortifications on the Atlantic coast, thus demonstrating the efficiency of the aeroplane as a scout in time of war.

Landing gracefully on the beach in front of Fort Moultrie on Sullivan's island, he handed a note to Col. Marsh which the latter signed. Ward then re-entered his machine, rose from the beach and flew back across the harbor in a direct line for the aviation field north of this city. He covered a distance of about 25 miles in 45 minutes.

TO DISCONTINUE SERVICE

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Royal Mail Steam Packet company, one of the oldest of British lines, announced yesterday that its service between New York and Southampton to the West Indies and Azores will soon be discontinued. The new schedule names as the last port of call out of New York, Puerto Colombia, with calls at Bermuda, Antilla, Cuba, Kingston, Colon and Cartagena.

MANY AMATEURS PATROLMAN McNALLY

The Imperials held their annual social and dance in Associate hall last evening with a large and merry attendance. Kitzinger's orchestra furnished music for dancing. The entertainment included an "amateur night," in which several local amateurs did most amusing stunts. Henry Sexton, a promising young acrobat, made the world famous Prevost brothers look like a couple of wooden men. Henry's best stunt was a front hand spring, landing on the same place on which he started. Then he took a chair and did everything to it but eat it.

William Gibson sang Blanche King's song, "Come Josephine in My Flying Machine," and the audience wished he was in it.

Thomas Armstrong was also strong as a recitationist, while Baby Crowe was as graceful as a bird in her dances.

Chas. Lajoie Has Claim Against the City

Lawyer H. V. Charbonneau has filed an attachment at the registry of deeds for the purpose of recovering damages from the city of Lowell in behalf of Charles Lajoie, the coal dealer. Mr. Lajoie's coal yard was destroyed at 290 Lincoln street, the building of the new bridge forced Mr. Lajoie to move out for a large cement wall was erected opposite the driveway of his yard, in this way cutting out all means of driving out with a load.

Mr. Lajoie removed to 1012 Gorham street last Monday and now he wants to recover damages from the city of Lowell. The writ is returnable on the first Monday in February.

ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE OAKLANDS IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Oakland Improvement Association was held Thursday evening at the home of the secretary, Chas. S. Proctor, and plans for the year talked over. It is claimed a new firehouse is badly needed in the Oakland and an effort will probably be made this year to have one located in that section of the city. New sidewalks will also be petitioned for. The association has nearly $2000 in the treasury, with all bills paid.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. H. Guillet; vice-president, Jesse H. Shepard; secretary, Charles S. Proctor; treasurer, William Cogger; board of directors, W. L. Clark, P. A. Fisher, Harry H. Walcott, Warren B. Mumford, J. L. Roberts, P. W. Kelly, J. E. Page, Charles H. Hobson, Daniel J. O'Brien, R. J. Lee, Alexander E. Rountree.

The committee on new charter met at the board of trade room with William H. Wilson in the chair and a large attendance of members last night. The draft of the charter as presented by the sub-committee on draft was received and discussed at length. The charter will be ready for the public at an early time, and before being given to the Lowell delegation for presentation at the state house, it will be fully explained to the people of the city.

The committee feels that its task has been profitably occupied, and is confident that when the provisions of the proposed charter are adopted, a radical improvement in the city's business methods will be the result, with the people in more direct control than they have been since Lowell became a city.

HEALTH BOARD

ORGANIZED AND ELECTED DR. MARTIN CHAIRMAN

The board of health met yesterday afternoon and organized for the year 1911. Dr. G. C. Corcoran was re-elected chairman and Inspector Frank J. O'Hare, secretary. The following school physicians now serving, were re-elected: Dr. Frederick P. Murphy, Dr. M. A. Tighe, Dr. H. W. Jewett, and Dr. R. Mignault.

Meyer Marcus, who wishes to build and occupy a stable for four horses in Short street, has before the board. Action on his petition was deferred until the board has an opportunity to examine the location.

PATROLMAN McNALLY

Has Been Suspended by Police Board for 53 Days

Patrolman James R. McNally appeared before the board of police at a special meeting of that body last night to answer to a complaint charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, it being alleged that he entered a house in Railroad street on Christmas night and made charges against one of the inmates. A short hearing was held and the board in executive session found the respondent guilty and ordered that he be suspended for 53 days.

The charge against the patrolman was preferred by Robert Cartwright of 101 Railroad street, who stated that McNally entered his home on Christmas night and accused him of having accosted girls on the street. Patrolman McNally denied that he entered the house. J. J. Joseph Hennessy, appealed for the patrolman.

Mrs. Cartwright, wife of the complainant, testified that when she came home from church on Christmas night she saw a man standing in the hallway. She thought it was her husband and spoke to him. Her little boy, who was with her, told his mother that the man was not his father, but the officer on the street.

A little later Mr. Cartwright arrived and is alleged that Patrolman McNally told him that complaints had been received about him, that he had been given to understand that Mr. Cartwright had accosted girls on the sidewalk.

Mr. Cartwright informed the patrolman that he would go at once to the police station and ascertain where the complaints came from. He went to the police station the next day and found that no complaints had been made against him. He then decided to make complaint against the officer.

Two other witnesses were present and testified that they had not seen McNally about the house on the night in question.

The board then went into executive session, and later gave out the following order:

Special Order 101:

Patrolman James R. McNally, having been summoned to appear before the board of police on the charge of violation of rule 19 of the police manual, to wit: conduct unbecoming an officer, relative to a verbal charge made by him to one Robert Cartwright.

And after a hearing of the charges the board finds the officer guilty and it is voted:

That Patrolman James R. McNally be suspended from Jan. 6 to Feb. 28, inclusive. This order to be read at all roll calls of this date.

CONCORD SHOPS

Will Not be Abandoned Says Supt.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 7.—An announcement yesterday referring to the building of new railroad repair shops in Lowell and intimating that the extensive plant in this city employing 1200 workmen would be abandoned caused a sensation and inquiries were at once begun among the local railroad officials.

When seen at his office, Supt. W. F. Ray of the Concord division stated that he did not believe there was any possibility of moving the Concord shops to Massachusetts. Mr. Ray said shops to be built at Concord would be main, as they are modern in every respect. He said that the enlargement of the local shops would not have been contemplated if they were to be moved.

The plans for the extension have been received and the work of moving the shops surrounding the property west to allow more track room will be commenced soon.

Gen. George M. Kimball, a director in the Concord and Montreal railroad, which road owns the shops in this city, stated yesterday morning that so far as he was concerned the Concord shops were not to be removed. He said that he understood that an enlargement of these shops was planned.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The members of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men met in regular session last night, Sachem Albert Shophod presiding. Considerable interesting report of the executive committee was read, it being to the effect that the books of the financial officers had been examined and found to be correct.

The membership of the tribe at the present time is 400 and the funds and other property belonging to the tribe amount to $5845. At the next meeting it was stated that the chiefs-elect will be raised to their stumps by Deputy Great Sachem Joseph H. McNabb and suite of Haverhill. Past Sachem Oliver A. Libby gave an interesting talk on the degree work as performed by tribes in this reservation.

Odd Fellows
The regular meeting of Loyal Victoria lodge, I. O. E. F. M. U. was held Thursday night, and the following officers were installed: Noble grand, Lillian Currie; vice grand, Jennie Danahy; permanent secretary, Jennie Scobie; treasurer, Mary Siddall; secretary, Mrs. McIntyre; warden, Mrs. Murphy; conductor, Jennie McDowell; guard, Jennie Usher; R. S. N. G., Alice Nell; L. S. N. C., Alice Worth; R. S. V. G., Ada Fletcher; L. S. V. G., Nellie McDowell; elective secretary, Lizzie Howard. After the exercises an informal entertainment was given, as follows: Piano solo, J. Gillespie; songs, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Giller, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Saxton, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Saxton. Mrs. Robinson made a short address. Refreshments were served.

Grand Union Lodge
Grand Union lodge, I. O. G. T. met Thursday night and after the routine business had been transacted the election of officers was held and resulted as follows: N. G., Fred I. Vinat; V. G., James A. Peck; R. S., Frank H. Wright; P. S., Harry M. Gumb; treasurer, Herbert C. Riddick; trustee for three years, C. C. Thompson; delegate to grand lodge, D. M. McKinley.

Next meeting, Jan. 12, the joint degree staff of Grand Union lodge and Centralville lodge will exemplify the first degree on several candidates. A social hour will follow the meeting.

Order of Protection

The regular meeting of Elgin lodge, N. E. O. P. was held last night, the feature of the meeting being the installation of the following officers who were recently elected:

DEWEY DAY

TO BE OBSERVED IN PORTLAND, OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 7.—Portland will celebrate Dewey day, May 1, 1911, in a unique way. The first gun of the Spanish-American war was fired from the deck of the cruiser Boston and that same gun, mounted on the same vessel, will be shot in Portland harbor on May 1 next, firing a salute to Admiral Dewey.

The celebration will be held by the newly formed naval reserve, which has secured the Boston as a training ship. The vessel will be stationed in the local harbor as soon as repairs are completed, fitting it for service.

Admiral Dewey himself will be invited to attend by the enthusiastic naval reserve. If his consent can be gained to appear at the celebration, it is felt a very big event can be made of this important date in American history. It is expected that the great sea fighter will be a much interested spectator as the guns of the Boston re-echo the opening shots of the battle of Manila bay, one of the most brilliant victories to the credit of the American navy.

FISH TO PREVENT CONSUMPTION

London doctors are recommending a fish diet as a preventive of consumption. Cheap fish is specifically mentioned possibly as an inducement to the poor to use fish more than they do, the object being to prevent nitrogen starvation which induces consumption. The London doctors do not seem to think that pure air in the greatest abundance will ward off consumption if there be a lack of nourishing food.

WHERE CITIES ARE LIABLE

The supreme court of Minnesota has decided that a city in that state is liable for the death of a citizen due to drinking bad water supplied by the city. In defense the city authorities claimed that the supplying the citizens with water was a governmental function and that in consequence the city is not liable. But if a city goes into the business of supplying water, running railroads or manufacturing electricity for lighting purposes it must expect to bear the consequence same as others in the same business and with whom the city may be in competition.

MORE SUNSHINE AND FEWER ICEBERGS

Cardinal Gibbons recently spoke of how much happier the world would be if there were not so many human icebergs. He referred to the people who go about in a morose or uncheerful mood, hardly uttering a pleasant word to those around them. He pleaded for the diffusion of more human sunshine than is usually dispensed.

There is a great deal in what the cardinal says, and his words strike home to a great many people, for no doubt there are very few who might not show more cheerfulness and good nature than they really do. In fact it happens that most of those we meet have troubles of their own; often it may be troubles that are wholly unsuspected by their neighbors. Their troubles bring upon them a serious, pessimistic and unhappy mood that spreads a sort of gloom all around.

Unfortunately too many people take delight in pouring their sorrows into the ears of others. Far better forget them and lighten your neighbor's burden with a cheerful word rather than add to its weight by a tale of woe.

If we were to discuss the question whether this gloomy mental habit serves any good purpose in overcoming trouble, we believe that all things considered, the verdict would be in the negative. On the contrary this nursing of real or imaginary evils will generally invite others sometimes fully as bad or even worse. There are people who continually give way to evil forebodings. They imagine they are pursued by some evil fate or predestined to a certain calamity, and the very contemplation of such a thought is in many cases all that is needed to bring such a thing about.

There are thousands today who imagine that they are thus handicapped by an evil fate and who lose courage, spirit and cheerfulness, rushing, as it were, to meet the calamities that have no foundation except in their own diseased imagination. In this regard we would say to them—

Bode ye not an evil doom,
Man shapes his destiny;
Hope and courage out of gloom,
Bring final victory.

Nothing is more common than the remark made in reference to some people that they are "very distant," "odd" or "untongued." As to the manner of some men and how it is interpreted by others there is a good deal of misunderstanding. It is true that there are some men who are as frugal of their bows of recognition as they might be of their dollars; but it is equally true that some men are unjustly charged with this oddity. Among this class are those whose vision is defective, who are near-sighted and cannot recognize anybody except at close range. There are many other men blamed for being "stuck up" because they do not speak to people whom they never had any opportunity of knowing. These are the men who appear often in public places, at public meetings of various kinds, who meet people in the mass and even talk to them without any formal introduction. No man can be expected to be able to distinguish all these people when he meets them individually on the streets. And if he manages to recognize them by outward looks it is plain that he is wholly at sea as to their names. Some men on the other hand have a poor memory for names and faces and even if formally introduced to others may be unable to recognize them a few weeks later. Thus for passing people whom he does not know or whose names he has forgotten, he may be criticized as "proud" or "snobbish" when nothing can be farther from his real sentiments.

Thus it appears that while it is true as Cardinal Gibbons avers, we have a great many human icebergs, yet it is also a fact that many men mistaken for human icebergs, "snobs" and "oddities" are not really so as we have just shown.

But there are, we imagine, very few in any station in life who could not help in the diffusion of sunshine that will make the world happier, that will cost nothing and yet be worth a great deal.

There is scarcely a writer of any distinction who has not borne testimony to the value of cheerfulness and good fellowship. The bible says, "A merry heart doeth good like medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones;" Shakespeare says: "A light heart lives long;" Ovid: "The burden becomes light which is cheerfully borne," and Addison: "Cheerfulness is the best promoter of health. Repinings and mummings of the heart give imperceptible strokes to those delicate fibres of which the vital parts are composed, and wear out the machine. Cheerfulness is as friendly to the mind as to the body." Is there not then the very best of reasons for optimism, for looking upon the sunny side of every affliction and every disappointment?

"For what is the use of repining,
As where there's a will there's a way.
Tomorrow the sun may be shining,
Although it is clouded today."

Is it not better to imitate the sunflower that always turns to the king of day or the sundial that registers only the sunbeams as they fall, taking no notice of the periods of cloudiness and gloom?

SEEN AND HEARD

When a beautiful young girl eats heartily, and enjoys it, she is so ashamed of it, it's so gross.

You have been eating for quite a while. Did you ever find any warmed-over food that you really liked?

It is safe of an Atchison woman that you don't have to arouse her suspicions; she keeps them at work all the time.

"When I come to die it will be just my luck if something is going on that makes me particularly anxious to live."—Pardon Twine.

How easy it is for a man to announce in the fall that he will buy a motor car in the spring!

We cannot forget our deepest wrongs and most heartbreaking sorrow, and smile at the serious way a girl will "announce" her engagement after having told every one she knows.

"I like the looks of this parrot," said the lady who had stepped into the bird store. "Is he a good talker?" The proprietor replied that the bird was an excellent talker, and it was evident the customer was favorably impressed.

"What is your price for him?" she asked.

The man had noticed the rich apparel worn by the customer, and he judged that there was a chance to make a little "easy money" at the expense of one who would never miss it. "Ten dollars," he said, with just the slightest possible hesitation.

"Five dollars, madam," instantly croaked the parrot.

The lady looked at the proprietor, who had turned red.

"He certainly is a fine talker," she said, "and he also seems to have good sense. I am willing to take him at his own valuation. Do I get him for that?"

"You do," answered the man, sadly.

dry!" Is an old and sapient saying, to be commended to all who would by courage and cheerfulness win success in life. The saying may be further amended and extended by adding as a counsel particularly appropriate to cold and slushy weather: "Trust in God and keep your feet dry!" Many an ill or even serious disease starts from getting the feet wet. Health, as well as morality, depends largely on the understanding. Put your trust in heaven, but be careful where (and how) you tread on earth.

This is question No. 2. And it's aimed direct at YOU! How about the water wagon? Are you on, or one foot dragging? —Springfield Union.

WRITTEN IN A STUDY
"How well I know what I mean to do when the long, dark (winter) evenings come." —Browning, etc.

Relic of vanished beauty, Pipe, you are sadly sooty. Let as the smoke fills by me After an evening nap, Weary and worn and jaded, What though your form had faded? Though you are old and grimy, Still you're a handy chap.

Puff! and I see the fairies, Thick as the smoke air is, Rise to the homely rafters, Playing the Muse's Mimes; Puff! and I feel them stealing Down from the blackening ceiling, Lighting my soul with laughter, Filling my bumps with rhyme.

Quicker I puff and quicker, Thicker they come and thicker, Shading the glowing embers, There in the ruddy grate; Casting me fairy glances, Sending a fog of fancies, Not like a dull November's; Those are the fogs I hate.

Ah! I could puff forever. Do you forsake me? Never! Friend of the winter poet, You are a pipe and brother; Yes, I shall take another Whiff for an hour—oh, blow it! I've used up all my weal!

Tomorrow's Boston Sunday American

been arranged for next week. Among the top line acts will be the Orpheum Comedy Four, a quartet of comedians who are guaranteed to keep an audience in roars of laughter from the beginning to the end of their act, and who can sing better than most merely "straight" quartets. Then there are Ed Dawson and the Gillette Sisters in a dainty and original offering as refreshing as it is bright and amusing. The Three Banjo Friends are on the bill, too. What they do principally may be imagined from the title of their offering, but the excellence of their act must be seen to be appreciated, to use a somewhat hackneyed phrase. Patrons may be sure that they are well worth seeing, however. No less interesting of its kind is the comedy acrobatic act presented by the Burdett Brothers. Miss Mae Monahan, the dainty little singer of Irish songs, has been retained for another week at the special request of numerous patrons. She will sing an entirely new repertoire; and, of course, the best moving pictures also will be on the bill.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The show at the Academy is pleasing to large audiences. George Nagel & Co. are making a big hit in their lively knockabout comedy act, "The Try-out." May Evans entertains in delightful songs and imitations. Dunsworth and Valder have a pleasing singing act. Monday, the vaudeville features will be changed. Sacred concert Sunday.

KING GEORGE

HAS DECIDED TO BECOME A PATRON OF THE TURF

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The doubts whether King George would become a patron of the turf are set at rest by the official publication yesterday of several entries in his majesty's name in races to be run after the expiration of the year of mourning for King Edward. King George has adopted his father's racing colors and also engaged his trainer and jockey.

LOCOMOTIVE ON FIRE

Hundreds of Persons

MALDEN, Jan. 7.—A locomotive ablaze, with the engineer and fireman at their posts, was the unusual spectacle which attracted the attention of hundreds of persons in this city early last night. It was the locomotive hauling the train which leaves Boston at 5:55 for Lynn over the Saugus branch. The fire near the firebox blew out soon after leaving Malden. The current and the windwork in the cab caught fire and, fanned by the wind, burned briskly as the train passed Franklin street on the way to the Faulkner station.

Engineer H. P. Goodwin and his fireman, H. J. Morrow, showed their pluck and remained at their places notwithstanding the danger. The cotton packing around the boiler was soon ablaze and the smoke poured out from the cab in heavy clouds. Pedestrians on the street stopped in amazement and the reflection lighted up the houses, bringing many people out of doors to learn the cause.

Goodwin ran the train to the Faulkner station, where it was sidetracked. The locomotive detached and the fire extinguished. The accident caused a delay in the schedule for only one track, that for inbound trains, was available for some time. Trains bound in both directions were run over that track.

While many of the passengers were aware of the fire, there was little excitement and no one was injured. The engine was hauled to the Boston repair shops and it will cost about $1000 to put it back in shape.

THE BOYS' CLUB

Officers Chosen by the Directors

The directors of the Lowell Boys' club held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon and re-elected the following officers: President, William S. Southworth; vice president, Franklin Nourse; secretary, Greenleaf C. Brock; treasurer, Lewis B. MacBryne; auditor, Ralph F. Brazer, trustee for three years, John J. Pickman.

James H. Stewart, the superintendent of the club, presented the following interesting report:

"The attendance for the past three months has been very good, having an average of more than 200 boys per night. In November the attendance was not as large as it generally is, probably on account of the fine weather, but in December our rooms were crowded every evening, making our average about the same as in other years. On the night before Christmas we distributed some 270 bags of oranges, candy and popcorn to as many boys, and on the following Monday gave the balance of the 300 bags made ready to boys who were not there on Christmas eve."

"The classes in carpentry, cobbling, cane-sewing and sign-lettering are running as usual, with as much interest as in previous years. The carpentry class is finishing a few tables for games which were needed."

"The cobbling class is mending an average of four pairs of shoes per night, two nights a week, and the boys are getting so that they can do pretty fair work now. The cane-sewing and sign-lettering classes are both much interested in their work, and are showing quite an improvement."

"There are 17 teams of boys in two basketball leagues, playing a series of games which prove very interesting. There has been one team from Charlestown here to play our boys, resulting in a victory for Lowell by 42 to 3, and tomorrow night there is arranged a game with a team from East Boston, and next week another from South Boston, thereby keeping up an interest in basketball as well as in the club."

"Each Saturday afternoon our rooms are open for the boys, and we have an average of 50 boys coming to enjoy the dumbbell drill, and parallel bar exercises as given by a young man from the Y. M. C. A."

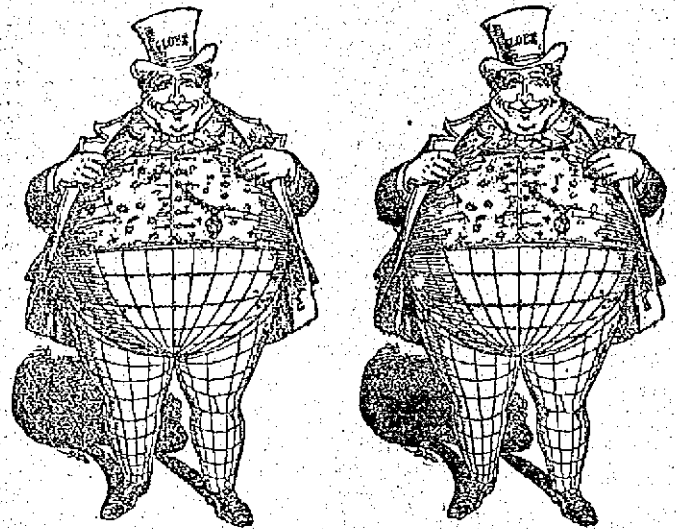

"There have been added to our membership this fall 108 boys, 25 with but one parent, four work in mills, four at other employment, one out of employment, 100 under 14, eight over 14, 37 Catholic, 11 Protestant, 50 Irish, seven Portuguese, seven American, 10 English, 16 French, six Polish, one Belgian, one Armenian, 23 at Catholic schools, 67 at public schools."

"There were but few boys before the court this quarter. Five truants were sent to the Training School, three were put on probation, and two were dismissed."

"The new checker tables made by the boys have been greatly appreciated, and very seldom any one of the 12 tables is not in use."

"We have now 20 of Alger's books for boys, and they have been largely in demand; there being more boys reading this winter than any year we have been open."

THE FIRST LINK A SELF MADE MAN

Is the New Senator
From Ohio

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 7.—Twenty-five hundred people, including many prominent in state and national affairs, tendered yesterday a public celebration of the completion of the first link of the proposed inland waterways from Maine to Florida, on the banks of the waterway near Beaufort, N. C.

The celebration was preceded by a parade of naval and government boats, headed by the revenue cutter Phinix, while probably one hundred gasoline launches brought up the rear.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly, welcoming the visitors and paying tribute to Captain Earle I. Brown, corps of U. S. engineers in charge of the work, who declared the waterway officially open.

The canal has been under construction since 1907 and was completed last December. It shortens the distance from Oriental, Newbern and other points to Beaufort and southern ports about 90 miles and gives double the depth of water. The canal is 90 to 250 feet wide and 10 feet deep at mean low water, while at high tide it will give about 12 feet. The length is 20 miles, five of which were cut through dry land, the remainder by dredging and straightening Adams and Cares creeks. The canal gives an inside route to coastwise vessels, enabling them to avoid treacherous Hatteras and Cape Lookout.

MEDICINE HAT

AROUSES KIPLING'S WRATH

(From the Emporia Gazette.)

The town bearing the above unique name is greatly exercised over the fact that the name is used in a flippant way by newspapers all over the country. It is a venerable joke that the blizzards all come from Medicine Hat.

In the days when that burgh was small and struggling, and peopled by pioneers, nobody cared for this; in fact, the hardy settlers enjoyed it; they were glad to have the village advertised in any connection.

But Medicine Hat has grown, and now it has a commercial center, and the real estate agents are numerous, and extremely jealous of the reputation of the place. The real estate agents and prominent business men have come to the conclusion that the town never will be taken seriously so long as it bears the name of Medicine Hat, and they are talking of changing the name to something modern, something of a name must be worth seeing. Ever since then he has had an affectionate regard for the border town with the queer Indian name. So when the story reached him he sat down and opened a cold pin bottle of green ink, and took his pen in hand, and wrote a scolding letter to the prominent business men of Medicine Hat. Following is a part of the letter:

"To my mind the name of Medicine Hat has an advantage over all the names I have heard quoted. It echoes the old Cree and Blackfoot tradition of red mystery and romance that once filled the prairies. Also it hints. I venture to think, at the magic that underlies the city in the shape of your natural gas. Believe me, the very name is an asset, and as years go on will become more and more of an asset. It has no duplicate in the world. It makes men ask questions, and as I knew more than twenty years ago, draws the feet of the young men toward it. Men do not think much of a family which has risen in the world changing its name for social reasons. They think still less of a man who, because he is successful, repudiates the wife who stood by him in his early struggles. I do not know what I should say, but I have the clearest notion of what I should think of a town that went back on itself."

There is the case for the defense, advanced as only Kipling could, and vance it and may be hoped that the real estate agents and prominent business men of Medicine Hat will quit their foolishness and permit their town to glory in the name that has become a household word all over the world. The largest town in Kansas once had a pretty, poetic Indian name that was known everywhere. "Wyandotté" was as well known as Denver or Omaha. When the town bore that name it had an individuality; it occupied a distinct place on the map; when men mentioned it, it was not associated with any other town. No other town of any consequence had the name. It should be valued as a priceless possession. It was a trademark, and a most attractive one.

For some reason that only the gods can understand that charming distinctive name was abandoned, and the town deliberately assumed a name that marked it forever as a mere suburb of a city in Missouri. Wyandotté became Kansas City, Kan., and ever since the change was made the town has been a nonentity. Kansas City regards it as a poor relation, and the state of Kansas is always wondering why the town doesn't move across the river and be done with it. A woman when she marries, can change her name without sacrifice of dignity or self-respect, but a woman is the only creature under the sun that can do it.

BIG "MOTOR BOAT"

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A steamship line playing a wily game with Russia announced yesterday that it will put into commission next September an 11,000 ton trans-Atlantic "motor boat" equipped with internal combustion engines and accommodations for 400 passengers. The ship is now building on the Clyde.

One of the German lines has also building two 800-ton motor driven freighters.

The outcome of this experiment will be watched with the keenest interest, not only by the merchant marine, but by the navies of the world. If it proves a pronounced success the days of steam will be counted as numbered.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 7.—Lieutenant Governor-elect Allen Pomerene, progressive democrat, will be the next United States senator from Ohio. Pomerene is a self-made man. He was born at Berlin, O., forty-seven years ago, a poor boy. He worked his way through school and through Princeton. He practiced law in Canton. In 1908 he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor and was defeated by Harmon. In November he was Harmon's running mate. He is married, but has no children. Pomerene will qualify Jan. 9 and preside over the senate until he goes to Washington on March 4. Through Pomerene's selection a coal miner may become governor of Ohio. William Green, president pro tem, of the senate, will succeed to the office of lieutenant-governor. Should Governor Harmon become the democratic candidate for president, he probably would resign as governor, and Senator Green would succeed him. Green was a former president of the Ohio miners.

JURY'S FINDING
Cumberland Couple

CUMBERLAND, Md., Jan. 7.—"Came to their deaths by means unknown to the jury."

This was the conclusion reached by the 12 men who for nearly five hours last night heard testimony relative to the deaths last Saturday of Grace Blosser and Charles T. Twigg, whose dead bodies were found by Mrs. Blosser, the mother of the dead girl, on a sofa in the parlor of the Blosser home. The tragedy occurred less than 20 hours prior to the time that had been set for the marriage of the victims.

One of the points brought out was that May Blosser, one of Grace's sisters, had, after helping her mother carry Grace's body from the parlor to a bed in a room in the rear, herself been seized with illness which showed symptoms of poisoning by hydrocyanic acid.

No connection between this and the deaths of the others, however, was apparent by the questioning of the witnesses.

There was abundant testimony that careful examinations of the bodies by medical men and chemists showed that cyanide of potassium caused the deaths of Twigg and Grace Blosser. How the poison was brought into the house is still a mystery.

DOCTORS FIGHT

Manchester

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 7.—Two well-known physicians of the city, Dr. J. E. Eldridge of 604 Harvard street, with offices at 1235 Elm street, and Dr. Gustave Lafontaine of 1132 Elm street, which is also his office address, clashed in a professional dispute yesterday morning, and after it was all over the latter was nursing a black eye.

The argument took place in the office of Dr. Lafontaine. It consisted of a brief verbal passage-at-arms and a blow from the fist of Dr. Roy. The only spectator was Joseph Gagnon, a patient of both practitioners. According to the accounts given by the doctors to their friends and partisans and the testimony of the eyewitness, the story is quite exciting.

Dr. Roy for some weeks has been attending Mr. Gagnon, who has been ill. Mr. Gagnon belongs to a lodge of which Dr. Lafontaine is the medical examiner. He went to Dr. Dr. Lafontaine yesterday to get a certificate from him to present to the secretary of the lodge for the purpose of qualifying himself as having recovered from his illness. Dr. Lafontaine asked him who was his doctor and on being told it was Dr. Roy, Dr. Lafontaine is said to have made disparaging remarks about Dr. Roy, which were repeated to the latter, and the encounter followed.

Dr. Lafontaine then preferred charges against Dr. Roy and the latter, it is anticipated, will be tried in police court. Dr. Lafontaine is a member of the board of health and weighs 110 pounds. Dr. Roy is a heavy weight, tipping the scales at the 300 notch.

PROSPEROUS YEAR

OF "LUXURIES"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—That the year 1916 must have been a reasonably prosperous one in the United States is indicated by the figures of importation of the class of articles usually termed "luxuries." No more satisfactory barometer of general business conditions is found than the figures representing the importation of articles purely or chiefly luxuries, including diamonds and other precious stones, furs, art works, wines, tobacco and manufactures thereof, and other articles of this character. This is illustrated by a glance at the yearly record of imports as recorded by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. In years of marked depression, 1894 and 1895, for example, the value of diamonds and other precious stones imported dropped from 16 million dollars in 1893 to 5 1/2 million in 1894, 7 1/2 million in 1895, and about 6 1/2 million in 1896; gradually moving upward again until 1899 and 1900 and reaching 32 million in 1902 and 42 million in 1907. In the fiscal year 1908, a year of business depression, the total fell to 16 1/2 million dollars, returning to 23 million in 1909 and 45 million in the fiscal year 1910, while the figures of the calendar year will not materially differ from those of the fiscal year.

The figures of diamond importations above cited are merely an example of the evidences of prosperity supplied by the figures of imports. In autos, art works, furs, lace, feathers, furs, wines and liquors, tobacco, decorated chinaware, and numerous other articles named in the list of importations, the figures of 1910 are large, and the importations of articles usually classified as "luxuries" will show a total of between 200 and 300 million dollars value. Of lace and embroidery alone the value imported during the year just ended approximated 45 million dollars, a very large proportion of which was of cotton. This class of importations also shows considerable fluctuations according to conditions of prosperity or otherwise, though the fluctuations are not as great as in the case of diamonds.

The value of cotton laces, embroideries, etc., imported in the fiscal year 1913 was 12 1/2 million dollars and dropped in 1914 to 8 million dollars. Again in the 1907-8 period of depression, the value of importations of this class dropped from 39 1/2 million dollars in the fiscal year 1907 to 33 1/2 million in 1908, returning to 34 1/2 million in 1909 and 30 1/2 million in 1910.

Among the other articles of importation in 1910 which are usually classified as luxuries are: Silk laces, 4 1/2 million dollars; laces of flax and other similar fibers, 4 million; tobacco, cigars, etc., 23 million; furs and fur skins, 25 million; art works, 21 million; spirits, wines and liquors, 20 million; feathers and flowers, natural and artificial, 41 million; laces, 8 million; mahogany, 3 1/2 million; jewelry, 2 million; manufactures of gold and silver, 2 million; and beads and ornaments, pertumories, cosmetics, shells, corals, pipes and smokers' articles, and musical instruments in various sums between 1 million and 2 million dollars each.

The principal sources from which these luxuries are drawn are, in the case of manufactures, Europe; in the case of tobacco, mahogany, and other articles of this class, the tropical sections; while the 25 million dollars' worth of furs and fur skins originate largely, of course, in the frigid or semi-frigid sections of the world. Most of the imported laces, whether of cotton, flax, or silk, are made in Switzerland, France, Germany, and Belgium. England, and Ireland, most of the tobacco and cigars come from Cuba; most of the art works, from various European countries, and most of the toys, from Germany.

SUPREME COURT
Finds Street Railway
Co's. are Liable

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Street railway companies are liable for injuries sustained by passengers who may be injured in seeking to alight from a car in the face of a crowd boarding it and also for injuries due to a passenger slipping on the car step, according to a decision handed down by the full bench of the supreme court yesterday. The court had before it the cases of Katherine Glendon and Mary R. Kingston. The former was attempting to leave a car of the Boston Elevated Railway company and was forced back and injured by the crowd rushing to get seats while the latter slipped on mud, which had accumulated on the car step, as she was alighting and fell to the ground. Both cases came to the supreme court on exceptions.

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

The Pickout board of the Lowell Textile school announces the following prizes for the best short story and best sketch of the school:

Five dollars for the best short story, poem or single relating to school life or individuals in the school either humorous or otherwise.

Five dollars for the best sketch, picture or drawing relating to school life or individuals in the school either humorous or otherwise.

The entries will be judged by the Pickout board as a whole, and the awards made strictly on the merit of the entry. The editors cannot complete for these prizes.

The editor, E. B. Chisholm, will have in the office of the Pickout board daily except Wednesday and Saturday from 1:15 to 2 p. m. to give additional information or receive entries.

D. F. McMahon of Fitchburg will coach the baseball team this season. He has been playing professional ball for a number of years and has coached several academies and high school teams. He is said to be an excellent coach.

EVENING FROCKS AND WRAPS OF SUBTLE BEAUTY THIS SEASON

ONE may say all kinds of uncomplimentary things about the costumes for street wear this winter, but the evening gowns and wraps are charming things, and to modish costumes of this kind the unbiased critic will take off his hat to Mme. la Mode.

In spite of all the reckless extravagance of evening dress it is possible to be gowned according to the last word at comparatively small expense. The flowered white silks, need no trimming beyond a bit of lace, satin or fur trimming on the bodice, and the changeable taffetas overhung with chiffon, mousseline or gauze and belted with an effective contrast leave nothing to be desired. And the much used Byzantine embroideries and barbaric effects can be achieved in leisure moments by the skillful worker in dress adornments.

A word to the wise. Here is the way a clever young woman turned ordinary gold colored tulle into a dress adornment worthy of the genius of Pierrot. She applied irregular bits of rose and gold colored brocade ribbon to the tulle and outlined them with fine gold and silver cord. A few of the larger bits of silk she covered with gold net, and on some of the smaller ones she sewed a copper colored paillette or a steel one, and now and then she added a tiny knot of black silk. As fancy moved her she added a novel touch, and while the design displayed no regularity it was perfectly harmonious in tone. After the work was finished it was applied to a long tunic which had been previously cut the required shape. The edges of the tunic were finished with a three-inch fringe of gold colored glass beads. This tunic the girl wears with three different sheaths, one of deep copper colored satin, one of Nile green and one of black velvet.

Every one knows this late in the season that drapery and suppleness are the chief characteristics of evening frocks. All the materials parade of a gauzy, filmy nature, and even the velvets used for these gowns are reduced to a wisp of shimmer and sheen. It certainly sounds stiff and uncompromising to say that a dinner dress is composed of velvet, metal lace and embroidery, but in reality the mingling is delightfully soft and pliant. Satin plays a large part in the gowns of the winter, both for street and evening, and for the latter it is veiled by chiffon and touched off by metal lace. As for fur, that trims everything from a negligee to a ball gown.

The idea of colored chiffon or mousseline over gold colored tulle or white chiffon for evening dresses trimmed with gold or silver lace is an insistent note of Dame Fashion. And often even in gowns of very gorgeous effect the outer veiling is wonderfully simple, all the spectacular elements being relegated to the foundation. Black and gold creations with an elaborate, almost barbaric display of bullion in the foundation may be covered simply with tulle or chiffon. The skirt of such a costume is nearly always weighted with a band of fur, generally skunk.

One might say that empire lines are the favored ones of the best designers of evening gowns, and almost all of the waist lines are shortened, if not decidedly short. In sleeves the choice seems to lie between short loose effects or shoulder straps or chains of some sort and a little fold of tulle by way of a sleeve apology.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

WRAP OF CHIFFON VELVET.
GORGEOUS is the term that applies to this evening wrap of shot chiffon velvet trimmed with ermine and point de venise lace. The effect is rich, although not overelaborate.

FROCK IN EMPIRE EFFECT.
FUR plays a leading part in the smart evening frock, and the pelt of the sable variety adorns this empire evening frock of a lovely shade of wild rose.

DANCING FROCK OF NET.

A RESTAURANT COSTUME.
THE restaurant costume has a distinctive place in the season's wardrobe, and the creation illustrated is of this cult in wine colored charmeuse hemmed with velvet.

GIRL'S EVENING GOWN.
THIS charming gown is of rose brocade and crystal bead embroidery. The sash is of carnation red moire, and a cabochon of crystal beads completes the costume.

FOR THE CONVALESCENT.

PERHAPS what convalescence demands—and is most frequently grudging—is leisure. Severe sickness leaves languor and weariness behind, and satisfactory mending does not sensibly diminish either the acuteness or duration of these sensations. Therefore, because there is much time to dispose of, a good nurse will be wise to protract all that is pleasant. She need not be hurried or seem hurried, as if wanted elsewhere. The patient likes to feel her thoroughly at command, brisk and to do her bidding, but in harmony with the kind of lazy will being which it is the perfection of convalescent nursing to insure. From the earliest days of getting well the morning toilet provides excellent opportunity for happy dawdling. Everybody who has gone through an elementary nursing course has learned the principle of washing by degrees, so that no part of the body runs the risk of being chilled. But while adding to sound instruction in the main very seldom is the justification for all the toilet luxuries, vanities and extravagances included in the course. The drops of aromatic essence for a final sponging, sweet scented soaps and powders, dainty dentifrices—the appreciation for all of which, please note, depends not at all upon age or sex. The patient who does not care a pin how he or she looks is often on the brink of one of those fits of depression common to convalescence which occasionally end in tragedy. An interest in becoming dressing gowns, ribbons, hairdressing or shaving is the best of signs, and the nurse should be an insidious flatterer while wary that the right light falls on the patient's mirror.

WHAT'S YOUR COLOR?

The girl who believes in good luck charms or likes to think that she does will want to know about her particular astral color.

It is supposed to be both becoming and charmed with good fortune for the wearer; but, however that may be, here are the colors for each month:

The girl who was born in January should wear green.

The February girl may choose all shades of pink.

Purple is for the March girl. She will feel the most comfortable and cheerful with purple things about her.

The April daughter can wear red, and especially rose red.

The special color for May is blue, and the girl born in this month should choose jewelry and clothes of light tints of blue. This girl is supposed to be sensitive.

Bronze green is for the June girl, which is apt to make her a little melancholy.

Light red is the color for July and deep blue for the girl born in August.

Yellow is for the girl born in September.

If you were born in October you will take the greatest comfort in wearing brown, while if November is your month you may choose a light gray.

Instead of the gray holiday colors the girl who is born in December should choose mauve. It will bring her luck and love and other good things.

WHEN STONING RAISINS.

Many people dislike stoning raisins because of the unpleasant stickiness. This can be quite prevented by rubbing a little butter on your finger and on the knife before beginning.

THINGS ONE HEARS NOWADAYS

"WHEN my sewing machine gets cranky," said a woman who makes many of her clothes, "I humor it almost as I would a cross child. In the first place, I make up my mind to turn my attention to hand sewing, for a cranky machine stays cranky sometimes for a day or so. After folding up and putting away all I have ready for stitching I give the machine a thorough cleaning inside and out; then I oil it, loosen the tension, take off the belt and shut it up to get over the sulks. When you think it over it is only a matter of justice and gratitude that a machine should be humored occasionally and given a rest and an oil bath and left to enjoy the peace of disuse for a day or two. When oiling a machine I run it quite fast between the doses, so that the oil will be worked into the joints, so to speak, and the last dose I make a very generous one, spreading newspapers on the floor all round the stand to catch the drip. With machine oil I always mix a little kerosene. That keeps the other oil from clogging."

Says a man who has recently discovered that his better half has taken advantage of the concealing grace of a tunic drapery to have two real and welcome pockets inserted in the under portion of the skirt on several of her fall frocks:

"The return of the prodigal, the return from Elba, are as nothing to the latest return of the pocket to women. The affairs mentioned have created some slight stir in the world, but this threatens to create a revolution. In future a conversation with a woman friend will not include picking up her pocket handkerchief at least three times. When one takes out one's wife she will not cry out at every turn: 'Oh, dear, where is my bag? I must have dropped it in the cab or the shop.' Those who wish to keep women down should never have allowed pockets to them. Properly considered, the possession of a pocket is a greater stride on the path of independence than the winning of the vote."

A USEFUL NOVELTY.

A little cup shaped like a very long thimble attached to a slender wire is a novelty that is used for taking the cream from milk bottles without trouble or waste. For keeping milk bottles covered a very nice strong cap of aluminium is sold that is a joy to the housekeeper who dreads germs.

CANDY FOR THE LITTLE FOLK

A SMALL amount of pure, wholesome candy is good for the little folk, and when made at home from tested recipes such as the following the sweet is not injurious:

Popcorn Candy.—Make a common molasses candy. Grind nicely popped corn in a coffee mill or meat chopper, and when the candy is ready to be taken from the fire stir in as much of the ground corn as the sirup will hold. Pour into a buttered tin and when slightly cool mark off in squares.

Pulled Candy.—Take a pound of granulated sugar and about a cup and a third of boiling water. Roll until quite thick and test in ice water. Then add one quart of New Orleans molasses, one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and boil until the mixture will harden in ice water. Stir in a small half teaspoonful of soda and then pour into buttered tins to cool. When it can be handled grease the hands with butter or moisten them with ice water and pull the candy into long white strips. Cut some in finger lengths. Braid it or cut in inch lengths and twist up in colored cello paper.

Apples on a Stick.—These give all day pleasure to any candy loving child. Choose small tart apples that will not cook soft quickly. Stick a wooden skewer or slender stick in each and coat them in the following sirup: Boil two pounds of brown sugar with just enough water to dissolve until it is stringy. Dip in the apples and turn about until they are well coated. Cool them by resting the stick close to the apples, on the edge of the pan, or if you have a cake cooler place it over a deep pan and put the sticks through the wires and let the apples cool.

Tao-tac.—Put one cupful of granulated sugar in a boiler with one tablespoonful of butter and three tablespoonfuls of water. Boil until it almost candies; then add three cupfuls of nicely popped corn and stir rapidly until the corn is well coated with the sirup. Remove from the fire and cool a bit, stirring until each grain is coated. While hot roll it in balls or form into little pyramids or pat into round cakes.

ARIATION OF THE UBIQUITOUS MUSHROOM.

A DINNER BELLE.

She is a small china lady about a foot high with a frock in some pale shade, blue or salmon or yellow, also of the china, made in the style of hoop skirt days. When she is picked up and shaken a little china leg inside kicks its foot against the side and makes a pleasant tinkle. She is simply a novelty in dinner bells.

Treatment of Corns and Bunions

IT is a strange and much to be deplored fact that but few women pay sufficient attention to the care of their feet. Many who are most particular about the proper manicuring of their finger nails fail to realize that pedicure is of as great importance in their daily toilet as manure and that the irritation and discomfort caused by corns, bunions and ingrowing toenails are detrimental both to their health and general nervous system. To treat a hard corn successfully a sharp knife should be used to pare away all the hard skin, commencing at the outer edge and working toward the center. No rough edges should be left. To prevent this an emery board may be gently passed over the surface, but great care must be taken while using the knife that it does not cut the skin and draw blood. When the surface is perfectly smooth rub a little vasoline upon it and cover with a pad of charmol leather cut in a round with a tiny hole in the center to fit the corn. Continue this treatment every other day until cured. To remove a soft corn soak the feet in warm water and after drying thoroughly rub a mixture of equal parts of oxide of zinc and vasoline upon the corn, then place a pad of cotton wool between the toes. This should be done for two or three days. The portions of hardened cuticle which cannot be cut away may be removed with a pair of tweezers. After removing the corn paint with a mixture of belladonna and iodine in equal parts (about one dram each will be sufficient). If the corn be inflamed it is best to apply a soothing poultice before commencing treatment. When the poultice has been removed and the skin dried take a wet pad of cotton wool and thoroughly cleanse the bunion, pare away the callous skin and apply the same mixture of oxide of zinc and vasoline which was recommended for the soft corn. For an ingrowing toenail saturate a piece of cotton wool with a mixture of one-third of carbolic acid and two-thirds of glycerin and work in the cotton wool gently under the nail, using an orange stick. This cotton wool should be changed night and morning until the cure is complete.

ENORMOUS MUFFS.

More gigantic than ever are the muffs of the season. Not only are they very deep, but very wide as well. The openings are quite large and not puckered up or gathered in any way. This new style is called the "barrel" muffs and is somewhat of a revival of the huge affairs of the directorate period.

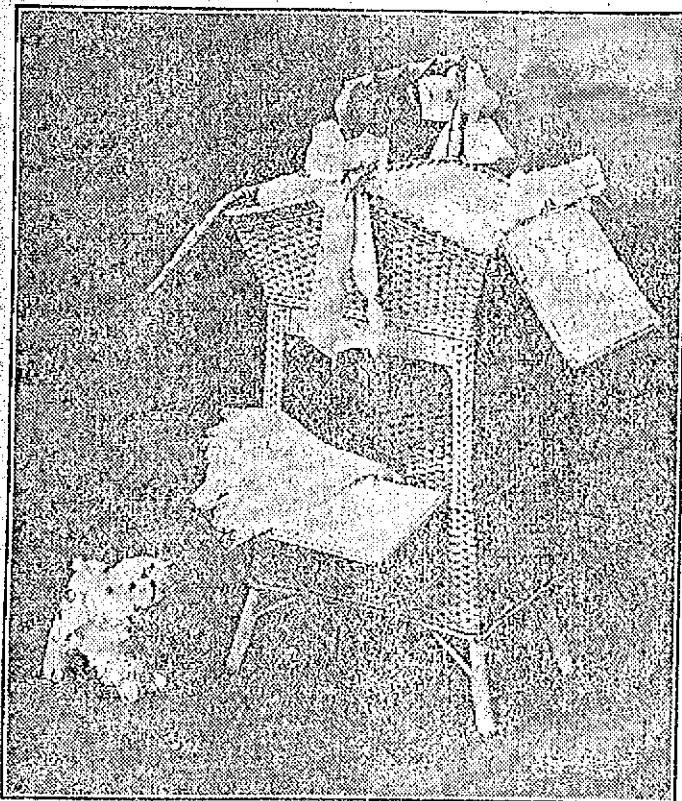

Often two furs are combined, similar in color, but different in texture, the center of one skin and the ends or border of another.

ORIENTAL RUGS.

A woman who is the possessor of beautiful oriental rugs says she never allows them to be beaten or shaken. Instead they are brushed with a soft brush, wiped with a damp cloth and laid in the shade to air. If the rugs have a light delicate background she cleans them by sprinkling them with a powder made of six parts of cornstarch and one part of whiting. This remains on the carpet for several hours and is brushed off lightly with a whisk-broom and then with a very soft brush.

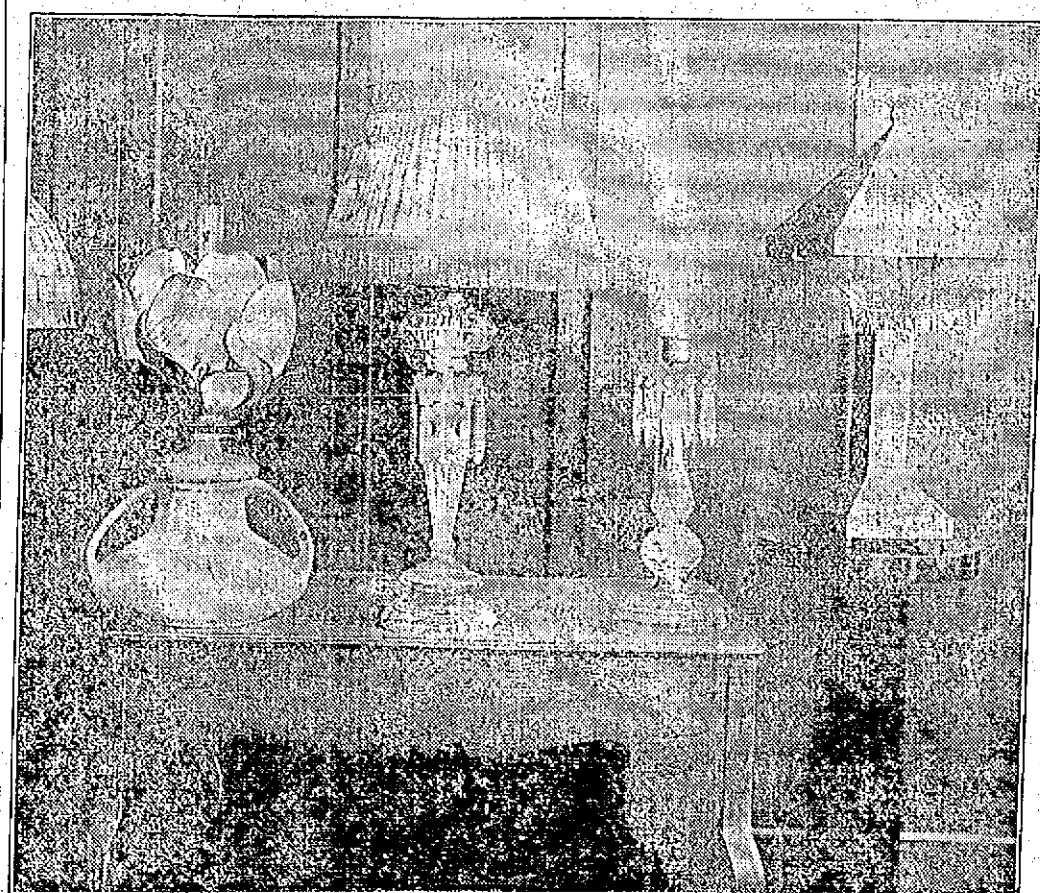

GIFT FOR LUCKY BABYKINS

A LUXURIOUS LAYETTE BASKET.

VERY lucky is the mother who received as a layette gift one of these convenient and dainty baskets. Underneath the dressing basket is a deep receptacle, in which the little garments may be kept conveniently at hand, and both dressing basket and wardrobe beneath are provided with satin lined doors that close tightly, keeping dust from the dainty interior. This basket is trimmed with pink satin, and smart bows of pink ribbon are tied to the handles.

WHAT IS USED IN THE NEW ART LAMPS

GAS, oil and electric lamps in the newest and most approved styles are pictured here. The first model is a bronze gas lamp with a shade of glass in two colors, yellow and orange arranged in squares. Next comes a pretty oil lamp with a lotus flower shade in dull pink and green. The third lamp is a banquet design of crystal with an empire shade of pink silk. Fascinating is the bedroom candlestick with glass prisms, and a wind shield for the flame. A beautiful electrother is also seen in this group of lamps of etched verte copper over green glass, with an iridescent green glass fringe.

PANIC IN CHURCH DEATH SENTENCE

Was Checked by Rev. Fr. Lambert of South Boston
Pronounced on Chester S. Jordan
By Judge Bell

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—A congregation of 1000 persons sat fascinated by fear in the Gate of Heaven church, South Boston, last night and watched the curate put out a fire which threatened a panic with loss of life and the destruction of the church edifice.

The church was crowded and some of the women were about to break into a wild scramble for the exits when the presence of mind of the curate calmed the excited people.

It was just before the evening service in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, when an altar boy came into the sanctuary and lighted the numerous candles set before the main altar and the side altar.

As the congregation watched the altar boy leave and the candles begin to sputter and twinkle, those in the front seats heard the crackling of laurel leaves as a small, fiery string began to climb the festoon.

A thrill of terror ran through the congregation composed mainly of women. They began to shift in their seats and act as if about to leave. Some of the more excitable in the back of the church stood up to get a look at what was causing the commotion in front.

Excited whispers began to be heard on all sides. People uneasily shuffled their feet. The excitement was intense and growing every moment.

Just as a woman in the middle of the church rose to her feet and started to step into the aisle, the Rev. Walter Lambert, the curate, called by some men in the front seat, ran out of the vestry into the chancel and, pulling down the flaming laurel, trampled it under foot.

While the priest and altar boys were pulling down the burning decorations and tiny sparks and smoke were rising from the chancel, P. J. O'Leary, one of the ushers, stepped to the front of the church, assuring the people that there was no danger.

Everyone then quieted down and remained in their seats.

Senator Hoar Presents a Measure for Senatorial Election

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Fourteen bills, the enactment of which organized labor is to demand at the hands of the present legislature, were filed at the state house late yesterday afternoon by John Weaver, Sherman, legislative counsel for the state branch of the American Federation of Labor.

Included in the number are five referring to injunctions and proceedings under them and three having to do with hours of labor.

In the first class comes the bill which has several times been introduced, regulating the meaning of the word "conspiracy"; that relative to the imposition and collection of fines by trade unions or other associations; relative to the proceeding for the punishment of the violations of injunctions; an act to allow peaceful persuasion and one setting forth in detail methods by which communications may be held with applicants during strikes, lockouts and labor disputes.

The hour bills include the eight-hour, the six-hour bill for women and children, and one changing the hours of labor for street car men from 10 hours in 12 to nine hours in 11.

Initiative and Referendum
The initiative and referendum bill is again introduced, with a change clearing up an ambiguity in last year's bill; it now provides that the initiative shall be set in motion by not less than 8 per cent. of the vote cast for governor at the preceding election, and the referendum by not less than 5 per cent. The six-hour bill is identical with that introduced last year, and twice defeated by the vote of Pres. Treadway of the senate. Since that time Treadway has announced that he is for the passage of the bill. The eight-hour bill and the public opinion bill are also reintroduced without change.

The hours of street car men bill is introduced as a health and safety measure, and another health measure is that providing for the creation of a commission to have charge of the establishment of homesteads in the country for poor people now living in the crowded city districts.

One of the injunction bills introduced provides that no restraining order or injunction shall be issued unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or to property rights. The "fines" bill seeks to restore to labor unions the right to fine their members, a right which they exercised and supposed they had up to 1908, when it was taken away through a divided opinion of the court.

The other bills introduced are the peaceful persuasion bill, the picketing bill and the bill providing for the registration of barbers.

Special Election of U. S. Senator

In the senate yesterday the following bills were read and referred to election laws: Bill of Senator Roger Sherman Hoar to provide for a special election on the fifth Tuesday following the passage of this act, unless prior to that day the legislature shall have elected a U. S. senator, for popular preference.

To carry out the purposes of this act it is provided that any political party represented in the legislature may hold a caucus of its senators and representatives, which caucus may make one nomination. A nomination may also be made by nomination papers signed by ten members of the legislature who do not attend the caucus of any party. Signatures appearing on more than one nomination paper shall be void as to both.

Certificates of nomination and nomination papers must be filed with the secretary of the commonwealth on the third Tuesday preceding the election, before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The names of the candidates so nominated shall be placed upon the official ballots. The act shall take effect on its passage.

To Judiciary—Bill of Senator Hoar to provide that the defendant in proceedings for an injunction prohibiting the doing of an act of criminal nature shall be entitled to a trial by jury.

Senator George S. Newell introduced the petition of George N. Nichols of Lynn for legislation to provide that shares of stock of an issue approved by the gas and electric light companies shall be sold at public auction.

Senator George Holden of Chelmsford introduced a bill to provide that whoever makes or publishes a false or exaggerated statement of the affairs, pecuniary condition or property of any joint stock association, partnership or individual shall be liable to a penalty of imprisonment for not more than 10 years or a fine of not more than $10,000, or both.

Rep. Murphy of Lowell was appointed clerk of the committee on public service and Geo. H. Stevens of Dracut, clerk of committee on roads and bridges.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

Devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart were held last night in St. John's church at 7:30. A sermon, litany and prayers in honor of the Sacred Heart with benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, were given by Rev. Fr. Doherty.

The installation of the newly elected officers of the St. John's T. A. O. U. lodge will take place in their hall on Thursday night, and will be installed by Deputy Michael Boyle of Lowell.

The ice at Crystal lake is about 12 inches thick and the Boston Ice company will probably start cutting next week.

Saturday, January 7th, 1911, is Quarter Day at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

Wife Murderer Was Calm and Had Nothing to Say to the Court—His Lawyers Will Present Writ of Error to the Court

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—Chester S. Jordan of Somerville, who murdered his wife, Honora C., and severed her body at their home in that city, Sept. 1, 1908, will be electrocuted the week beginning Sunday, March 12, if the sentence of the Middlesex superior court is carried out.

Jordan was brought into the East Cambridge courthouse yesterday afternoon and took his seat in the steel cage at 4.05, after the shuffles which bound him to Court Officer Fred Rhoades and Court Officer George Stiles had been removed.

A conference was going on in the judge's lobby in which Gen. Charles W. Bartlett and J. Harvey Pratt of counsel for Jordan took part. The junior counsel, Jeremiah S. Sullivan, went to the cage and conversed with Jordan.

The subject evidently was a serious one and probably had to do with the conference then being held. Jordan was healthy looking and not pale. After a few minutes' conversation Mr. Sullivan, in response to a summons from Dist. Atty. Higgins, went with the latter to the judge's lobby and joined in the conversation that was going on there.

Jordan in the meantime gazed around the courtroom nonchalant and apparently undisturbed. He nodded at an acquaintance he saw in the seats of the spectators, and just then the jail bell sounded giving notice to the prisoners in the shops to quit work and prepare to return to their cells. At the sound he glanced up at the clock. At 4.13 the door of the lobby opened and Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Higgins came out.

Mr. Sullivan went directly to Jordan again and the conversation was again taken up. Mr. Sullivan evidently telling the prisoner the result of the conference. Jordan evidently was not pleased, for he talked back earnestly, though advancing suggestions. Then, as Gen. Bartlett and Mr. Pratt appeared, he settled back in his seat.

The conference had to do with a proposition to the court to stay the proceedings in order that counsel might have time to prepare a writ of error for presentation to the United States supreme court.

Judge Charles U. Bell, one of the presiding justices at the trial, took his place on the bench at 4.16.

Dist. Attorney Higgins at once offered his motion for sentence. He stated briefly that on May 4, 1909, Jordan had been convicted of murder in the first degree, that exceptions had been filed and a motion for a new trial was heard by the court and the motion overruled. Exceptions to the overruling were taken and the arguments were heard by the full bench, and on January 3 a rescript was handed down again overruling the exceptions.

He moved for sentence. Judge Bell then directed Clerk W. Dillingham to ask the defendant if he desired to say anything.

Jordan stood and answered in a full rich bass voice, "I have not." There was not a tremor in his tones and not an indication in his immobile face. At just 4.19, three minutes after Judge Bell took his place on the bench, the judge stood and, facing Jordan, pronounced the sentence of death, by electrocution, during the week beginning Sunday, March 12, 1911.

The court adjourned and Jordan a moment later was on his way back to the jail.

None of his relatives was present in the courtroom. Dr. George F. Walton, the noted neurologist, was an interested spectator, and the members of the grand jury now sitting at East Cambridge also took advantage of the opportunity to witness the proceedings. A writ of error will be prepared immediately and will be presented by Jordan's counsel to the U. S. supreme court.

FIRST DEBATE

CONDUCTED BY THE F. T. GREEN-HALGE DEBATING SOCIETY

The first regular debate of the Frederick T. Greenhalge Debating society was held yesterday afternoon in room 30, High school. The question under discussion was "Resolved, That the Lowell High School Should Adopt a Standard Plan."

Misses Charlotte Greene and Elizabeth Irish argued for the affirmative, while the negative side was taken by Misses Helen Hunter and Frances Masterson. The judges were Miss Stevens, Miss Kelley and Miss Huntton, teachers of the school, and they decided in favor of the affirmative.

At the conclusion of the debate Principal Cyrus W. Irish gave his opinion on the debate, expressing favor of the adoption of a standard plan.

In the absence of President Randolph Gleason, Mr. William F. Sullivan was elected temporary presiding officer. Next week Friday debate will be held, the subject to be discussed being "Resolved, That the City of Lowell Should Purchase an Athletic Field for High School Sport." The affirmative will be presented by Mr. Carp and Mr. Schilling and the negative by Mr. Roger K. Eastman and Mr. Arthur Sullivan.

MIDDLESEX NORTH

NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS

WERE INSTALLED YESTERDAY

The newly elected officers of Middlesex North Pomona Grange were installed yesterday by Charles M. Gardner of Westfield, master of the State Grange.

The installation exercises were held in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville. The morning session was given over to annual reports and other business. Dinner was served in the lower hall and at 2 o'clock the installation ceremony was carried out. The following officers were installed:

Master, James A. Anthony; overseer, James A. Ruth; lecturer, Mrs. Ellen C. Spaulding; steward, Lester R. Hayward; assistant steward, Fred P. Vincl; chaplain, James Danforth; treasurer, Norman L. Peavey; secretary, Mrs. Lulu M. Hutchins; gate keeper, A. H. Sutherland; Ceres, Miss Blanche Kling; Pomona, Mrs. Mary Anne Anthony; Flora, Mrs. Mary Wheeler; executive committee for boys, Francis O. Dutton. The appointment of Norman L. Peavey of Dracut as a state deputy was announced. The state master said that the order in the state now numbers 30,000 members. After the installation there were songs by Percy Yarnell and Inez Beale.

The Westford Grange held its annual installation of officers and banquet at the town hall, Thursday night. Mrs. Sadie Coburn of Dracut was the installing officer. She was assisted by Mrs. Alice Coburn, also of Dracut. The following officers were installed:

Master, Frank C. Wright; overseer, Mrs. David Greig; lecturer, Mrs. Martha Grant; steward, Mr. J. Henry Colburn; assistant steward, Mr. Fred Colburn; treasurer, Mr. L. W. Wheeler; secretary, Mrs. F. C. Wright; Flora, Mrs. Daisy Colburn; Ceres, Miss Adelle Day; Pomona, Mrs. Ruth Binchell; gate keeper, Mr. A. H. Sutherland; lady assistant stewards, Mrs. Fred Snow; executive committee, W. R. Taylor.

LOCAL NEWS

Tobin's Printery, Associate Building, 275 Lowell St., for printing, 25 Prescott St., J. F. Donohue, Donovan bldg., real estate and insurance. Telephone.

Miss Juliette Brassard has returned from a two-weeks' visit in New Bedford.

Tomorrow will be a great day on Shedd park if the weather is favorable for skating.

P. N. Cossette of Common street is on a trip to Fall River, Providence and Pawtucket, R. I.

Money deposited in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank this week will begin to draw interest Saturday, January 7th.

Miss Alice Moisan of Montreal and formerly of this city is at the bedside of her father, Mr. Onesimo Moisan, who is critically ill at his home, 82 Allen avenue.

At the inaugural exercises last Monday, Mayor McEwen was presented a beautiful bouquet by his cousin, Marie McDermott, daughter of James and Margaret McDermott of 174 Coburn street.

Israel Garand, who was the guest of his former classmate, Dr. Theophilus Laurin of Middlesex street, left last night for Montreal, where he will start in business. Mr. Garand came to Lowell from the Klondike, where he has lived for 13 years.

Robert H. Scott of 238 Chelmsford street, and formerly assistant foreman in Bancroft's piano stool factory has accepted a better position with a similar factory in Union City, Pa. The young man will leave tonight for his new quarters.

Inspector Frank O'Hare of the health department is now occupying the Rowlandson house, corner of Adams and Pleasant streets, having made extensive interior repairs. Mr. Rowlandson is occupying his new residence on Parkview avenue.

Mr. George Lowell Tracy will conduct a musical at Colonial hall Thursday evening, January 19, presenting his pupils, Miss Catherine L. Mullen, Miss Elita B. Thompson, Miss Margaret F. Cavoy and Teresa A. Slattery, assisted by Miss Julia G. Slattery, Mr. Harry Shaw of Boston will be the accompanist and the Harvard male quartet of Boston will assist.

The work of laying the foundation for the Y. M. C. A. building is going merrily along. Of course the weather is not just what the doctor ordered but there is no let up to the work. Unless the weather is very cold the work of pouring the concrete kept up and at night it is well covered with straw to keep it from freezing. Because of conditions encountered that were unexpected it was necessary to make some minor changes in the plans, but as a whole the work is going along quite satisfactorily.

The following marriage intentions were registered at the city clerk's office since the last were published: James N. Comerio, 32, candy maker, Merrimack street, Haverhill, Mass., and Stella M. Vasiliou, 22, operative, 408 Suffolk street, Lowell, 24, operative, 17 Howe street, and Jadovaya Missilons, 21, operative, 20 Howe street, Alfred D. Angier, 24, shoe shop, 5 Coburn court, and Ellen Frances Rourke, 25, hushery, 55 Adams street, Anastasios Kostopoulos, 40, peddler, 32 Woodland street, Chelmsford, Mass., and Helen Macrae, 26, housekeeper, 89 Prince street.

Walter C. Bruce, clerk in the office of the purchasing agent, went a-fishing at Long-Sought-Fish pond yesterday and came home with a nice string of pickerel and perch. He was accompanied by Walter Morse and besides landing a good mess of fish they found a bag in the middle of the road containing 12 bottles, 9 full bottles of beer and three empty ones, in other words, "nine live ones and three dead ones." It was evident that the beer was lost from a wagon as there were no foot prints about while there were some fresh wheel tracks. Neither of the Walters indulged in the beverage that plants its flag on the mountain top above the brains of humanity, and just for that they threw the bag, bottles and all in the bushes. They are ready to inform the thirfty where the bottles can be found.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS SWEEPING CHANGES

Made by Archbishop O'Connell in His Official Family

The most sweeping change in the personnel of the various boards that make up what is known as his official family that he has yet made, was announced yesterday by Archbishop O'Connell.

The boards, as they stood, had in many instances the same membership as before the death of Archbishop Williams. Archbishop O'Connell, when he took charge of the diocese, made very few changes. The new appointments, however, to a reorganization of the first board affected, the diocesan consistory, has half a dozen members, who meet with the archbishop frequently for the consideration of matters of importance. The consistory are not wholly changed, but the new members will preponderate.

The board as now standing will be as follows: Right Rev. Jos. C. Anderson, D. D., auxiliary bishop; Right Rev. Mgr. Jeremiah E. Millerick of St. Joseph's church, West End; Right Rev. Mgr. Denis J. O'Farrell of St. Francis de Sales church, Roxbury; Right Rev. Mgr. Edward J. Moriarty of St. Peter's church, Cambridge; Rev. Fr. Ambrose F. Roche of St. Patrick's church, Waver-tertown, and the Rev. Dr. Patrick J. Supple of St. John's church, Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury.

The board of consultors includes two members who have been particularly interested in the federation of Catholic societies, namely, Rev. Dr. Supple and Rev. Fr. Roche. Dr. Supple is the Suffolk county and Fr. Roche the Middlesex county spiritual directors. Both county organizations have been most active, and their membership is exceedingly large. The six ecclesiastical members are well known. Bishop Anderson and Mgr. Moriarty are associates of the archbishop of years' standing, both having been at St. Joseph's church in the West End. Mgr. O'Farrell and Mgr. Millerick are also well known.

The new board of synodal examiners and for disciplinary causes also comprises six members: Rev. Mgr. M. J. Splaine, D. D., chancellor of the archdiocese; the Rev. Fr. James F. Chittick of the Church of the Most Precious Blood, Hyde Park; the Rev. Fr. Philip J. O'Donnell of St. Philip's church, South End; the Rev. Fr. Leo J. Knapik, D. C. L., of St. Stephen's church, North End; the Rev. Fr. John B. Peterson, professor of moral theology of the faculty of St. John's Ecclesiastical seminary, and the Rev. Fr. William P. Breet, S. J., of the faculty of Boston college.

COLONEL AMES

Claims to Have 30 Votes in Legislature

The Boston Journal Says:

While Congressman Butler Ames declares he is still a candidate for the United States senate, he might be willing, he says, under certain conditions, to deliver the thirty votes, which he claims to control in the legislature, to some other suitable candidate.

The Essex congressman was busy all day at his Parker House headquarters conferring with his lieutenants and with such members of the legislature as he cared to see him. It was noticeable most of those who called yesterday were democrats.

The democratic party is still without a candidate further than Governor Foss, but Chairman Macleod of the State committee believes ex-Congressman John R. Thayer will be the man. A conference will be held early next week of party leaders and some members of the legislature to try and agree upon some candidate, but according to the Foss-Macleod plan it will not have the effect of a party caucus.

Republican members of the General court are greatly encouraged by the prospect of the next week and some of them were free to predict yesterday that not only would Senator Lodge be re-elected, but that it would take only one ballot. Martin M. Lomasney isn't talking much since his defeat, but rumors are reaching the speaker that the Ward 8 member intends to make all the trouble he can this session for the G. O. P. leaders.

JOHN E. REDMOND

Says That the Veto is Doomed

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Herald sends in a despatch from London yesterday:

John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalist party, has written an important article on the new political situation here which will appear in Reynolds' newspaper on Sunday.

Mr. Redmond contends that as a result of the recent election the veto power of the house of lords is doomed; that the premier, Mr. Asquith, has a complete and unequivocal mandate to settle the Irish question finally and with the least possible delay, and that the settlement is to be effected by a concession to the Irish people of full self-government in all purely Irish affairs.

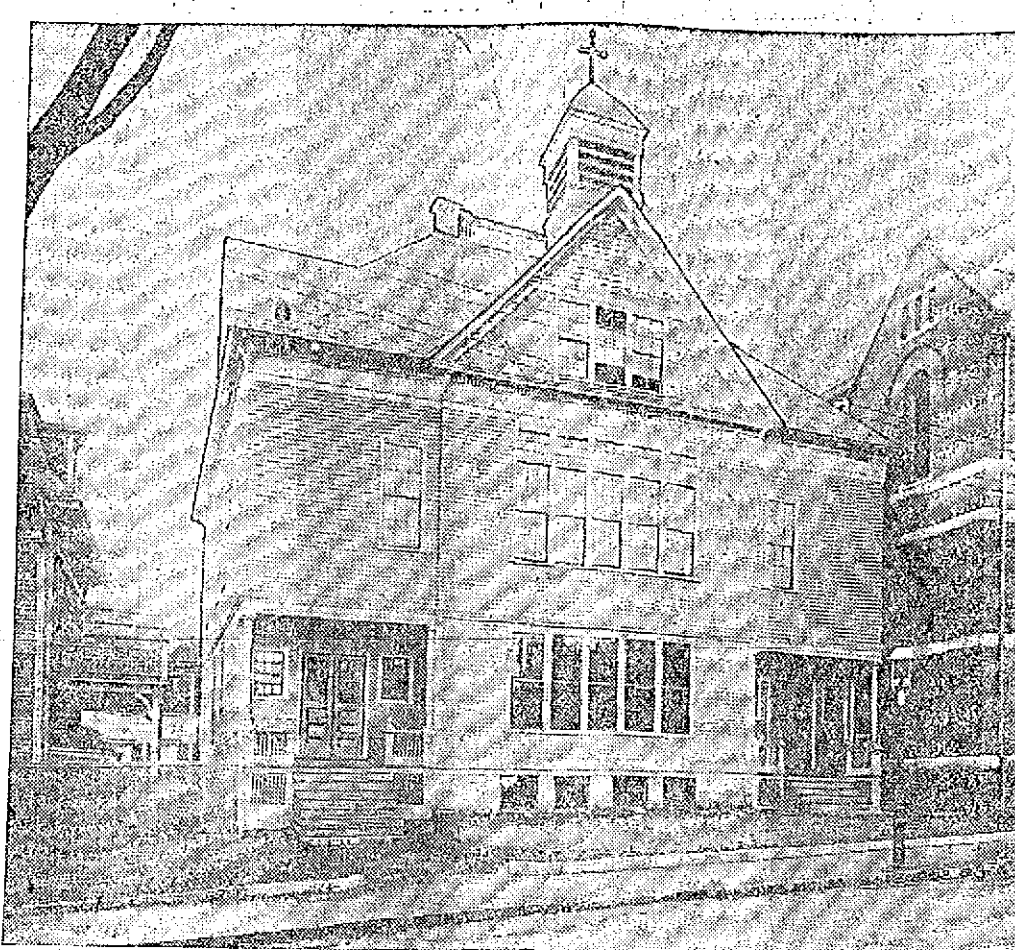

Mr. Redmond appeals to the democracy of Great Britain to assist the Irish nationalists in Ireland. He says that ever since the act of union has compelled the presence of Irish members at Westminster they have been the friends, champions and often the pioneers of the cause of democracy in Great Britain as well as in Ireland.

He declares it is a long time since that their quarrel was not with the overwhelming masses of British people, the enlightened middle classes and oppressed workers struggling manfully toward emancipation, but with an oligarchy of peers, plutocrats and landlords, who have monopolized the power, wealth and land of the country, and who until now were able, by fraud, force, or guile, or by all these combined, to speak and act in the name of the British people.
